Laborers Join Strike; Pickets Out At Buildings

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Work on 100 million dollars worth of construction projects in this area came to a virtual halt yesterday when 3000 AFL building laborers unexpectedly went out on strike.

Activity on the building jobs—Federal and District buildings, office buildings, elevator-type apartment houses, tunnels—had been considerably slowed down Wednesday, when 5000 AFL carpenters walked out.

The carpenters had remained away from the work sites and permitted the other AFL crafts to continue their work assignments. The building laborers, however, threw up picket lines, so that the overwhelming majority of AFL mechanics not on strike failed to show up at their posts because of the traditional reluctance to cross a picket line.

No Signs of Settlement

Thus, the building laborers accomplished in a single day what the carpenters' walkout would have eventually done in a week without the picket lines—shutdown of all union-built construction projects.

There was no indication last night that either the carpenters' strike or the building laborers' walkout could be quickly settled.

The carpenters, who have been getting $2.40 an hour, want a 10-cent-an-hour increase in wages. The building laborers, who are receiving $1.35 an hour, are seeking a 40-cent-an-hour raise. In both instances, the general contractors and subcontractors hiring the employes are standing pat on renewing the old work contract and pay scales.

The building laborers' walkout came as a surprise, both to employers and other building trades unions. Henry Thomas, president of the Building Laborers Local 74, and chairman of the union negotiations committee, wired representatives of the Master Builders Association and the Construction Contractors' Council that the strike was called.

The telegrams were sent out at 10:50 Wednesday night, but the employers' representatives did not receive them until reaching their offices Thursday morning.

100 Drivers Stage Pie Wagon Strike

One hundred sales drivers for the four largest Washington pie manufacturers voted to strike at midnight last night. Approximately 200 other piemaker employes will stay at home today.

Employes of all other bakeries, however, accepted the city bakers' terms of a $4 wage increase, and a $7.50 raise in the guaranteed weekly wage.

N. Y. School Ban Of 'Oliver Twist,' 'Merchant' Sought

New York, June 2 (U.P.).—A suit was filed in State Supreme Court today to force New York's public schools to ban Charles Dickens' "Oliver Twist" and William Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice" on the grounds that they breed anti-Semitism in the "formative minds of immature youth" by portraying the characters Fagan and Shylock in a vicious light.

The suit cites the city board of education's ruling of May 24 banning the magazine "The Nation" from public schools on the grounds that it is an anti-Catholic magazine.

The suit was filed in behalf of Abraham J. Alexander, a Brooklyn businessman, by Attorney Joseph Goldstein, a former city magistrate.

D. C. Bar Offers 3 Candidates For Juvenile Court Judgeship

Mrs. Una Morris J. Warren Wilson Mrs. Elizabeth Cox

Bar Association candidates for Juvenile Court judgeship

The District Bar Association yesterday recommended three candidates for the Juvenile Court judgeship which would be created under pending legislation.

Suggested to Attorney General Tom Clark, who would advise the President as to whom to appoint, were:

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Cox, 2335 20th st. nw., former president of the Women's Bar Association of the District; Mrs. Una Rita Morris, 1601 Argonne pl. nw., assistant corporation counsel for Juvenile Court, and J. Warren Wilson, 5117 45th st. nw., chief assistant U. S. Attorney for Municipal Court.

The Senate already has passed, and a House subcommittee approved, a bill to establish a second judgeship on the juvenile bench. The bill may come up on the House floor June 15.

This measure would allow Judge Fay Bentley to continue as judge during her current term which expires in 1952. She is a voluntary patient in St. Elizabeths Hospital and is not expected to return to the bench.

The bar association has proposed another bill to create a second permanent Juvenile Court judgeship. It is under consideration by the Senate District Committee.

Board Adopts Segregation Compromise

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

The Board of Education yesterday, in effect, instructed its representative on the District Recreation Board to vote for a "compromise" in the segregation issue.

The action appears to doom efforts to end the segregation policy of the Recreation Board on which a vote is scheduled June 14.

After an hour's spirited discussion, the education board tabled, 4 to 3, a motion to instruct its representative to vote for elimination of segregation in all recreation areas and activities. Two members were absent when the vote was taken.

The representative, Albert M. Steinem, one of those who voted for the tabling motion, said afterward:

"I feel I am instructed to vote against the Root proposal (to end segregation) and that I am free to vote for a compromise. I am inclined to vote for that compromise and probably will do so."

The motion to table, made by Adelbert W. Lee, was voted for by Lee, Mrs. Philip Sidney Smith, Steinem and C. Melvin Sharpe, president of the Board of Education.

Voting against were George E. C. Hayes, John Wilson and Mrs. Velma G. Williams, the three Negro members. Hayes made the original motion to instruct Steinem to vote for an end to segregation.

Steinem told reporters he personally would prefer to see the whole matter settled at a public referendum of District citizens. He did not bring up the suggestion at the meeting, however.

During the discussion, Steinem said he thought it would be best to see how this summer's "experimental" use of two playgrounds on a mixed basis works out before taking any further action.

Sharpe declared that to "follow through" the law relating to segregated schools in the District "you've got to remind yourself of the logic" involved when considering the recreation matter.

Steinem told the members he wanted some instructions on how to vote at the June 14 Recreation Board meeting. At that time the board is scheduled to vote on a proposal by Irving C. Root, super-

County Votes Slot Machine Cash Payoff

The unofficial complete returns from all 46 precincts were: 6325 for legalization and 5409 against.

Only 26 per cent of the 45,000 eligible voters went to the polls. Both sides had agreed a light vote would mean legalization.

Advocates of legalization picked up an edge in scattered precincts throughout the county. This offset the advantage of opponents in the metropolitan areas, particularly in Hyattsville, College Park, Greenbelt, Branchville, Berwyn, Laurel, and Riverdale.

Campaign Focused on Area

Opponents, mainly the Hyattsville Ministerial Union and the County Civic Federation, had focussed their campaign on the urban area.

Hyattsville residents voted 688 against, 454 for legalization. Greenbelt piled up a 5-to-1 vote against the measure—345 against, 70 for.

The College Park area produced a 3-to-1 "no" vote, 374 against, 102 for. Branchville and Berwyn came up with 280 against, 181 for.

Riverdale voted 8 to 1 against, with only 35 for and 259 against. Laurel voted 296 against, 177 for.

However, in Bladensburg, Mount Rainier, Brentwood and Queens Chapel urban areas, proponents picked up a favorable margin. Added to the prolegalization vote in rural sections, it proved decisive.

711 For, 576 Against

The vote was 711 for, 576 against in Bladensburg, thickly dotted with taverns where the gambling devices are popular and profitable.

Mount Rainier, Brentwood and Queens Chapel in the Chillum area harvested 906 votes for and 781 against.

Lanham, a residential section, yielded 251 votes for and 139 against.

There was hardly any electioneering activity in the county's 46 precincts.

House Group Hears How Berry Used Pressmen's Union Funds

A congressional committee last night began an investigation into activities of the late George L. Berry, one-time United States Senator who headed the International Printing Pressmen's Union for more than 40 years.

At a 2½-hour night session, a House Labor subcommittee questioned union officials to bring out the extent of Berry's payments from the union over a period of many years.

It was brought out that Berry used $165,000 of union funds to build a hydro-electric plant in Tennessee with a number of associates. A group of union members went to court over the matter and a Federal Court judge in 1921 ordered Berry to repay the money in cash.

But the union's 1922 convention "forgave" Berry and his board of directors and, in effect, overruled the court decision.

At another time, $893,000 of funds were used to start the International Playing Card & Label Co. At Berry's death last year, the former union head owned 30 per cent of the card company's stock, according to George L. Googe, a union vice president now in charge of an investigation of Berry's union activities.

Googe testified that the Pressmen's Union has filed no claims on Berry's estate, and feels it has no legal right to do so.

Some union members have declared the union is entitled to a part of the Berry estate, partly based upon the union's money which went into the card company.

Local Union No. 1, which includes pressmen working for the Government Printing Office and commercial printing shops in Washington, has been demanding the U. N. Reveals $85,000,000 Aid Program

By John G. Rogers

Lake Success, June 2 (NYHT).—The United Nations and five of its specialized agencies made public today the first details of a plan to spend tens of millions of dollars to speed the economic improvement of underdeveloped countries.

The plan proposes nearly 36 million dollars worth of know-how instruction to backward countries during its first year of operation, and a budget of nearly 50 million dollars the second year.

As worked out on paper, the plan seeks to help underdeveloped countries to help themselves. Technical experts would be supplied to teach modern methods in the hope that soon the backward countries would graduate from the "poor risk" class and would attract private and other developmental investment.

U. N. Approval Required

Before the project can go into operation, it must be approved by the U. N. Economic and Social Council meeting in Geneva in July, and by the U. N. General Assembly meeting here in September. After that, the U. N. and the five cooperating agencies would have to raise the required fund through an appeal to their member governments to contribute to special budgets.

The U. N. economists who drafted the program did so without knowledge of the size and scope of President Truman's "bold new program," announced last January to achieve the same end. Obviously, the U. N. hopes that when the United States program emerges in detail, at least part of it will be carried out through this new U. N. framework.

The U. N. hopes especially that the United States will give husky financial support to the program announced today.

Beneficiaries Not Named

The United Nations plan does not name or suggest any countries as potential beneficiaries.

Following is a list of the specialized agencies joining the new endeavor, the proposed first year expenditure for each, and some of the fields in which each would supply technical assistance:

International Labor Organization, $4,678,400; social security, industrial safety, worker training, labor migration, and labor problems.

Food and Agricultural Organization, $9,425,456; agriculture, fisheries, forestry and nutrition.

World Health Organization, $9,152,520; malaria control, sanitation; public health administration.

International Civil Aviation Organization, $516,200; development of air navigation and transportation.

U. N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, $6,150,000; elementary, technical and adult education.

The U. N. itself would spend $4,855,500 the first year in fields not covered by the others, for example, transport, power, industrial development, administration and fiscal and statistical services.

The International Refugee Organization, International Monetary Fund, and International Bank for Reconstruction and Development would take part in the program, but they do not expect to ask special funds to do so.

Secret Talks Set Today on Berlin Rule

By Walter Kerr

Paris, June 2 (NYHT).—Dean G. Acheson, American Secretary of State, today asked the Council of Foreign Ministers to try in secret session Friday to agree on the means of establishing one municipal government for all Berlin.

He called for private talks when it became apparent that open negotiation was making no progress. The other delegates, including Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet foreign minister, approved the plan. This means the conference is really getting under way.

All powers now say they want new elections for one municipal body to replace the two that exist in the eastern and western sectors of the city. Their problem is to work out the extent of control to be exercised by a revived four-power control body.

Acheson favors limited interference by the Allies and majority vote in most cases when the Allies disagree. So far, Vishinsky has insisted upon the rule of unanimity (the veto), but discussion has not yet revealed the possibilities of compromise.

Submits 5-Point Program

The U. S. Secretary of State submitted as a basis for negotiation a five-point program. He also agreed to give consideration to a plan previously put forward by the Soviet delegation.

The American paper specifically stated the voting procedure in a control body was to be agreed upon at this session of the council. It indicated opposition to the previous right to approve "resignations and appointments" of a Berlin government. The second point was made to prevent a repetition of the case when the Soviet military governor refused to approve the election of Ernst Reuter as mayor of the city.

The Acheson program, approved by the British and French governments, called for city-wide elections controlled by the four occupying powers under the same electoral system as was employed in October, 1946. This was proportional representation and at that time the Social Democrats polled almost 50 per cent of the votes to less than 20 per cent for the Communists.

These elections would be for a city government operating under the August, 1946, constitution for greater Berlin, except that its "resignations and appointments" would not have to be approved.

Cost Cut Suggested

The new government would draft a permanent constitution. Then the control body would begin to function. A final clause suggested that occupation costs be reduced to a minimum and that they be determined by methods to be agreed upon on a four-power basis.

This proposal differed in one essential respect from an earlier Vishinsky plan. The Russians asked first for a control body, which should select an election date.

The importance of this difference will depend upon the voting procedure for this control organization, as does every other plan to unite a divided Berlin.

This procedure is the essence of the problem that will be studied Friday. There is some slight hope that secret talks may show some flexibility in the positions taken to date.

Direct to Industry

Coming Outlay of $12.6 Billion By U. S. to Bolster Economy

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

About 12.6 billion dollars in 1950 fiscal year Government spending, or nearly a third of the President's budget, will be channeled directly into American business and industry, Government sources disclosed yesterday.

Another 23.5 billion dollars, to be paid out by the Government starting July 1, chiefly for personal services, pensions and interest on the debt, will at least indirectly bulwark purchasing power.

This unique budget breakdown, in advance of actual appropriations by Congress, was cited by some Government economists as an important offset and possible checkmate to current deflationary trends.

There is some reason to believe the appropriation bills themselves will reflect the same general budget divisions, and pass on to the Nation's economy the same "reflationary" props.

All of the regular money bills are now through the House, which set a new record for speed, but only four have cleared the Senate and none has reached the White House.

The House sheared the bills a total of nearly 1.8 billions below budget estimates, but Appropriations Chairman Clarence Cannon (D., Mo.) told The Post none of the cuts will "materially affect" the flow of Government funds into business, agriculture and consumer purchasing power.

"1950 appropriations, in the form they were passed by the House, will continue to exert a tremendously stabilizing force," Cannon said.

A drive for over-all horizontal cuts in appropriations is in full swing in the Senate, but failed dismally when put to the test on individual bills on the Senate floor. In fact each of the four regular supply bills that have passed the Senate and are now in conference—Agriculture, Treasury-Postoffice, Labor-Federal Security and civil functions — have been increased over House figures.

The unofficial estimate that 12.6 billion dollars in the 1950 budget are directly of a "business-sustaining" nature totaled these expenditure items:

Stockpiling	$ 500,000,000
Civil public works	3,261,000,000
Military public Works	300,000,000
ECA procurement in the United States	3,500,000,000
National defense procurement	5,300,000,000

Except for Marshall Plan procurement, which would continue approximately at the present rate, spending in each of these items

Dug Up in Laboratory 'Dump,' May Lead to Missing Powder

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

From a Chicago "graveyard" of radioactive materials, gas-masked workers protected by Geiger counters have dug up the brown bottle which originally contained the uranium-235 that vanished from the Argonne Laboratory in February, the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy announced last night.

Since seven-eighths of the missing atomic bomb material has already been recovered from a different container of reprocessable material at Oak Ridge, Chairman Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) said the loss appeared to be due to "carelessness and negligence."

The suggestion that the University of Chicago's experts look into their own laboratory burying ground for radioactive material was made two weeks ago by youthful William Borden, staff director for the Joint Committee, McMahon disclosed.

Borden, a Yale graduate and author of a semi-scientific work, "There Will Be No Time," found his first job with the committee.

A check still going on at Oak Ridge may turn up the missing one-eighth ounce of U-235, McMahon said.

The exhumation of the missing bottle—one of three buried at the same time—was done in the presence of agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, McMahon said.

Reconstructing what might have happened, on the basis of facts so far reported to the committee, McMahon said that apparently someone in the laboratory had poured the contents of the pint bottle into the can of reprocessable materials bound for Oak Ridge.

The contents were actually a powdered uranium oxide in which were U-235, the fissionable isotope out of which an atom bomb is made, and U-238 in identifiable quantities, being a totally different compound from any other in the laboratory.

The bottle was still further identified, McMahon said, by the handwriting on its label, which Dr. Paul Fields, a laboratory chemist, said was his.

The bottle is still being checked for fingerprints, McMahon disclosed, apparently in the hope of discovering who it was who dumped its contents into the can of material to be reprocessed. Some loss of the precious U-235 can possibly be expected, McMahon indicated, from spilling and so forth as the contents were shifted.

Truman Hits Easy Licenses For Drivers

President Truman complained yesterday that even the insane in his home State of Missouri can get a driver's license in a drugstore for a quarter.

The Chief Executive also told delegates to the third annual Conference on Highway Safety that four men found driving automobiles in Washington "couldn't see an inch in front of their noses."

These four, the President said, got their licenses in "one of those 25 States that don't take care of their populations."

The conference is meeting to work out a program to cut traffic accidents.

The President commended the delegates for developing programs that saved "almost 11,000 lives and prevented injury to nearly 400,000 persons" last year.

"Nevertheless," he said, "the frightful slaughter on our streets and highways continues."

He asked them to help build up sentiment for tightening licensing systems in States where "the laws are pitifully weak."

Departing from a prepared address, he went on to say:

"I am sorry to relate that my great State of Missouri is still in that column. Terrible! Why, a man can go down to a drugstore from an insane asylum and spend a quarter and get a license to drive on any road in that State, if he wants to."

In another departure from his text, the President said:

"It takes years and years, you know, for a man to drive a steam engine down the tracks which it can't get off, yet we let anybody get a driving license for an automobile whether he knows front from back or right from left."

The President said the reduction in accidents achieved thus far has "made this conference worth while."

He deplored the fact that 32,000 persons were killed and more than one million injured in traffic accidents last year.

"You know, over the weekend of Decoration Day, some 429 people lost their lives," Mr. Truman said. "More than half that number were killed in traffic accidents.

"Now, if a town had been wiped out by a tornado or a flood or a fire

Middies' Hats To Fly Today At Annapolis

Annapolis, Md., June 2 (Spl.).—More than 700 Annapolis midshipmen will toss their hats in the air Friday to welcome their status as commissioned officers in the Naval Academy's ninety-ninth graduating class.

Graduation exercises are to be held in sprawling Dahlgren Hall at 11 a. m.

Francis P. Matthews, Secretary of the Navy, will deliver the main address. Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, will administer the oath to 669 new Navy ensigns, 55 Marine Corps second lieutenants and 55 Air Force second lieutenants.

Eleven other first classmen will be graduated without commissions for physical or other reasons. One of these is Midshipman Oscar Bentin of Lima, Peru, who will be commissioned later in the Peruvian Navy.

The academy's ninety-ninth class is headed by Lionel M. Noel, honor man from Elizabeth, N. J., who finished the four-year grind with an academic score of 1055.47 out of a possible 1140.

At the bottom of the list, No. 790 in the standings, is Bernard Samuel Gewirz, 3101 Davenport st. nw. Washington, the 1949 anchor man. Traditionally, the anchor man is hoisted to the shoulders of his classmates and treated to a round of cheers at graduation.

Near the middle of the class is Wesley A. Brown, 1305 Q st. nw., Washington, first Negro to be graduated from Annapolis since the academy was founded in 1845.

Thousands of proud parents and June Week sweethearts will see the graduation exercises.

Scores of graduates will be married this weekend, including 42 at the Naval Academy chapel. After that, the new officers change their dress whites to slate gray uniforms for travel for their first duty stations around the world.

Today, the State of Texas jumped the gun on the United States and commissioned 29 new ensigns. Every man jack from Texas in the graduating class was made an officer in the Texas Navy. Ensigns' certificates were signed by Gov. Beauford H. Jester of Texas, and presented by his daughter, Joan.

Concededly short in fire power, the Texas Navy consists principally of the decommissioned battleship Texas, supported by squadrons of adjectives.

After Eight Years

FCC, Reversing Its Policy, To Allow Editorials on Radio

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

The Federal Communications Commission yesterday reversed a rule of eight years' standing and said radio stations would be permitted to "editorialize" on the air.

Four commissioners joined in voting this reversal of policy. One dissented, and two did not take part.

In a statement, the commission said it now believes radio station owners should be permitted to project their own views on political and other controversial issues.

Owners should not give their listeners only one side of questions, the commission said, and should give the public "reasonable opportunity" to hear opposing positions on "public issues."

The manner in which such programs are to be presented, the commission added, must be determined in each case by the station.

The commission's original ruling, established in 1941, has been under consistent attack by networks and individual stations. It stemmed from an application for renewal of license by station WAAB, operated by the Yankee network at Boston.

The commission questioned the station's practice of broadcasting "so-called editorials from time to time urging the election of various candidates for public office or supporting one side or another of various questions in public controversy." It then said:

"In these editorials, which were delivered by the editor-in-chief of the station's news service, no pretense was made at objective, impartial reporting. It is clear—indeed the station seems to have taken pride in the fact—that the only purpose of these editorials was to win public support for some person or view favored by those in control of the station."

Lies Admitted By Chambers Under Fire of Hiss Counsel

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

New York, June 2.—Defense counsel for Alger Hiss today subjected Whittaker Chambers to a whiplash of cross-examination in attempting to show he lied so often in the past that his spy-ring accusations against Hiss are baseless.

Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief defense attorney for Hiss, drew from Chambers admissions that he lied in obtaining a job with the WPA's national research program in Washington in 1937.

Hammering at Chambers—self-confessed former Communist espionage courier and chief prosecution witness in the perjury trial of Hiss, a former State Department official—Stryker declared:

"Before you obtained that position you took an oath of office . . . to support and defend the Constitution of the United States . . ."

Chambers Admits Lying

"It was false from the beginning to the end, wasn't it?" demanded Stryker.

"Yes, it was," replied Chambers, a former senior editor of Time magazine, in a low voice.

"It was perjury?" Stryker pressed.

"Yes, it was," replied Chambers.

In the trial, now in its third day, Hiss is charged with perjury in denying that he turned over to Chambers secret Government papers which Hiss allegedly obtained through a number of official positions in Washington.

Hiss has flatly denied Chambers' charges that he was a Communist or that he gave Chambers any restricted Government documents.

Case Hinges on Credibility

Both the prosecution and defense stated yesterday that the case will turn on whether the jury—10 men and 2 women—will believe Chambers or Hiss. If the defense can destroy Chambers' credibility as a witness, the case presumably will be lost.

Before the defense took over the cross-examination of Chambers in the closing half-hour of yesterday's session, Chambers elaborated on the charges he first made against Hiss before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, beginning last August.

Following an introduction to Hiss in a Washington restaurant, in 1934, Chambers testified, Hiss began giving him secret documents involving the munitions trade.

At that time, Hiss was a legal assistant to the Senate Munitions Committee, and Chambers said the documents he received were obtained from the State Department through a Mr. Green.

In 1937, Chambers declared he took Hiss to New York for a clandestine meeting with a Russian espionage agent, Col. Boris Bykov,

Senate Building Funds Eliminated By House Group

House-Senate rivalry reached a new peak yesterday when a House Appropriations Subcommittee tentatively eliminated funds for a new Senate office building.

The subcommittee vote, slipping a House oar into the Senate economy drive, is still subject to approval of the full House Appropriations Committee when it meets next week, and later action by the House itself.

Congress last session authorized 20 million dollars for the new Senate office structure. The legislative appropriation bill would have provided the initial 10 million. There has been some sentiment in the Senate for postponement of the building.

Good $2 Seats Still Available For Godfrey Show

No more mail order requests can be accepted, but there are still a flock of good $2 seats available for the star-studded Arthur Godfrey "Homecoming Show" Saturday night at the National Guard Armory.

The Godfrey show is keyed to the National Celebrities golf tournament here this weekend. Both are sponsored by The Washington Post.

U. S. Plane Speeds Exceed 1000 MPH

'Tour' Shelved

President To Stay Here All Summer

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman intends to stay in Washington and work this summer, taking time out for an occasional weekend cruise down the Potomac.

As for the much-talked-about 1949 tour of the "whistle stops"—well, that is on the shelf.

These things Mr. Truman brought out at a White House news conference yesterday in response to questions by reporters. He said also, in effect, that it was risky to try to pass judgment on the work of Congress until its work was over.

Asked about a loan to Spain by the United States Export-Import Bank, the President said bluntly that he was not in favor of it.

The question of Mr. Truman's plans for the summer came up after he had been asked about the legislative program now before the Eighty-first Congress. A reporter wanted to know if there was anything that had been added to his "must" list for this session.

The answer was no, Mr. Truman said, and explained that his must list was embodied in three messages that he sent to Congress—those dealing with the state of the Union, the budget and the economic situation.

A reporter observed that there seemed to be no intention on Capitol Hill of complying with his requests. What would he do if the lawmakers went home without carrying out his program?

Mr. Truman said that nobody could safely reach a conclusion at this time. He went on to say that you can never comment on the work of a session of Congress until it is over.

"Do you intend to stay in Washington as long as Congress does?" he was asked.

He answered, amidst laughter, that he did, and perhaps longer.

The reporter explained that he wasn't referring to "another four years," that he was talking about this year.

Mr. Truman, in reply to questions, said that he had no vacation plans. He might, he said, take some three-day trips on the yacht Williamsburg, such as he took down the Potomac last weekend.

"What happened to that train trip you mentioned several weeks ago?" the Chief Executive was asked.

His answer was that it was still on the shelf and could be used if necessary. But he explained that he had not contemplated making immediate use of such a trip.

The United States now has airplanes that fly 1000 miles an hour, Senator Lyndon Johnson (D., Tex.) said yesterday.

He made the disclosure in urging approval of a 311-million-dollar program to build wind tunnels for research in higher speed planes and guided missiles. Johnson headed a subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee that held executive hearings on the program.

The committee promptly approved the legislation authorizing construction of the additional research facilities. They include:

1. A huge aircraft engineering and test center costing 150 million initially. It would be staffed by 6000 workers in a separate community like Oake Ridge, and ultimately might cost one billion dollars. The site has not been selected, but it must be close to large power resources, such as TVA or the Columbia River dams.

2. A $6,500,000 wind tunnel at the Navy's David W. Taylor Model Test Basin, Carderock, Md.

3. Six other wind tunnels at the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics' research centers costing 150 million dollars. An additional 500 acres of land would be acquired at NACA's Langley Field, Va., center under the bill.

4. Thirteen small wind tunnels to be installed at 13 as yet unselected universities for training young scientists.

Senator Johnson did not disclose which airplanes have flown at 1000 miles an hour, but said his information came from scientists and military leaders who testified during the closed hearings.

It had previously been announced our military research planes have flown "several hundred miles" faster than sound.

The Senator said that some witnesses testified they believe that in six or seven years "we won't have any pilots in our planes." He also said the armed forces are planning to test guided missles that will travel 6000 miles an hour.

Chairman Millard Tydings (D., Md.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the bill has been approved by President Truman, armed forces chiefs and top scientists. It has top priority over all other defense legislation, he said.

Disney Hires Margaret

Hollywood, June 2 (AP).—Margaret O'Brien, who lost her $3000-a-week job at MGM yesterday, was snapped up today by Walt Disney to play the voice of Alice in his cartoon production of "Alice in Wonderland." She starts work Friday.

Ruling Sought On Segregation Ban In 1872 Law

The District Commissioners yesterday requested Daniel B. Maher, special assistant corporation counsel, to prepare a legal opinion on a 77-year-old ordinance prohibiting racial segregation in Washington hotels, restaurants, bars and barber shops.

Maher said last night he had been asked for an opinion, but the Commissioners did not specify a date for its presentation.

The Commissioners' request followed a challenge of the Capital's segregation practices by the local chapter of the National Lawyers Guild. According to Donald M. Murtha, president of the chapter, the ordinance passed in 1872 has never been repealed.

Honor Man Of Coast Guard

CADET KARL F. PETERSON.

Cadet Karl F. Peterson, 21, son of Coast Guard Capt. Clarence H. Peterson and Mrs. Peterson, 122 N. Alfred st., Alexandria, will be the honor graduate of 1949 at commencement exercises at the Coast Guard Academy this afternoon.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury John S. Graham will give the commencement exercises at the academy, New London, Conn.

Peterson—who will receive a bachelor of science degree in addition to an ensign's commission in the Coast Guard—is being given a pair of binoculars by the Academy Alumni Association in recognition of his attaining the highest academic standing for the four-year course.

He is also the recipient of four other honor awards out of a total of 17 given.

Peterson was graduated from George Washington High School, Alexandria, and attended Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His father is assigned to Coast Guard Headquarters here.

Gambling Raid On Candy Store Brings 6 Arrests

Six persons were arrested on charges of operating a lottery and possession of lottery slips in a raid yesterday by six plainsclothes men of the First Precinct.

The raid took place at a candy store and newsstand at 55 D st. nw. The officers confiscated $300 in cash, an adding machine and a quantity of used and unused slips. All six defendants were released under $1500 bond each for a hearing before a United States commissioner June 9.

The defendants are Charley Anderson, 36, and Lydia Anderson, 31, 55 M st. nw.; Frederick Douglas, 41, 1436 W st. nw.; William Nelson, 63, 36 E st. nw.; Houston F. Washington, 2667 Dunbar rd. se., and Norman Harris, 38, 226 Oakdale pl. nw.

Southeast Groups to Hold Annual Parade on Saturday

The annual parade of the Greater Southeast Washington Citizens and Business Associations at 2 p. m. on Saturday will be the biggest and best yet and will run for about 2½ hours, according to George L. Gregg, general chairman.

The Organized Naval Reserve Brigade of the Potomac River Naval Command will join in the parade to mark the 150th anniversary this year of the Naval Gun Factory.

The Naval Reserve will provide three of the more than 40 floats in the parade and a marching unit of 50 men led by Lieut. (j.g.) Joseph Redmond, jr., of Hyattsville, Md.

The parade, which will feature American Youth, will have more than 30 marching units, including Marines, Army, National Guard and civic club contingents, and 12 bands. The Fire Department will have 12 pieces of apparatus.

Among the 17 pieces of Navy equipment will be guns of the vintage of 1799, manned by Reserves in the Navy uniforms of the War of 1812, contrasted with modern 3-inch guns. Another Navy float will carry a submarine model built at the David Taylor Model Basin, with "mermaids." The third will have a mobile radar unit.

The parade will start from Fort Dupont Park and proceed along Pennsqyvania ave. se. to Prout st. se. It will be preceded by a concert by the Washington Gas Light Co. Band at 12:30 p. m. at the reviewing stand, Pennsylvania and Minnesota aves. se.

Soviet Envoy To China Talks To Vishinsky

Paris, June 2 (AP).—Important talks which may lead to a change in Russia's relations with the Chinese Nationalist government began here today.

The Soviet Ambassador to China, Gen. Nicolai Roshchin, arrived from Canton in a French plane early this morning and soon afterward met Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky.

Diplomatic informants in touch with the Soviet Embassy said the over-all question of Russia's attitude toward the Chinese Communists, who are expected soon to claim jurisdiction over the whole government, is under study.

The Chinese Communists are expected to convene an all-Chinese consulative assembly soon after the fall of Canton in order to set up a provisional Communist-led coalition government. That could be the moment Russia would choose to recognize the new regime.

Western diplomats report Britain and France have told the United States informally they don't like the idea of committing themselves to a definite policy on the Communist regime.

The United States recently called upon a number of Atlantic and Pacific powers to hammer out a common policy toward the Chinese Communists.

The British and French are reported to have made it clear that they don't favor adopting too tough an attitude toward the Chinese Communists. Talks are still going on here on the subject.

South Korea's Assembly Asks Rhee to Quit

Seoul, Korea, June 2 (U.P.).—The South Korean National Assembly today asked President Syngman Rhee and his cabinet to resign.

Observers believed the resolution of censure, introduced by the "Young Progressive" group and passed by a vote of 82 to 61, resulted from the government's policy of collecting "donations" in addition to taxes in the provinces.

The government, formed last August after last May's United Nations-sponsored elections, is under no compulsion to resign. This was the Assembly's first censure resolution.

Progressives have been demanding land reforms and the election of local and provincial officials. Under present laws, Rhee appoints provincial governors who are authorized to collect "donations" to help cover expenses for the maintenance of provincial police forces.

Florida Senate Bans Reporter, Others Walk Out

Tallahassee, Fla., June 2 (AP).—Newsmen covering the Florida Senate session walked out today when a Miami Herald reporter was barred from the press table.

Nine correspondents left the chamber in formal protest and continued their coverage from the public gallery. The senate then went into closed session.

It was the latest flareup in a controversy which began two days ago when Reporter Steve Trumbull of the Herald was punched in the face by Senator A. G. McArthur of Fernandina. A small bone in Trumbull's cheek was broken.

The altercation came after a heated senate floor debate preceding rejection of a bill providing more favorable racing dates for Gulfstream Park in Broward County at the expense of Tropical Park in adjacent Dade County (Miami).

McArthur said he learned Trumbull "was out in the corridor talking about the way the rules committee had put this Gulfstream bill on special order." He added: "I got mad. It flew all over me."

New Pay Bill For Military Promised Soon

Representative Paul Kilday (D., Tex.) said yesterday his House Armed Services Subcommittee expects to have a new military pay increase bill ready early next week.

Top-ranking members of the full House Armed Forces Committee, who make up the "policy subcommittee" of the group, have been working on a new measure to replace that rejected by the House two weeks ago, and now have agreed on a "formula," Kilday said. He declined to reveal what it is.

The pay subcommittee now will work out new rates and present its bill to the full committee as soon as possible. Kilday indicated the measure may differ considerably from the schedules reported last weekend as having been tentatively agreed to.

Back-to-Work Move in Bolivia Is Reported

Bulletin

La Paz, Bolivia, June 2 (AP). A back-to-work movement was reported from Bolivia's strike-bound mine area tonight. It was hailed in government quarters as marking an end to threats of civil war.

Dispatches from the Patino Co.'s Huanuni mine said 80 per cent of the strikers returned to the pits today and a force of 2400 was expected back tomorrow.

La Paz, Bolivia, June 2 (U.P.).—Shopworkers and truck drivers today joined tin miners and railway men in a general strike intended to force the return of several exiled union leaders.

The Federation of Organized Labor formally ordered the general strike last night, but workers in many parts of the country—including members of the participating unions—ignored the order.

The country was quiet.

(In Washington, State Department spokesman Lincoln White indicated that additional United States engineers may be among group of 10 mine officials reportedly seized as hostages by strikers at Colquiri.)

There was no indication of widespread disorders which would support the government charge that the labor unrest was the first step in a civil war planned by the right-wing National Revolutionary Movement (MNR).

Labor circles have consistently denied the "civil war" charge, stating that their only aim is the return of exiled labor leaders, notably the mine union chief Juan Lechin.

New Unrest Of Moslems Is Forecast

The independent Rome newspaper, Messaggero, predicted "immediate and enormous repercussions in all North Africa."

The secretary-general of the Arab League, Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, declared in Cairo that Arab nations insist on complete freedom for all Libya, of which Cirenaica is the eastern part.

Italian newspapers speculated that the British move to grant Cirenaica liberty may have taken the future of at least one of Italy's prewar colonies out of the hands of the United Nations.

Informed officials in Washington, however, said the United States regarded it as a "purely internal matter" that does not prejudice the right of the U. N. to decide the political fate of Cirenaica and the other territories involved.

Barnard Given Bronze Bust of Dean Gildersleeve

New York, June 2 (NYHT).—A bronze bust of Miss Virginia C. Gildersleeve, dean of Barnard College for 35 years and now dean emeritus, was presented to the college today at exercises in the college parlor in Barnard Hall.

The ceremony marked the beginning of the alumnae day celebration, which brought 800 former graduates back to Morningside Heights and came to an end with an address by Mrs. Rustin McIntosh, dean of the college, who succeeded Miss Gildersleeve in 1947.

The bust, executed by Malvina Hoffman, sculptor, was the gift of the late Mrs. Adam Leroy Jones, former president of the Alumnae Association. It was presented by her son, Murray Jones of Montclair, N. J. Mrs. McIntosh accepted for the college. Miss Gildersleeve was present but did not speak.

Drummond Gets Post as Chief Of ECA Information in Europe

Roscoe Drummond, chief of the Christian Science Monitor's Washington Bureau, has been appointed the Economic Cooperation Administration European director of information, it was announced yesterday.

Drummond

Recovery Chief Paul G. Hoffman said that on July 15 Drummond will succeed Alfred G. Friendly, who has been serving on leave of absence from The Washington Post.

Drummond will be on the staff of W. Averell Harriman, United States special representative to Europe for the Marshall Plan. A newspaperman since he was graduated from Syracuse University in 1924, he has been with the Monitor for 25 years.

He served as reporter, assistant city editor, assistant to the executive editor, chief editorial writer, and European editorial manager. In the last post he worked in Europe from 1930 to 1933.

As chief of the Washington Bureau, he has been author of the front page national column, "State of the Nation."

He will be on leave of absence from the Monitor for the recovery job.

Karolyi, Envoy, Quits

Budapest, Hungary, June 2 (U.P.). Count Michael Karolyi, Hungarian Minister to France, resigned his post today, an official communique announced. Karolyi gave advanced age as the reason. He is 75.

Tito Called Disloyal In Kremlin's Reply

Moscow, June 2 (U.P.).—Russia has sharply rejected a Yugoslav note complaining against the activities of Yugoslav refugees in this country and has denounced Marshal Tito's regime as terroristic, anti-communistic and antidemocratic, it was announced today.

The Foreign Ministry called the Yugoslav protest note a "gross slander."

The real cause of deteriorating Russian-Yugoslav relations, the note said, is "the hostile polic pursued by the government o Yugoslavia toward the Sovie Union."

Calls Tito Hostile

"The Yugoslav government ha deprived itself of the right to ex pect a friendly attitude on the par of the Soviet government," th Russian note said.

It added that Marshal Tito had pursued a policy hostile to the Soviet Union.

Russia's note, delivered in Belgrade Tuesday, replied to a Yugoslav note of May 23.

Yugoslavia's note said the Soviet government was engaging in hostile and discriminatory actions which constituted a repudiation, in effect, of the Russian-Yugoslav treaty of friendship.

The Yugoslav note complained that anti-Tito Yugoslavs, given shelter in Russia, were conducting a campaign against the Tito government. Yugoslavia demanded that Russia forbid such activities and suppress the Yugoslav emigre newspaper published in Moscow.

Says People Support them

Russia replied that the Soviet asylum to Yugoslav refugees did not actually aid their anti-Tito activities. The Yugoslav refugees do not need official support, the note said, because the Soviet people give them sufficient support.

The Russian note drew a distinction between the Yugoslav government and the Yugoslav people. It said Russia always has the most friendly feelings toward the Yugoslav people.

But Russia cannot share the same sentiments toward the Tito regime, the note said, because the regime does not represent the people.

Tie-up Continues

Rail Strikers In Berlin Bar Reds' Offer

Berlin, June 2 (AP).—Striking railwaymen of West Berlin today rejected a Communist-sponsored compromise offer by a vote of 13,477 to 398.

That means the work stoppage will continue.

There were several reasons for the adverse vote:

The compromise was agreed on and presented by the Soviet-controlled German railway management and the nonstriking Communist Free German Trade Union. The strikers oppose both politically.

No recognition was provided for the non-Red Union as the railway workers' bargaining agent and the plan made no mention of a request for job security.

Mail Halting Denied

It provided for payment of 60 per cent of wages in west marks, the legal currency of West Berlin, and not the 100 per cent asked.

A West Berlin postal official today charged Soviet authorities have been intercepting and censoring mail addressed to western Berlin.

Taegliche Rundschau, the Soviet military government newspaper, said mail traffic between western Berlin and western German zones was "not intercepted, but rather increased."

A plan for public works projects to provide jobs for western Germany's unemployed was disclosed by American officials today at Frankfurt.

Jobless Reported Up

A total of 1,200,000 now jobless represents about 9 per cent of the labor force in the United States, British and French sectors. The number is reported growing monthly.

The Economic Cooperation Administration mission to Germany has agreed to finance projects it considers worthwhile from counterpart mark funds.

Soviet Revolt Very Unlikely, Stalin Well, Says Ex-Envoy

New York, June 2 (U.P.).—Lieut. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, former Ambassador to Moscow, said today Josef Stalin apparently is in good health and that a Russian revolt is "extremely unlikely."

Smith, now commander of the First Army, said he attended a dinner given Winston Churchill in London a year ago at which Churchill referred several times to the possibility of an uprising against the Russian government.

"In my opinion, this is extremely unlikely," he said. He added that as far as he knew, Stalin was in good health, but should he die, the Politburo "is pretty firmly in control and his successor is probably already decided upon."

"I do not believe the Russian leaders want a war at the present time," Smith declared. "However, they realize fully that they have adopted a policy that may involve war. Their position is best expressed by a remark imputed to Stalin, who alleged to have said, 'We do not want war any more than the Westlocs, but we are less interested in peace than the West and therein lies the strength of our position.'"

Reducing Pills Indirectly Bring Two Near Death

Baltimore, June 2 (AP).—An overdose of reducing pills indirectly brought a mother and her 4-year-old daughter near accidental death here yesterday.

Mrs. Catherine Mulligan, 28, lost 50 pounds recently by taking the pills. When she took twice the normal dose yesterday, she fainted in front of a gas stove she had turned on but had not had time to light.

Her daughter, Kitty, heard her mother fall and ran to her. Screaming, the child began to bathe her mother's face. Neighbors heard the screams, came in and turned off the gas. Mrs. Mulligan recovered consciousness in a hospital after treatment for shock.

Joliet, Ill., June 2 (U.P.).—The Will County grand jury today returned a murder indictment against Diane Allen, 13, who confessed she drowned her 7-year-old boy playmate because she had an "urge."

Antabuse Treatment Fatal to Alcoholic

Montreal, June 2 (AP).—The current issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal reports the death in a Halifax hospital of a 29-year-old man who was taking the antabuse treatment for alcoholism.

Dr. Robert O. Jones of Dalhousie University, said use of the drug "must be considered a procedure far from free from danger and if it is to be used should be carried out only in hospital surroundings" with small doses.

The publication reported on antabuse treatment of 55 alcoholics in Montreal. It said there were no serious ill effects and 45 of the patients have "not reverted to their old drinking habits."

Eisler Welcomed at Berlin By Red Headquarters Crowd

Berlin, June 2 (U.P.).—Runaway Communist Gerhart Eisler, who jumped bail to flee the United States three weeks ago, arrived here by auto tonight from Leipzig in the Russian zone of Germany and drove straight to Communist Party headquarters.

At Leipzig, Eisler was given a roaring ovation at a rally of youthful German Communists. The Soviet German news agency ADN reported.

Wilhelm Pieck, Moscow-trained No. 1 Soviet zone Communist and his deputy, Otto Grotewohl, threw their arms around Eisler who had been convicted of passport fraud and contempt of Congress.

Eisler scrambled onto a table at party headquarters and told a cheering crowd of about a 100 that "American reactionaries are the same as the Nazis. They disliked me because I liked them as much as I liked Hitler."

The crowd roared with laughter when Eisler declared, "I know American reactionaries are not strong. I have seen them in their underwear."

In Leipzig, where Eisler will assume a professorship at the university, he told a convention of the Communist-controlled "free German youth" that he would do everything in his power to bring about a united Germany.

British Defense Chief To Tour Bases in East

London, June 2 (U.P.).—Defense Minister A. V. Alexander today left London in a Royal Air Force plane on a two-week inspection tour of British bases in the Middle and Far East.

The tour was a result of yesterday's conference of opposition leader Winston Churchill with Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

Soviet Seizes Lone Catholic Church Rule

By The Associated Press

State Department officials said yesterday the Soviet government has taken over control of the only Roman Catholic Church in Moscow but is permitting a French priest to continue services.

Earlier, Michael Francis Doyle, a Catholic layman, said in Philadelphia the State Department had informed him a group of Russian women accompanied by officials had demanded the keys to the church.

Doyle said the church, known as the Church of St. Louis Francaise, is "the only free and open church in the Soviet Union." He said part of its support came from America, sent through him.

The State Department said that about May 13 two Soviet women and a representative of the Soviet administration of religious cults called at the church with an order from the Moscow Soviet, stating that the two women were representatives of the majority of the congregation. The group made demand on Father Thomas, the French priest, for the keys and he turned them over.

Father Thomas is a Frenchman and the only priest currently serving at the church. An American priest, Father Laberge, returned to this country earlier in the year and the Soviet government has not yet granted an entry permit to his appointed successor, Father Arthur Brassard of Assumption College in Worcester, Mass.

Apparently, Father Thomas reported the incident to the French Embassy, which took up the matter with the Russian Foreign Office.

Father Thomas has been permitted to continue Sunday services and on some occasions, has been permitted to enter the property during the week.

Speculation among officials was that the Soviets had simply taken one more step to break a contact with the West. Some experts believe eventually they may seek to replace the Catholic priest in charge with a priest of their own choosing who has no direct contact with the Vatican.

The Philadelphia attorney said he plans to discuss the seizure order with U. S. Ambassador Allan G. Kirk in New York Friday. Kirk leaves Saturday to assume his duties in the Soviet capital.

Doyle said he was notified of the incident because he is "sponsor" of the Moscow parish, and sends to the pastor funds for support of the church under an arrangement approved by the State Department.

Italy Has Anniversary

Rome, June 2 (NYHT)—The young Republic of Italy celebrated its third anniversary today with a party in the former royal palace gardens for the thousands of mayors of Italy.

Greek Army Pushed Back By Guerillas

Athens, June 2 (AP).—A communique said today that Greek army units "fell back" in the Grammos Mountain area as a result of attacks by the Communist-led guerillas.

A battle has been raging in the area since Sunday night. Losses on both sides were described as heavy.

The rebels occupied the village of Patoma, a few miles from the Alabanian border northwest of Konitsa. Patoma is a strategic point along the Sarandaporos River valley, used by the guerillas to bring in supplies from Albania.

Communiques issued in the last three days list Greek army casualties as 158, including 36 missing. Guerilla casualties were given as 174, including 152 killed.

Polish Trade Unions Undergo Shakeup Under Politburo Man

Warsaw, June 2 (AP).—Polish trade unionists began drafting regulations today to tighten the lines against "sabotage and diversion" within their ranks.

This followed by one day a blunt warning from the Communist government that they must end their shortcomings.

Vice Premier Alexander Zawadski, a member of the Politburo, told the Trade Unionist National Congress yesterday that chaos existed in the organization. He accused unionists of failing to mobilize against sabotage by hidden enemies of the works program.

There were reports today that Zawadski, himself a long-time unionist, might take over leadership of the unions.

The trade unions, nearly four million strong, technically are nonpartisan, but long have been under Communist guidance.

Chambers Admits Not Telling Truth

and Hiss—then a special assistant to the Assistant Secretary of State—agreed to turn over cablegrams and other documents.

This material, Chambers said, involved the Far East, Germany, Italy and Japan.

At the same meeting, Chambers said, Alger Hiss "asked if Donald Hiss (his brother) was also able to secure secret documents."

"Alger Hiss said he was not sure his brother was sufficiently developed as yet to secure such documents," Chambers testified. "Colonel Bykov said perhaps he, Alger Hiss, could persuade him."

Donald Hiss, once also a State Department official, was among those previously named by Chambers in his charges before the House committee.

Dean Acheson told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in January, during hearings on his confirmation as Secretary of State, that in 1491, when he was named an Assistant Secretary, he appointed Donald Hiss as his special assistant.

Acheson at that time avowed his continuing friendship for both Donald and Alger Hiss, although noting that Alger was never officially associated with him.

Donald Hiss, Acheson said, "served me and served his country with complete fidelity and loyalty."

During direct examination by the chief prosecutor, Assistant United States Attorney Thomas F. Murphy, the 48-year-old Chambers did not appear quite so matter-of-fact as he had the day before.

By order of the presiding judge, Samuel H. Kaufman today, the questioning of Chambers was limited to a "general summary" of Communist activities, instead of a detailed picture.

Hiss is charged with falsely denying to a Federal grand jury on December 15, 1948, that he gave Chambers any documents in early 1938, or even saw him after January 1, 1937.

Prosecution of Chambers or Hiss on espionage charges is barred by the three-year statute of limitations, and Stryker has insisted repeatedly on holding to a minimum any testimony regarding events before that time.

Chambers' voice frequently dropped to a whisper, bringing frequent warnings from the judge to "speak up."

The white-haired, sharp-tongued Stryker was continually leaping to his feet with objections as Chambers attempted to amplify his answers to Murphy's questions.

"Now you're in a court, Mr. Chambers," Stryker remarked at one point with a touch of sarcasm, in a reference to Chambers' previous extensive testimony before the House committee.

The 44-year-old Hiss, and his wife, Priscilla, kept their eyes on Chambers in the witness box as they did the day before. Chambers, however, focused his eyes on the ceiling during most of today's session, and for the first time since he touched off his charges against Hiss, Chambers seemed to be showing discomfiture in his paradoxical situation.

Chambers, however, appeared to be making no attempt to conceal any of the details of his past life which he declares he renounced in disgust. Instead, he attempted to elaborate upon them and freely admitted he had lied repeatedly for what he described as the dictates of the Communist Party which he once obeyed with blind faith.

Today, it was disclosed, Hiss' defense counsel, with permission of Judge Kaufman, brought a psychiatrist into the courtroom to "study" Chambers as he testified.

By instruction of the judge, the psychiatrist was not identified and none of the counsel were permitted to comment on his purpose in the courtroom. A tall, partially bald man, he sat with notebook in hand in a chair adjoining the defense counsel table, peering at Chambers.

It is believed unlikely that the psychiatrist will be permitted to testify. If nothing more, his appearance may be for "psychological effect" to bolster the defense contention that Chambers' charges are complete fiction and the work of a confused mind.

Chambers, during his testimony today, resumed the account of his activities which he began yesterday.

From 1926 to 1929 he advanced to become "acting head" of the Communist Daily Worker. In the latter year, he said, the "Stalinists took over the Communist Party," expelling all opposition.

He said Clifton Fadiman got him a job as a translator for the publishers Simon & Schuster, then in 1932 he became editor of the Communist magazine New Masses, remaining there for three months.

In 1932, he said, "I went into the underground" with a "Soviet group" he said was "acting between the United States and Europe," and remained with that group until late 1933 or early 1934.

Then, Chambers said, "I went into the underground's apparatus of the Communist Party." "Apparatus" is a party term to describe the espionage rings.

He was introduced to Hiss in Washington, he said by "Harold Ware and J. Peters." Peters, described as one of the top Russian agents in this country, has cropped up repeatedly in Communist testimony.

(On May 8, it was disclosed, an Alexander Stevens, alias Peters, left here by plane for his native Hungary under a deportation order.)

"As nearly as I can recall the conversation" with Hiss, said Chambers, "it was to the effect that I was to head the apparatus in Washington which was separate from the previous apparatus in Washington to which Hiss belonged."

He later visited Hiss at his home, then at 2831 28th st. nw. and arranged to pick up the documents which he said Hiss obtained from Mr. Green at the State Department.

Chambers said he never visited Hiss at his place of employment. Some of the documents he obtained, Chambers said, he photographed himself at the home of James Peters. Others he said were photographed at the home of a Mr. Spiegel in Baltimore, with a Felix Inslerman and a David Carpenter also participating in the photography.

The photographs, he said, were turned over to Bykov in New York in secret meetings, with the originals always returned to Hiss the same night.

He came to the Hiss home about every week or two weeks, he said, to collect the documents, and later, to speed the process, Mrs. Hiss began typing and summarizing some of the papers.

In the following year, 1935, he said, Hiss moving to another place, offered Chambers the use of his apartment for about six weeks until the lease on the 28th st. place expired, and Chambers moved there from Baltimore with his wife and child. (They now have two children, a girl, 15, and a boy, 12.)

In his chronology, Chambers attempted to describe conversations with Hiss about a Col. Ivan Lamb, "a munitions broker," but additional testimony was barred by Judge Kaufman.

Chambers said that when he and Hiss came to New York in 1937 for Hiss' "introductory" meeting with Colonel Bykov, they met furtively in the mezzanine of a movie theater and later went to a Chinatown restaurant.

Bykov spoke in German, said Chambers, and he translated for Hiss. "The question was asked point-blank if Hiss was willing to procure such documents" as Bukov described, from the State Department where Hiss was then employed. "He answered yes," Chambers said.

This exchange of documents, Chambers went on, "continued to shortly before I broke with the Communist Party in April, 1938." On objection by Stryker, Judge Kaufman prevented Murphy from getting Chambers to explain why he left the party and "went into hiding."

Before he abandoned his espionage work, Chambers said, he saved some documents, including 65 statements given him by Hiss, 4 handwritten notes, and microfilm photographs.

Much of the remainder of Chambers' testimony duplicated that which he gave to the House committee, with these highlights in addition:

1. In the fall of 1937, he said Hiss gave him $400 toward the purchase of a new car.

2. In 1937, he and Mr. and Mrs. Hiss drove to Teterboro, N. J., he said, to see Harry D. White. White, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, was named by Chambers in his charges. White denied them and soon afterward died of a heart attack.

3. All the documents which Chambers says he saved from those given him by Hiss were turned over to him at 3415 Volta pl. nw., where Hiss is said to have lived during the time stated in the perjury indictment.

4. He said he last saw Hiss before Christmas, 1938, at the Volta pl. address where Hiss said "what a pity that I had broken with the Communist Party. He said he heard there was a new and important post about to be given to me."

5. Hiss asked what kind of a Christmas he would have, he said, and when he replied "a rather bleak one," Hiss gave him a little wooden rolling pin . . . for my daughter."

6. At one time, he said, he obtained for Hiss an Oriental rug, "a present from the Soviet people in gratitude for the work of American Communists."

7. He said he could not recall using the name "George Crosley" but "it's quite possible I used it." Hiss says he knew Chambers only by this name and that Chambers was a free-lance writer and a "deadbeat" he befriended.

8. When he resigned from Time magazine last December, Chambers was earning about $30,000 a year. Part of this money was used to buy a farm at Westminster, Md., where some of the controversial documents were hidden by him in a pumpkin.

9. In 1949, after a life of atheism, he joined the Episcopal Church but "found myself not happy" and later he and his family joined the Society of Friends.

Stryker, in gaining Chambers' admission that he falsified some answers in his application for the 1937 Government job, asked Chambers why he did not list his schooling at Columbia University.

"I left it out because I didn't want to be traced by it," said Chambers.

In taking the Government job, while giving allegiance only to the Communist Party, "it was not a question of right and wrong as we Americans understand it?" Stryker asked.

"That is right," Chambers replied.

Stryker also brought out that Chambers was employed by the New York Public Library during his college days, and was discharged from there when it was discovered he had stolen books.

Green Denies Help to Hiss

Joseph C. Green of the State Department Board of Examiners told The Washington Post yesterday he had turned over to the Nye Committee in 1935 "thousands" of documents relating to munitions.

At that time he was chief of the Office of Munitions Control and, as such, was appointed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull as liaison between the State Department and the committee. Whitaker Chambers testified yesterday in New York that Alger Hiss, then counsel for the committee, had received documents from "a Mr. Green" in the State Department, which were photographed and turned over to a Soviet spy ring.

Green said yesterday that he had delivered no documents to Hiss and that he had no dealings with Hiss at all. He dealt usually with Committee Chairman Gerald P. Nye (R., N. D.) and occasionally with the committee secretary.

"They got thousands of documents," Green said yesterday. "We cooperated very closely with the Nye Committee. . . . I acted strictly in accordance with his (Hull's) orders."

Green said he did not know Col. D. Ivan Lamb, also mentioned by Chambers in yesterday's testimony. He had "heard" of a man with that name, he said, who he hazily remembered to have been identified with munitions exports.

Coplon Lawyer Asks New $100 Question

By The Associated Press

For the second time in two weeks, the defense attorney in Judith Coplon's espionage trial was fined $100 yesterday for contempt of court.

Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves ordered the fine for Archibald Palmer, voluble New York lawyer, calling him guilty of "obvious contemptuous conduct."

As in the first instance two week ao, Palmer had been questioning an FBI agent at length, and persisted in the questioning after Judge Reeves had upheld the objections of Prosecutor John M. Kelley, jr.

"I Must Fine You Again"

Palmer started to say something about the importance of his questions to "the country's future" when Judge Reeves broke in:

"Mr. Palmer, I must fine you again."

After the judge instructed the clerk to draw up an order fining Palmer $100 for "obvious contemptuous conduct," the defense attorney announced his intention of appealing both fines. The fines are to be paid after the trial.

Miss Coplon's trial began April 25. The Government indictment charges her with having pilfered documents from files of the Justice Department, where she formerly worked, with reason to believe the information would be used to help a foreign power. She was arrested March 4 in New York, with Valentine A. Gubitchev, a Russian employe of the United Nations.

Palmer's latest fine grew out of his questioning of T. Scott Miller, jr., an FBI agent, concerning the papers which the Government says were found in Miss Coplon's purse at the time of her arrest.

Although numerous papers from the handbag have been introduced in evidence, the prosecutor said 12 papers were withheld "on the grounds of the security of the United States." Palmer wanted to know if Miller personally selected the 12 papers, and the FBI agent answered that he had nothing to do about determining what was uesd in the case.

Originally, Palmer had opposed the introduction of any of the papers in evidence. But after some of them went in, he began to fight for the inclusion of all.

Later in the day, Judge Reeves rejected Palmer's demand that the 12 omitted papers be put in evidence.

Shouting that the papers were "needed by this girl to show her innocence," Palmer contended they were intended for use in connection with a Secret Service examination which Miss Coplon intended to take in order to qualify as an intelligence specialist.

The papers were described as copies of data slips used by the Justice Department's foreign agents registration section to summarize FBI reports on security matters and suspected foreign agents.

At Kelley's suggestion, the omitted documents were given to the court to be read, then sealed.

"Outrage," Says Amtorg Man

Meanwhile, the general counsel of the Soviet trading organization, Amtorg, said it was "outrageous" that his name was used in an FBI "decoy" trap against Miss Coplon.

The counsel, Isidore G. Needleman, assailed as a "diabolical lie" references made to his name and to Amtorg in FBI evidence introduced at the trial.

The name "Needleman" appeared on a slip of paper which the Government says was planted where Miss Coplon would find it. FBI witnesses say the slip was found in her purse.

The Justice Department said notes on the paper referring to "Needleman" and Amtorg contained false information. The phoney slip said "Needleman" and another Amtorg official were being used by the FBI as informants.

Needleman, in his statement, said:

"Of course, what was said about me and my client is a diabolical lie. Everyone who knows me knows how outrageous is the imputation that I would be a stool-pigeon and an informer.

"A person's lifelong reputation can be ruined beyond repair if such practices by powerful U. S. Government agencies are allowed to go on."

2 Girls Sought In $2200 Robbery Of Man in Alley

Police last night sought two girls who allegedly seized a 51-year-old man in an alley, robbed him of $2200, and slashed his wrist with a pocket knife.

The victim was Samuel Scarlis, proprietor of Daly's Food Shop, 3207 14th st. nw. He told police he was walking through an alley near 14th and S sts., at 1:30 a. m., yesterday, when he was seized by the two Negro girls. They took his purse containing 22 $100 bills, he reported, and cut him when he attempted to snatch it back.

When he started to pursue the pair, he told officers, he was grabbed from the back by a man who threatened to kill him if "you don't get out of here." He was treated at Garfield Hospital and released.

339,000 DP Quota Is Voted in House

The House yesterday passed and sent to the Senate legislation raising from 205,000 to 339,000 the number of displaced persons who may enter the United States up to June 30, 1951.

The House ordered that all displaced persons coming here must sign a non-Communist affidavit on arrival.

By voice vote, it directed also that the immigrant must swear he or she is not a member of any organization listed by the U. S. as subversive. Rep. Davis (D., Ga.) sponsored the amendment.

The President originally asked that 400,000 European refugees be allowed to come to the U. S.

In addition to raising the quotas, the legislation would:

1. Move up the so-called cut-off date from December 22, 1945, to January 1, 1949, to make eligible thousands of postwar victims of political and religious persecution. The cut-off date is the date by which a refugee must have been in a displaced persons camp abroad to be eligible for admission.

2. Abolish present priorities giving preference to farm workers and to natives of Baltic nations now under Russian domination.

3. Permit admission of 15,000 political refugees who have escaped from Soviet-controlled countries, subject to screening by the State and Defense Departments.

4. Provide separate quotas for 18,0000 Polish war veterans who fought for the Allies and now are in England, for 4000 refugees in Shanghai, and for 2000 more orphans.

5. Set up a revolving fund of 5 million dollars for loans to help refugees reach their new homes once they have entered the U. S.

Maryland Wants Good Farmers Only

Baltimore, June 2 (AP).—Maryland farmers want only displaced persons who know something about farming sent to help them.

About 600 European refugees have come to Maryland for homes and jobs since last year. In many cases the program hasn't worked out.

Complaints by farmers reached such a proportion that the Governor's Committee on Resettlement of Displaced Persons met yesterday to review the situation.

The committee specifically studied 18 complaints, mostly involving displaced persons who left their assigned farm jobs to go live with relatives in America.

Conferring with the committee was Dr. Walter Gallan, executive director of the United Ukrainian American Relief Committee, which picks the refugees for Maryland sponsors.

State dissatisfaction with the displaced persons program started last year and has been voiced in several quarters.

William F. Laukaitis, chairman of Governor Lane's committee, admitted that about 10 per cent of the refugees "have turned sour" but said 300 Maryland farmers still wanted to take displaced persons.

Landon C. Burns, Carroll County farm agent who was a promoter of the program, said "I'm sorry, but so far as I can see, the thing just isn't working out the way we hoped it would." Burns said other county agents had expressed similar feelings.

The trouble, according to the Governor's Committee, is that Dr. Gallan's committee hasn't been picking farmers. The Maryland group said that "due to improper screening and classification in Europe, many of the displaced persons reviewed were found to be improperly classified as farmers, and to have no qualifications as such."

Dr. Gallan was instructed not to assign "any displaced persons unless they were bona fide farmers certified as such by the International Refugee Organization and the Displaced Persons Commission."

He added that in some instances Maryland farmers weren't living up to their agreement to provide the refugees with adequate housing and prevailing wage rates.

(While there is no "official certification" of DPs as to occupation, a spokesman for the Displaced Persons Commission said in Washington, the International Refugee Organization gives "aptitude tests" and the DP's listed trade is further checked by a selection committee on the spot.)

Civil War in Peru Seen Coming Soon

Panama, Panama, June 2 (AP).—Four Former Peruvian army officers, deported by their government, said on arrival here today that civil war in Peru is an early possibility.

They said there was mounting criticism of the present military government among the younger army officers. They described their country as a police state where all individual freedoms are suppressed.

U-235 Bottle Is Recovered

grains of the radio-active materials, McMahon emphasized, was a "dangerous" operation carried on under the direction of the Atomic Energy Commission's health experts.

Busy Day Is Probe

Announcement that the missing bottle had been found climaxed a day studded with developments in the congressional investigation of the Atomic Energy Commission and its chairman, David E. Lilienthal.

1. Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) accused Lilienthal of "brazen effrontry against the law of the land" in granting widespread "emergency clearances" without FBI investigations. Hickenlooper said that in 1928, 2103 persons were granted access to restricted data without prior investigations and already this year 359 persons have been so cleared.

2. Carroll Wilson, general manager of the commission, acknowledged that a guard at the Argonne Laboratory, with access to uranium-235, had been found to have a police record of arrests but not convictions for grand larceny. Wilson said the guard in question had not included this on his sworn personnel questionnaire. The guard has since been shifted to another job at the University of Chicago, Wilson said. He expressed confidence that the guard had nothing to do with the loss of the uranium-235.

Law-Breaking Denied

3. Lilienthal coldly and emphatically denied Hickenlooper's charge of violating both the letter and the spirit of the atomic energy law. The clearances given, in most cases, he said, were done to speed vital atomic work. He pointed out that all were given a speedy FBI card check to see if there was any information existing against them.

4. At a two-hour closed session with the commission yesterday afternoon, the committee, in addition to discussing the recovery of the uranium bottle, also discussed cost of building "a very delicate facility" of a type never before built at the atomic plant at Hanford, Wash.

5. The cost of the plant, McMahon said, has zoomed from the original estimate of seven million dollars to more than 21 million dollars. McMahon stressed that there is no claim of wrongdoing or malfeasance. The facility is being built by the General Electric Co.

6. The Atomic Energy Commission issued a statement duplicating McMahon's account of finding the bottle. It added the detail that the container in which the bottles were buried were boxes 10 feet long 4 feet wide and 6 feet deep. The first deposits of trash in which the bottle was found were made, the commission said, in the last week of last November.

7. Dr. Walter H. Zinn, director of the Argonne Laboratory, who reported the discovery, said the facts "strongly supported supposition that no outside person could have entered the laboratory and surreptitiously removed the bottle or its contents." He added all evidence indicates the bottle was always within a guarded area of the laboratory.

Lilienthal insisted the Nation's stockpile of A-bombs would not be what it is today if he had failed to act as he did. And he swore that if hed had not resorted to emergency action — by clearing hundreds of employes for secret work without a full loyalty investigation—the security of the United States today would be "weak."

"I disagree completely with that statement," Hickenlooper shouted.

The bristling exchange came at a jam-packed hearing before the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, in the second day of its investigation into Hickenlooper's charge of "incredible mismanagement" against Lilienthal.

The Iowa Senator said the commission cleared many persons for the Eniwetok tests on an "emergency basis" when the date had been known for "weeks and weeks" in advance.

"There was ample time for full investigation of personnel," Hickenlooper said.

Lists 3280 "Unchecked"

He called the Eniwetok tests the most highly guarded and secret since the first atomic bomb was tested at White Sands, N. Mex., in 1945. Hickenlooper, who has demanded that Lilienthal be fired, cited figures showing that under Lilienthal's regime, at least 3280 persons have been given access to secret atomic data or work without a full FBI check.

"I call it an astounding situation," Hickenlooper roared, glaring at Lilienthal across the witness table. "In the face of all the publicity which is issued to the American public relative to atomic security, I consider this conduct of the Atomic Energy Commission and its chairman, David E. Lilienthal, to be brazen effrontery. I consider it to be a violation of the letter and spirit of the Atomic Energy Act of 1946."

Hickenlooper turned his fire on Lilienthal's wholesale use of an "emergency" clause in the 1946 atomic law to justify the hiring of key employes without a searching loyalty checkup. The Senator noted that among those so cleared on a single "typical" list were a research associate, a chemist, a superintendent of police, a stenographer and several technical and administrative officials.

"It is abundantly clear," Hickenlooper said, "that it included some pretty top flight people."

Calls Law 'Very Specific'

The law, he said, is "very specific and mandatory." He said it provides that before AEC workers are cleared for access to secret data, the FBI "must conduct an investigation" and make a report "as to the character, loyalty and associations of the individual."

He said Congress, in writing the law, felt that "in these troubled times and because of the vital necessity for security, such a provision of law was necessary to prevent dangerous infiltration of our atomic energy program." The lone exception in the law, he went on, does permit the AEC to hire persons without a checkup "in case of emergency."

At that point, Hickenlooper interjected that he had looked up the definition of "emergency" in Webster's dictionary and he commented dryly:

"My opinion of the meaning of 'emergency' and the opinion of Mr. Webster in regard to same is not, however, the opinion of the commission."

In icy tones, Lilienthal retorted, "our judgment was neither arbitrary nor whimsical. We believe it to have been sound."

Senator Millikin (R., Colo.) cut in, "Merely to say we are exercising judgment is no defense. It is the quality of the judgment that is on trial."

Lilienthal insisted that all workers connected with the vast atomic enterprise have had some kind of "screening" by the FBI before they were granted emergency clearance to deal with secrets, and he continued:

"I suggest that our problem was one of judgment. Our question was this—to weigh the responsibility we owed the country to increase security of the country through rapid progress and shoring up where shoring up was necessary against the calculated risk of full screening which required 60, 90 and even 120 days."

Representative Holifield (D., Calif.), who has been on Lilienthal's side from the outset of the investigation, broke in to ask whether atomic production would have been delayed if the AEC's right to clear employes on an emergency basis had been eliminated.

"It would, indeed. And the security of the country would be weak," Lilienthal said.

Webb Gets Rocker For 'Concentration'

Webb has moved a comfortable old leather rocker into his handsome paneled office at the State Department. He says he concentrates better while rocking.

Indonesians Plan 'Cease-Fire' Talks

Batavia, Java, June 2 (AP).—The exiled Indonesian republic leadership plans to make contact Saturday with its guerilla stronghold in northern Sumatra to confer on Dutch-Indonesian terms for a cease-fire.

Indonesian Premier Mohammed Hatta heads the Republican delegation to the guerilla stronghold, which the Dutch have never tried to take.

A. H. J. Lovink took over here today as Dutch high commissioner for Indonesia, succeeding L. J. M. Bell.

SMILING SAM SAYS—
Don't forget that fruit cocktail can be prepared in so many different ways in order to improve its flavor. That's why it's such an ideal summer fruit item, for instance, a little sherry wine or brandy added improves it immensely to the taste of many people, and don't forget that mixed with gelatin desserts, it becomes an ideal summer salad, but, of course, for the best, regardless of how it's served, you will want to serve 'Shurfine' Fruit Cocktail! There is a difference. 'Shurfine' is better. It is the 'pick of the pack.'

House Group Votes FEPC Bill Approval

A House Labor subcommittee yesterday approved the Administration's bill to set up a Fair Employment Practices Commission with authority to ask the courts to bar discrimination because of race, creed or color.

Chairman Adam Clayton Powell (D., N. Y.) said the subcommittee approved the bill unanimously. The full Labor Committee will be asked to approve it "as soon as possible."

"The subcommittee did not change any of the basic principles of FEPC," Powell said. "Every section, including the enforcement provisions, were left intact."

President Roosevelt established a Fair Employment Practices Commission by executive order during the war, arguing it was necessary to spur the war effort. It went out of business after the war. Supporters want it revived under permanent legislation.

The bill would authorize the proposed commission to take steps to eliminate job discrimination against minority racial and religious groups. If its orders were disregarded, it would have a right to appeal to the courts to back them up.

Powell has insisted the bill would encourage the elimination of discrimination through education and that there should be little need of the commission's legal authority.

While the bill would seem to have a good chance of passing the House if room can be found on the calendar, it may run into a Southern filibuster in the Senate.

Margaret a Bridesmaid . . .

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

NUPTIALS—Margaret Truman (right), daughter of the President, walks with the former Jane Watson at the latter's wedding yesterday to John Nichol Irwin 2d

New York, June 2 (AP).—Margaret Truman, who has parried questions on romance before, avoided another easily tonight.

The President's daughter was a bridesmaid at the wedding of her friend, Jane Watson, to John Irwin, 2d.

But before the time came for the bride to throw her bouquet to her attendants, Miss Truman left the wedding reception alone and drove away in a taxicab.

Asked if she did not plan to stay to the end, she answered sweetly and noncommittally: "No, I'm so sorry, I must run away now."

This was Miss Truman's fourth time as a bridesmaid.

Her mother, the First Lady, who was a guest at the wedding and the reception, had left a short time before. Some 1200 persons were there.

The bride said, "I certainly expected to throw my bouquet to Margaret." She is the daughter of Thomas J. Watson, president of International Business Machines Corp.

All the other six attendants were already married.

Strike Raises Idle Benefits' $64 Question

The District Unemployment Compensation Board is due to be faced with a hot-potato question as a result of yesterday's strike by some 3000 AFL building laborers.

The building laborers, unlike the striking carpenters, set up picket lines at major commercial construction projects in and around Washington.

Thousands of other AFL mechanics—such as cement finishers, truck drivers and rodmen—had continued on the jobs Wednesday, when the carpenters walked out. But yesterday, the overwhelming majority of nonstriking AFL craftsmen refused to cross the picket lines.

Should the laborers' strike last more than a week, the District Unemployment Compensation Board will have to decide this question: Are union men eligible for unemployment benefits if they refuse to cross a picket line?

Most States have ruled that workers refusing to pass through peaceful picket lines in effect voluntarily leave their jobs and therefore are not eligible for compensation, according to District officials.

However, it has been held also that if the person refusing to cross a picket line has good reason to believe he would suffer bodily injury by crossing the line, he is eligible for the benefits.

Under District laws, workers thrown out of employment are eligible for benefits beginning after a week's idleness. The benefits range from $6 to $20 a week, depending on the worker's earnings. World War II veterans are eligible for jobless payments of $20 a week under the GI Bill of Rights.

Several hundred other crafts were laid off immediately Wednesday when the carpenters failed to show up on the job. These men are eligible for jobless benefits, and a number of them already have filed claims.

Workers on strike, such as the carpenters and building laborers, are prohibited by the local law from drawing jobless compensation.

But for those AFL craftsmen who refused to pass through the picket lines—that's a question that still must be answered by the labor board, and possibly by the courts.

100 Drivers For Pie Firms Strike Today

One hundred driver-salesmen for the four major Washington pie concerns voted to strike at midnight last night. As a result about 200 additional men, pie bakers and shipping clerks, will not work today, and no pies will be delivered.

The strike vote was taken at 9 p. m. in the Laborers' District Council Building, 525 New Jersey ave. nw., when the drivers voted to hold out for a $4 wage increase.

Robert Lester, business agent for the striking drivers, members of Bakery Salesmen Local No. 33 of the Teamsters Union, said the manufacturers had offered what amounted to a $10 wage cut.

The four pie-makers involved are the Colonial Pie Co., the Connecticut Pie Co., the Crusty Pie Co., Inc., and the Perfection Pie Co.

Before the drivers voted to strike, 900 bread-bakery employes voted to accept the city bakers' terms of a $4-a-week wage increase and a $7.50 raise to $65 a week in the guaranteed minimum wage.

The pie-concern drivers now are earning from $57 to $100 a week, with a base pay of $50 and a 10 per cent commission on sales in excess of $400.

Raise Sought for Clerks

The striking drivers had asked a base pay of $54, with a similar $4 increase to shipping clerks.

Lester said the companies wanted the drivers to sell $600 worth of pies before paying the 10 per cent commission. This would amount to a $10-a-week wage cut, he said. The drivers said they will start picketing at 6 a. m.

Although union officials said they had warned the companies of the impending strike, at least one bakery last night was caught with 6000 pies, worth $3000, which would not be delivered.

Lewis Opens Wage Pact Talks Today

Bluefield, W. Va., June 2 (U.P.) John L. Lewis today agreed to meet at 11 a. m. (EDT) tomorrow with President Joseph E. Moody of the Southern Coal Producers Association to begin new wage contract talks.

Lewis agreed to go ahead with the negotiations only after a wordy battle with Moody over technicalities. But Lewis finally accepted a report of the wage conference credentials committee showing that Moody represented 96,926,186 tons of annual coal production. Lewis had demanded certification that Moody represented enough tonnage to draw up a contract under the terms of the Southern Association's by-laws.

Moody said he was "pleased" that the negotiating conference finally was formally organized.

Medical Post At Pentagon Offered Allen

Dr. Raymond B. Allen, president of the University of Washington in Seattle, will head the newly unified Army, Navy and Air Force medical departments, defense officials said yesterday.

The educator, who figured prominently in last winter's furor over the dismissal of three Communists from the University of Washington faculty, has been offered the post of "Director of Medical Services" for the National Military Establishment.

Informed sources say he has accepted, subject to the approval of the board of regents of the university. Announcement of the appointment is expected after the group meets next week.

CARPENTERS—Fr. P. 1

Strike Joined By Laborers

Meanwhile, the strike had got under way at 7 a. m.

Officials of other unions privately expressed amazement that the building laborers had walked out and thereby lost their rights to unemployment compensation. By staying on the job until the work had run out because of the carpenters' strike, the building laborers would have been eligible for jobless pay.

Ther was no comment yesterday from either the local or the Building Laborers' Council, or from the Washington headquarters of the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union of America (AFL).

Among the work projects tied up by the building laborers' strike yesterday were two building jobs by McCloskey & Co. at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda. McCloskey reportedly signed a pay-increase agreement with the carpenters and was untouched by the carpenters' strike of Wednesday. Yesterday the building laborers picketed four million dollars worth of McCloskey construction along with the others.

McCloskey & Co. was, until yesterday at least, a member of the Master Builders Association, which comprises the bulk of the union general contractors in the Washington area. Yesterday, however, in a half-page advertisement explaining its position, the Master Builders Association failed to list McCloskey as a member.

The Carpenters' Council claims that at least 80 contractors have signed new agreements including the pay raise, but the builders' association insists that only one of its members and not more than 20 small independents have acceded to the increase of 10 cents an hour.

The carpenters' strike yesterday was given the official indorsement of the Washington Central Labor Union, the assembly of AFL unions in Greater Washington. On Wednesday, the Washington Building Trades Council, representing a score of AFL construction industry crafts, gave similar support to the strike.

Curiously, however, there was no such indorsement forthcoming yesterday for the building laborers.

Meanwhile, negotiators for the Dump Truck Operators Association, representing 15 companies, and the AFL truck drivers, agreed informally yesterday to stand pat until the two strikes are settled. The truck drivers, getting from $1.18 to $1.43 an hour, are asking an increase of 32 cents an hour. Some 300 truck drivers are involved.

SWISS STEAK

3 to 4 lbs. round steak (cut 2 in. thick)
Salt, pepper
1 cup flour
½ cup lard
2 onions
2 cups cooked tomatoes or tomato juice

Season steak and place on well-floured cutting board. Cover with flour and pound with meat hammer or edge of heavy saucer. Continue to turn, flour, and pound meat until all flour is taken up by the steak. Brown sliced onions in lard in heavy frying pan. Remove onions. Brown steak on both sides in the lard. Place onions on top. Add tomatoes (or 2 cups water and 2 tbsps. vinegar or catsup). Cover and cook slowly or bake in moderate oven (350 F.) 2½ to 3 hrs. (Diced vegetables may be cooked with steak during last half hour.) 6 to 8 servings.

'Ideal Father'

Piggy-Back Pop Tapped In Contest

A pop who is "never too tired" to piggy-back his 6½-year-old twin daughters to bed has been nominated as Washington's Ideal Father.

What's more, William Bailey of 3901 Connecticut ave. nw., is "always ready to discuss 18-year-old Bill, jr.'s favorite sport, baseball" and "just bursts with pride when he takes us out."

Bailey was nominated by his wife in the contest, in which any father in the Washington area can be entered.

The winning father will be the celebrity interviewed by Hazel Markel of WTOP on her "D. C. Line" program at 1:15 p. m., June 19, Father's Day, it was announced yesterday.

Afterward, he and his whole family will be treated to dinner at the Statler Hotel and a show at the Capitol Theater. And there'll be a special plaque for him.

Anyone can enter him—children, wife, or just plain admirers. Letters should be addressed to the Ideal Father Editor, The Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C. Contest deadline is June 19.

Joseph McCulloch, of 14 Todd pl. ne., has been nominated by his wife. Both of them were born in "bonnie Scotland," Mrs. McCulloch writes, and so were four of their five children.

Checks on spending of every Federal agency by Comptroller General Lindsay Warren's General Accounting Office were proposed yesterday in separate House and Senate economy moves.

1. Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) asked his Senate Independent Offices subcommittee to provide one million dollars to enable a special staff of GAO accountants and analysts make an "expenditure analysis" of all agencies.

2. Representative Albert Gore (D., Tenn.) urged the House Appropriations Committee to provide at least $229,000 for Warren's analysts to make an "experimental start" by checking thoroughly the spending of a single agency.

The Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946 "authorized and directed" the Comptroller General as an agent of Congress to make the efficiency surveys, but congress never has provided the funds.

Under the original authorization, the GAO would make such analyses as in Warren's opinion "will enable Congress to determine whether public funds have been economically and efficiently administered."

"This will provide real economy—not the phony kind you would get in horizontal cut and slapdash reductions," O'Mahoney told newsmen.

Both O'Mahoney and Gore emphasized that the Comptroller General's office is an agency of Congress and that its studies would be independent of the Budget Bureau's findings.

Gore said Congress is inadequately staffed to check-back each budget estimate. He said a sound, independent survey is needed to avoid "guessing" where to cut. He proposed the GAO eventually survey spending in the entire executive branch, but pick out one agency to start "to show Congress how well it can do the job."

Senator Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.) said the proposal "might be of tremendous help to us next year, but won't meet our present problem."

The Senate meanwhile passed a $862,563,510 second deficiency bill. This was $191,493,837 more than the House voted, but still 53 million under the President's request.

The largest deficiency sum, $205,702,000, went to the Postoffice Department and the next largest, $136,238,000, to the Veterans Administration for pensions. The bill carried $5,400,000 for White House renovation.

The measure was amended to make an additional two million dollars available for relief of Palestine refugees

In these other developments:

1. The Government's budget deficit rose to $1,922,448,000 yesterday, but Secretary Snyder told a news conference, the Truman Administration is standing by its January estimate of a 600-million-dollar deficit for the year ending June 30.

2. Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) termed "ridiculous" a proposal to trim all congressional salaries 5 per cent as part of an overall cut. Testifying before the Senate Expenditures Committee on the Tydings resolution, Bridges said the salary question is "wholly beside the point." The way to achieve economy, he said, is through greater efficiency.

3. A bill giving House members an extra $3000 a year to hire clerks and an annual $500 communications expense allowance ran into trouble when it came back from the Senate. Representative Church (R., Ill.) objected to taking up Senate amendments and Representative Hoffman (R., Mich.) blocked a move to send the measure to conference by a single objection. The bill's backers now may have to go to the Rules Committee for clearance.

House Begins Berry Probe

public investigation. Several members of the local were on hand last night, but were not called to testify. They may testify when the hearing resumes today.

In discussing the card company, Googe said the union made use of it in pre-Wagner Act days as an organizing instrument. For this reason, he said, the union had in effect received a big return on the money invested.

He said that when the union attempted to organize nonunion companies and the companies refused to bargain with the union, the card company was used to undercut the business of the nonunion firm.

Googe said this "system of competition" was "awful smart" even though it was a "cut-throat" method of bringing antiunion employers into agreement.

It was also brought out at the hearing that while the union constitution requires a convention every four years, many have been skipped. In recent years Berry had no opposition for the post of president.

The man who succeeded Berry as international head of the union, James H. La Rosa, appeared in answer to a committee subpoena. He referred all questions to Googe, however, and Chairman Andrew Jacobs (D., Ind.) of the subcommittee directed most of the questioning.

Jacobs brought out that the union in 1947 paid $25,000 of an income tax claim against Berry, following his indictment on an evasion charge involving $26,950. He also brought out the union paid attorneys' fees in the case.

In discussing the card company, a big printing concern in Tennessee, Googe said the union would lose some $400,000 or $500,000 if it were to win ownership because it would have to sell the firm. He said this would be necessary since it was in competition with firms under contract with the union.

Representative Thurston Morton (R., Ky.) wanted to know if it made any difference to employers to know that the company was owned by the union or by Berry, the union president.

Another committee member, Thomas Wardel (D., Calif.), said it was "absolutely fantastic" to believe union members would "forgive" the large amount of money Berry obtained from the union. He hinted that Berry took up union cards of those who disagreed with him or fought his leadership, but Googe said he knew of no case where a card had been lifted "for political reasons."

The Gallup Poll

Public Prefers Job Security To Higher, but Riskier, Pay

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., June 2—Which is better—a high-paying job that may not be secure, or a job that doesn't pay so well but is steady?

Voters questioned about that in a national poll show little hesitancy in choosing.

Most of them pick the sure, steady job.

This desire for job security or dependability, rather than higher stakes involving risks, seems to be more or less universal. Surveys in four foreign countries show virtually the same result.

The survey in the United States was conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion among a cross-section of persons who are gainfully occupied full time. They were asked:

Some people prefer a job which pays very well even though it may not be so secure (permanent). Other people prefer a steady job even though it may not pay so much. Which would you, yourself, prefer—the steady job or the better-paying job?

The vote:

Steady job	81%
Better paying job	14
Undecided	5

Affiliates of the institute in Canada, Australia, Holland and Sweden conducted surveys on this issue, with the question worded in almost identical fashion.

The results:

	Steady job	Better Paying job	Undec.
Canada	85%	13%	2%
Australia	85	12	3
Holland	79	13	8
Sweden	71	8	17

Hearing Set Wednesday On Religion in Schools

An open hearing on whether or not there should be a religious instruction program in Arlington public schools will be held by the Arlington School Board at 8 p. m. Wednesday, June 8, at the Stonewall Jackson School, 855 N. Edison st.

A voluntary religious instruction program now is operating in elementary schools, run by a private organization. The program has been opposed by several Arlington groups.

Overtime on Overtime Bill in Conference

The House sent to conference with the Senate yesterday a bill to outlaw "overtime on overtime" for industrial workers.

The conference became necessary when Representative Marcantonio (AL., N. Y.) objected to House approval of Senate changes in the bill originally passed by the House.

The bill would confirm contract definitions relating to overtime pay scales. It was introduced at the request of waterfront employers as a result of claims for back wages from longshoremen.

Marcantonio objected that the Senate version of the bill would have a retroactive effect on pay claims already made.

Longshoremen Elect Bridges to 6th Term

San Francisco, June 2 (U.P.)—Harry Bridges, who has been indicted on Federal charges of fraud and perjury today was elected president of the CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union for his sixth consecutive two-year term.

The vote was 30,408 for Bridges against 7070 for his opponent, Tommy George, of Portland, Oreg. First Vice President J. R. Robertson, one of the two others indicted with the ILWU chief, also was re-elected.

Governor Assails 'Fixing' of Tickets

The sustained interest of public opinion must back up the job of working for greater traffic safety, Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire told 250 Kiwanis Club members and guests at a Hotel Mayflower luncheon yesterday.

"If you citizens let down and let the courts fix tickets for people in public office," he said, "we're not going to clean up our dirty accident record."

Governor Adams is here as chairman of the New England section of the President's Highway Safety Conference.

The five plaques representing seven awards won by the District for traffic safety and Traffic Court work last year were on display at the luncheon.

Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young, District Engineer Commissioner, said it was "a little grim to see these five plaques for 'only' 67 traffic deaths, most of which could have been prevented."

George E. Keneipp, District director of vehicles and traffic, was chairman of the safety part of the meeting. Presiding was Hermann Wilson, Kiwanis president.

4 Die, 61 Ill of Polio In Texas Epidemic

San Angelo, Tex., June 2 (AP).—Polio deaths in this west Texas city stood at four today. About 61 patients are hospitalized.

Dr. R. E. Elvins, city health officer, has declared polio is at an epidemic stage here. San Angelo's population is about 25,000.

Mitchell Named Chest Drive Head In Montgomery

James A. Mitchell, president of the Monroe Ford Co. of Silver Spring, has been appointed chairman of the Montgomery County Community Chest campaign, scheduled to open in October.

Mitchell

Mitchell was associate chairman of the county's business unit in last year's drive. For three years he served as chairman of the Chest drive in Cambridge, Mass.

A graduate of the Naval Academy and Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, he was a Navy commander during World War II. He has been a Ford dealer in Montgomery County since 1945.

Federation's Trophy Goes To Dean's Wife

Mrs. Harold Benjamin, of College Heights, last night was awarded the Prince Georges County Civic Federation's trophy for outstanding community service during the year.

The trophy is donated annually by the Evening Star to the "delegate or member" of the federation performing the most outstanding public service to the county during the calendar year.

Mrs. Benjamin, wife of the dean of the University of Maryland's College of Education, was selected for her work in promoting a county-wide health survey in 1948.

She is the second woman to win the award since it was inaugurated 11 years ago. Last year's winner was Mrs. Betty Tayman of Cheverly.

A native of Peru, Ind., Mrs. Benjamin has lived in Maryland since 1939 and has been a member of the Civic Federation for three years. She is chairman of the group citizenship committee and also is a charter member of the county's League of Women Voters.

The trophy was presented to her by Walter F. Mulligan, president of the federation, at last night's monthly meeting in the County Service Building at Hyattsville.

and killed 429 people, there would be a great hullabaloo about it. We would turn out the Red Cross, and we would declare an emergency, and I don't know what all.

"Yet, when we kill them on the road, or unnecessarily drown them, in accidents that shouldn't happen, we just take it for granted. We musn't do that."

Representative Reva Beck Bosone (D., Utah) recommended to the safety conference indorsement of uniform traffic regulations.

As chairman of the committee on laws and ordinances, she said: "The American people must not be confused because of unfamiliar traffic laws."

"The numerous official agencies participating in this conference," she said, "should assume responsibility in their respective fields for uniform administration, application and enforcement of the regulations."

She added that the American Bar Association, the Junior Bar Conference and judicial councils in the States should assume responsibility for appropriate judicial procedures, including the principle of uniform penalties for lighter offenses.

Gen. Streit to Get Extra Star Today

Brig. Gen. Paul H. Streit, commanding general of the Army Medical Center and Walter Reed General Hospital, will receive a promotion today to the grade of major general, temporary. Maj. Gen. R. W. Bliss, Army Surgeon General, will award him the extra star at a ceremony in the Pentagon at 8:45 a. m.

General Streit has commanded here since January 15. Before that, he commanded Brooke General Hospital at San Antonio, Tex. He has been in the Regular Army Medical Corps since he received his medical degree in 1916 and saw overseas service in both World Wars.

Takes Health Post

Dr. Leona Baumgartner, former assistant commissioner of health in New York City, took office yesterday as associate chief of the Children's Bureau of the Federal Security Agency. She will have special responsibility for health services of the bureau. She succeeds Dr. Martha M. Eliot who has been appointed an assistant director general of the World Health Organization.

Bill Approved To Expedite New Highway

A bill to expedite completion of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway was approved yesterday by the House Public Works Committee.

The new super highway, on which grading is one third completed, will begin at the District line and extend 18 miles to a point near the northern limits of Fort Meade.

The measure specifically transfers jurisdiction of the parkway from the Public Roads Administration to the National Park Service, thus permitting annual funds appropriated to that agency to be allocated to further work on the nearby roadway.

The bill also transfers the Suitland Parkway, now under War Assets Administration control, to the Park Service.

would increase over the current year.

National defense procurement, including ship and aircraft construction, other ordnance, guided missiles, combat vehicles, maintenance and repair, food, clothing and other supplies, represents nearly half of the total, with an increase of about one billion dollars over 1949.

"Indirect" Props

Most Government economists hold that actually every dollar in the 41.8 billion budget will find its way into the economy and have some sustaining effect on business.

Foremost among the "indirect" props they cite these informal budget classifications, totaling 23.5 billion dollars:

Personal services	$10,000,000,000
Interest payments on the debt	5,500,000,000
Pensions	4,500,000,000
Armed forces pay and allowances	3,500,000,000

In his recent Pentagon speech, weighing the pros and cons of an approximate 15-billion-dollar military budget, Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, asked these questions:

"Is not the rising scale of disbursement under this program a useful and welcome prop to a commodity and labor market which shows what some people regard as an alarming tendency to sag?

"Is not this just the complementary factor that, added to the spending plans of business and the 'propensity to spend' of farmers and city consumers, will give the economy confidence as well as funds to go ahead on a good level of prosperity at least to the middle of 1950?"

Some Qualifications

Dr. Nourse concluded that this idea has some validity but requires important qualifications.

"There can be no argument but that the cash disbursements that will take place during the next year or so under a military budget of presently indicated size will be an important demand factor in the domestic economy," he said.

Nourse stressed he was not saying the present scale of military spending is really good for the economy and that a few billion more would be better.

He said he meant the budget represented careful weighing of the needs of military security and European reconstruction against strong claims of "domestic improvements and welfare."

He said all these deferred civilian needs are still there, ready to employ any manpower or block of materials made available when preparedness needs can be cut.

Some business economists outside of Government are beginning to echo the Nourse view.

Negro Cadets Will Get Drill Prizes Today

The two-day, fifty-seventh annual competitive drill of cadets of four Washington Negro high schools will close at 2:30 p. m. today with a regimental review and award of prizes at Griffith Stadium.

Ten companies strutted yesterday from 9 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. The other eight companies will drill from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. today.

Since 1893 Dunbar has dominated the drill, winning 29 first places. Armstrong has won 13 and Cardoza 5. Phelps Vocational has yet to place. Lieut. Col. John Hamilton, Dunbar senior, commands the regiment.

Israel Seals Front

Tel Aviv, June 2 (NYHT).—Israel sealed off its central front today as a retaliatory measure resulting from the reported murder of two soldiers by an Arab Legion noncommissioned officer.

County Votes Cash Slot Machine Payoff

fire house to the elementary school proved unfounded.

The fire house is used in town elections. Advertisements had announced that balloting in the referendum would be in the elementary school, as is usual in county elections.

The referendum was authorized by the last session of the Maryland General Assembly on April 2.

Under the bill signed by Governor Lane, approval by Prince Georges voters means:

Legalization of cash payoffs on console-type slot machines and pinball games. Licenses for such machines will be issued by the county commissioners and will cost $25 to $175 a machine and up to $1000 for distributors.

Operation of conventional "one-arm bandit" machines is banned, and persons under 18 are not allowed to play the legalized devices.

Fines for violations range up to $1000. License applicants must be property owners, voters and county residents for two years.

The only group that publicly advocated the measure was the County Hotel and Restaurant Association, which hired a public relations firm to promote a favorable vote.

In pamphlets, placards and door-to-door canvasses, the association claimed license fees would yield the county $250,000 for roads, schools and tax reduction.

Opponents, including the clergy and civic groups, argued legalization would be morally wrong, and would encourage racketeering and corruption in county government by creating an opening wedge for syndicated gamblers.

Three other southern Maryland counties have sanctioned slot machine payoffs. They are St. Marys, Calvert and Anne Arundel counties. A Charles County vote is set for June 21.

The voting by precincts in yesterday's slot machine referendum in Prince Georges County was as follows:

Buses Failure To Make Stop Costs $43,000

Trenton, N. J., June 2 (NYHT). On January 21, 1947, Thomas J. Rourke, of Orange, N. J., boarded a public service bus in Elizabeth and asked the driver to let him off at the little town of Barber, about 15 miles south of Elizabeth. He said he was not familiar with the neighborhood.

The bus went through Barber without stopping. Rourke, when he realized it, asked the driver to stop, got off, crossed the street and boarded a bus going in the opposite direction. He told the second driver to let him off at Barber. The situation was repeated. The bus passed Barber, Rourke asked the driver to stop and got off.

This time, however, he was struck by an automobile as he crossed the street and was injured seriously. He brought suit against the Public Service Coordinated Transport. Approving his claim today for medical expense, damages and lost wages, the court awarded Rourke $43,000.

The court held that through no fault of his own Rourke had been carried past his destination twice, adding it was incumbent upon the defendant to exercise a high degree of care for his safety while the errors were being rectified.

Howling Whatsis Prowling Again In Arlington Area

A "something" which screams like a woman, looks something like a monkey, and plays hob with the neighborhood dogs is raising goose bumps on the spines of Arlington residents in the Chain Bridge area.

It all began Tuesday when Mrs. J. Krug McCloskey of 4428 N. Glebe rd. reported to police her dog had been slaughtered, presumably by the "something." Then Mrs. Carrie Dyers, 4440 N. Glebe rd., said she had seen the whatsis, and it looked like a cross between a monkey and a wildcat.

Other neighbors reported the thing "howls like a woman in distress." Puzzled, Arlington police scratched their heads, recalled that a year ago several men with dogs tried to track down the critter without success.

Second Polio Case Reported For District

The District's second case of polio this year was reported by the Health Department yesterday at Gallinger Hospital.

The case was a 25-year-old male who resides in the 700 block of 5th st ne. The man was admitted last month to St. Elizabeths Hospital for observation as a result of a head injury.

He later developed symptoms suggestive of polio and was transferred to Gallinger, where the diagnosis was confirmed.

The first case of the year was reported on January 17.

Bonaccorsy, Roche Trial Postponed

Police trial board proceedings against Pvt. Angelo Bonaccorsy and Detective James Roche for failing to answer a Municipal Court summons were postponed for one week yesterday.

The delay was ordered to allow the board to clean up already postponed cases against two patrolmen.

Roche and Bonaccorsy are charged with failing to appear in Municipal Court on May 12 in answer to a summons to presecute Gerald Barnes, whom they arrested four months earlier on charges of selling whisky without a license.

Their trial was scheuled for June 9.

The two officers before the board today are Pvt. Raymond E. Ryan, 35, of the Second Precinct, and Pvt. Lewis D. Crooke, 31, of the Twelfth Precinct, both veterans of more than five years on the force.

Ryan is charged with conduct prejudicial to the good order of the department, failure to report a change of address and making an untruthful statement to his commanding officer.

Crooke is charged with malingering and feigning illness, failing to report to the police clinic and being intoxicated while off duty.

Jury Acquits Earl Hatcher

A District Court jury yesterday acquitted Earl E. Hatcher, 24, a former mailman, of second degree murder in the fatal shooting of George Janey, 1230 Wylie st. ne.

Janey was shot to death November 17, 1946, after he bumped Hatcher while both were on a streetcar.

The jury found that Hatcher was of unsound mind at the time of the shooting and ordered his release. The trial was held before Judge Edward M. Curran.

Glen Burnie Case

Jealous Boy May Have Slain Girl

MARGARET ARMSTRONG

A former University of Maryland coed who has dramatically entered the Glen Burnie double-murder case said last night she believes there is a "possibility" the murders may have been committed by a jealous boy friend of the slain girl and not by Thomas Edwards, who stands convicted for them.

Margaret Armstrong, who lives at the Y.W.C.A. in Alexandria, Va., and works in the reservations section of Eastern Airlines, told The Washington Post "a gun-happy sort of person" who was known to have dated pretty, 18-year-old Mary Kline and knew John H. Hahlan, 25, of Glen Burnie may be involved.

The bullet-pierced bodies of Miss Kline and Mahlan were found in a clearing off Chesterfield rd. in Anne Arundel County last September.

Miss Armstrong revealed she had talked with both prosecution and defense attorneys in anticipation of a hearing Saturday in Baltimore on a motion for a retrial for Edwards, 23, who was convicted four months ago and faces a possible death or life imprisonment.

She said she gave affidavits in Alexandria yesterday to Assistant State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro of Baltimore and that the night before she talked also with Defense Attorney William J. McWilliams.

"I wouldn't want to see an innocent man convicted," Miss Armstrong said. "I don't know whether Edwards committed those murders or not. She added that "this other man" may be involved, but "it's not for me to say. I just want all the possible facts brought out."

Stanley Olczak, 35, a railway mail clerk, was sentenced by District Court Judge James W. Morris yesterday to 2 to 12 years imprisonment for the fatal beating of Mrs. Dorothy Reed, 45.

A District Court jury, deliberating less than an hour, found Olczak guilty of manslaughter May 13.

Mrs. Reed was found dead March 2 in the room she and Olczak shared at 1300 Vermont ave. nw. She died of a fractured skull and cerebral hemorrhage.

Olczak admitted slapping her three or four times after both had been drinking heavily, but denied he ever struck her hard enough to cause the skull fracture which brought about her death.

Mary Ellen Wrenn, 37, convicted of manslaughter in the fatal stabbing of her sister, Mrs. Oaddie Taylor, 46, was sentenced to one to four years by Judge Morris.

Mrs. Taylor died at Casualty Hospital February 13, six hours after she had been stabbed in the throat with a butcher knife by her sister during an argument in their home at 1017 Browning pl. ne.

Vinson and Clark Speak Today at Judicial Conclave

Chief Justice of the United States Fred M. Vinson, and Attorney General Tom C. Clark are scheduled to speak briefly before the tenth annual Judicial Conference for the District of Columbia Circuit today at 10 a. m. in the United States Court of Appeals building.

Other speakers will be Edward Bennett Williams, representing the District Bar Association; Mrs. Irene Kennedy, representing the Women's Bar Association; Barrington D. Parker of the Washington Bar Association, and Bettin Stalling of the Federal Bar Association.

Chief Judge Harold M. Stephens of the United States Court of Appeals, and Circuit Judge Wilbur K. Miller will preside.

The morning meeting will be an open session. The circuit judges and district judges will meet in a closed executive session at 2 p. m.

Rita's Charms Fail to Spur Aly's Horse at Epsom Downs

Epsom Downs, England, June 2 (AP).—Honeymooning Prince Aly Khan gave his bride, Rita Hayworth, a horse player's heartbreak introduction to big-time racing today.

The Prince's 3-year-old filly, Susan V, wound up fifteenth in a field of 17 in the 171st renewal of the Oaks Stakes.

King George VI had an also-ran in the Oaks, too.

Aly's father, the Aga Khan, was in a beaming mood when his 2-year-old filly, Diableretta, won the Acorn Plate for a major triumph.

The Aga Khan was lording it over his heir in reviewing prospects for the Derby Saturday. The Aga Khan has entered Hindustan and the Prince has put in Iran, a horse regarded by the Aga Khan and others as something of a goat.

The Oaks, run before a group of British royalty excepting the ailing King George and Princess Elizabeth, was won by a commoner, Scottish Shipping Magnate N. P. Donaldson, with a bay filly named Musidora. Two French fillies, Coronation V and Vice Versa II, were second and third.

Donaldson won $41,080 and the congratulations of Queen Elizabeth.

Rita was excited over her first view of this historic turf. She already had won a race with a horse of her own, Skylarking, in the Prix de Nogent at Le Tremblay, France, yesterday—and she is reported planning to run her new stable later on West Coast American tracks.

Before the Oaks, Rita and Aly went into the paddock to watch the saddling. They walked in just as Princess Margaret and the Dukes of Edinburgh and Gloucester were leaving, but there was no indication of recognition.

The Aly Khans flew over from Deauville in their private twin-engine plane shortly after noon. At Croydon Airport, the Prince dashed into an office for a quick change and emerged properly attired for "Ladies Day" at Epsom—gray topper, striped trousers and tail coat.

Suspect Is Released In Rock Creek Rape

Police were conducting wholesale questioning yesterday in their search for the man who raped a 24-year-old Veterans Administration clerk Wednesday night in Rock Creek Park.

Late in the afternoon, Lieut. John Layton, new head of the Metropolitan Police sex squad, said men answering the description of the rapist were being brought to headquarters for questioning from the various precints.

"But we have no definite suspects," Layton said. "We are going to have to do a lot of digging in this case."

By late afternoon, police had questioned and released about 16 men, one of whom looked like a "hot" suspect for a time.

The crime occurred at about 9:45 p. m. in a grassy park plot in the rear of Francis Junior High School, 24th and N sts. nw. The scene is not far from the P st. bridge.

The girl and her companion, Pfc. Verlin K. Jacks, 19, of Fort Myer, Va., had strolled into the park to sit on the grass. They were approached by a man who held a small caliber automatic pistol in one hand. He robbed the girl of $14 and her wrist watch and took $9 from the soldier.

Then, still holding the young couple at gunpoint, the man commanded Jacks to lie face down on the grass. He bound the soldier's hands and feet with adhesive tape, then raped the girl on the ground nearby.

Afterward the attacker ran north through the park.

Jacks took the girl to her residence at Scott's Hotel, 2131 O st. nw., and called police. The girl was taken to Gallinger Hospital for treatment.

The girl described her attacker as a dark-skinned Negro between 20 and 25 years of age, about 5 feet 9 inches and weighing about 170 pounds. He was wearing a dark baseball cap and a dirty sports shirt open at the collar, she said.

Within an hour, six men had been paraded before the girl by Metropolitan and Park Police but she could not identify any of them.

Later, police thought they had picked up a likely suspect in a 27-year-old laborer. The girl viewed him and said she thought he was the man but wasn't sure.

After a physical examination of the man officials decided there was insufficient evidence to hold him at this time.

He was released, Layton said, but will be investigated further. Layton said the man had in his possession a baseball cap such as the one said to have been worn by the rapist.

Senate Passes Bill For Airlift Medals

The Senate yesterday passed a bill creating a special medal to honor the men who flew the Berlin Airlift and helped break the Soviet blockade.

The award, to be known as the "Medal of Humane Actions," would be presented by President Truman.

Posthumous awards would be made to those killed during "Operation Vittels" as well as those who have died since taking part in the venture.

All References to Rep. Rogers Cut From Latta-Lawrence Maintenance Suit

All references to Representative Edith Nourse Rogers (R., Mass.) in the Latta-Lawrence maintenance suit were ordered removed yesterday.

District Court Judge Matthew F. McGuire granted a motion by the lawyers for Navy Capt. Harold A. Latta-Lawrence that paragraphs 5 through 9 in the suit filed by Mrs. Eilene Diana Latta-Lawrence be stricken because their irrelevance in the question of maintenance.

In these paragraphs of the suit, Mrs. Latta-Lawrence had charged that her marriage to the captain was "cause of great misery and suffering to Congresswoman Rogers, with whom defendant told plaintiff he had been on intimate and close terms for 20 years."

The paragraphs also alleged that their marriage was twice postponed in order that the agreement and consent of Mrs. Rogers might be obtained.

Mrs. Rogers, who is 67 and has been a member of Congress since 1925, branded the accusations as "ridiculous." Captain Latta-Lawrence called them "fantastic" and later, in answer to the suit, charged his wife with aiming to embarrass him before his friends and deprive him of his commission in the Navy.

He also charged that she had pretended kinship with Dr. Frank Hammer, of Los Angeles, to cover up "their living together," and had pretended Dr. Hammer was her uncle.

A sworn affidavit from Dr. Hammer was filed yesterday in District Court. He stated that he and his wife, who died several years ago, met Mrs. Latta-Lawrence back in 1913.

She visited them frequently and they talked at one time of adopting her, but never actually broached the subject, his affidavit declared. Her visits were even more frequent after his wife became seriously ill in 1939 and from then on they gave her a regular monthly income, according to the affidavit.

Dr. Hammer said in his statement that he met Captain Latta-Lawrence before the wedding and they corresponded. He said also that he paid for the wedding.

12 Boys Ordered To Build Fund for Child of Girl, 17

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 2 (AP).—Circuit Judge William H. Schannen today ordered 12 boys to pay $125 each into a trust fund to be used for the support of a child born recently to an unmarried 17-year-old high school girl.

The unwed mother charged a Monroeville youth was the father of the child. He denied the charge and named 12 others who he said had been intimate with the young mother.

All 12 admitted his statement.

Lunch Program for Schools in District Discontinued With Exhaustion of Funds

Funds available for subsidizing school lunches are exhausted and after today the District Board of Education was told yesterday.

School Superintendent Hobart M. Corning said that he had received the one day notice from Harry Gardner, superintendent of the National School Lunch Program for the District.

Twenty-five junior and senior high schools and one elementary school now participate in the program. Children receive hot lunches and milk at a reduced cost under its provisions. School cafeterias are reimbursed at a rate of 7 cents a plate and 2 cents a bottle of milk for each lunch served.

Associate School Superintendent Lawson J. Cantrell said that the possible effect of the program's end may be to raise the cost of student lunches by 9 cents. Where possible, school cafeterias will absorb the additional price, he added.

The "penny milk" program under which elementary students are served milk at a reduced rate during their morning recess is not affected, Cantrell said.

He said that the District had been allocated $135,000 for the lunch program during the current school year and it was this fund that had been used up.

By a 5-to-2 vote the board approved the transfer to foreign students now attending Americanization program in the Webster School, 10th and H sts. nw., to the Adams Elementary School, 19th and California sts. nw.

The move had been fought by parents of Adams School children who objected to adults sharing the same building with children.

In other actions yesterday the board:

Approved the transfer of special students now attending two classes at Kramer Junior School to the Hine Junior High School. The move will prevent Kramer from going on a part-time schedule in September.

Agreed to take up provisions of the report on schools prepared by Dr. George D. Strayer at a special meeting June 21.

Referred to its personnel committee a recommendation by Dr. Corning that the board seek legislation to exchange teachers on a national and international basis.

Granted Mrs. Mabel T. Covington, teacher at the Thomas Elementary School, permission to practice law after school hours.

Approved three new positions of assistant principal at the Anacostia, Coolidge and Dunbar High Schools.

Miss May P. Bradshaw, 1631 S st. nw., principal of Roosevelt High School, 48 years.

Joseph G. Logan, 139 S st. nw., principal Shaw Junior High School, 39 years.

Mrs. Sylvia P. Patterson, 1431 S st. nw., home economics teacher at Browne Junior High School, 36 years.

Mrs. Kate S. Outwater, 620 F st. sw., bookkeeping teacher at Roosevelt High School, 47 years.

Miss Florence P. Landis, 3427 34th pl. nw., history and geography teacher at Deal Junior High School, 40 years.

Mrs. Maude J. Kline, 5727 Potomac ave. nw., art teacher at Langley High School, 35 years.

Miss Bertha Birtwell, 2 Woodmont rd., Belle Haven, Alexandria, mathematics teacher at McKinley High School, 42 years.

Miss Susie A. Mangum, 2605 Monroe st. ne., Kingsman School teacher, 30 years.

Mrs. Olive W. Young, 3609 35th st. nw., substitute in the elementary schools, 33 years.

Miss Elsie E. Michaelsen, 913 Sligo ave., Silver Spring, Md., 44 years.

Mrs. Bessie T. Van Driesen, 1724 Varnum st. nw., music teacher in the elementary schools, 41 years.

Miss Lena F. Wilkins, 1519 28th st. nw., Fillmore School, 37 years.

Miss Ellen S. Kent, 1629 Columbia rd. nw., teacher, Adams School, 30 years.

Miss Laura K. Pollock, 2434 16th st. nw., teacher, Raymond School, 40 years.

Plane Only Practicing

All that alarm in Mount Rainier and Hyattsville area about a large plane in distress, circling for approximately an hour, turned out to be needless.

National Airport traffic controllers reported that the Army had set up a ground control approach system on one of its runways at Andrews Field and the four-motored ship was practicing approaches with the mechanism.

Why He Declined

Segregation Here Keeps Bunche Away

Segregation and discrimination against Negroes makes Washington an unwelcome place for Negroes to live, Ralph J. Bunche said yesterday.

In an article in the current issue of Collier's, Dr. Bunche told the writer, Richard B. Gehman, that "'Frankly, there's too much Jim Crow in Washington for me—I wouldn't take my kids back there.'"

The former professor and administrator at Howard University, now with the United Nations, rejected the proffer by President Truman of a post as Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern and African Affairs. The offer came after Dr. Bunche's outstanding record as United Nations mediator between Jews and Arabs in the Palestine dispute. His Negro racial background was no barrier to success. It is, he said, a barrier in Washington.

"'I built a house in Washington while I was teaching at Howard,'" the article quotes Dr. Bunche. "'It was in a section of the city in which the whites predominated at that time. When we moved in, my daughters had to go 3 miles to school—I had to hire a driver to take them—even though there was a school for white kids just around the corner.

"'When I was in the State Department, representatives of other governments, who knew nothing about race prejudice, would sometimes call me up and ask me to meet them at the Mayflower or the Wardman Park or some other place for lunch or cocktails. My Negro friends and I had been refused service in many Washington public places so many times that I never knew what to expect . . . whether to accept or decline.

"'It's extremely difficult for a Negro to maintain even a semblance of human dignity in Washington.

"'At every turn he's confronted with places he can't enter because of his color . . . Washington isn't unique in this regard, of course—but after all, it is the Nation's Capital, and its racial practices have a great symbolic significance.

"'For my part, I have no desire to go back there.'"

When Dr. Bunche was in Washington two weeks ago and declined the State Department position, he made no mention of the segregation issue. At that time, he told reporters that financial considerations caused him to reject it. He now has an $11,000 salary free of income taxes plus some additional amounts. The assistant secretaryship pays $10,330 a year, subject to taxes.

Bunche Acknowledges Dislike for Jim Crow

Lake Success, June 2 (AP).—Dr. Ralph J. Bunche said today no Negro likes Jim Crow, but that he turned down a Washington job mainly because he wants to stay with the United Nations.

intendent of the Interior Department's National Capital Parks to abolish all segregation in board activities.

Root's motion, however, now appears headed for defeat. At a recent meeting of the Recreation Board's by-laws committee, three members voted to disapprove the anti-segregation motion: Chairman Harry S. Wender, Vice Chairman James E. Schwab and Mrs. Andrew Saul. Steinem makes four negative votes, an absolute majority of the seven-member group.

The "compromise" proposal, being worked out in the by-laws committee, has never been made public by Schwab. It calls for an eventual end of segregation but points out many administrative problems to be worked out first.

The "compromise" now appears assured of majority approval by the Recreation Board.

Negro School Is 'Qualified' In Arlington

Arlington's only Negro high school, Hoffman-Boston, has been placed on the "qualified" list of Virginia high schools for the first time, Principal Stephen M. Sydnor said yesterday.

Status on the qualified list is the first step in obtaining offical accreditation of the school, so that its students may be eligible to enter Virginia colleges without further examination.

Arlington's present school board undertook the job of raising the high school's standing when it took office in 1948.

A test suit, filed by a student who claimed facilities at Hoffman-Boston were not up to those of Washington-Lee High School for white students is still pending in Alexandria District Court.

Harriman in London

London, June 2 (U.P.).—W. Averill Harriman, roving U. S. Ambassador for the Marshall Plan, arrived today for conferences with European Recovery Program officials.

ABC Charge Dismissal Asked

Dismissal of a charge of selling whisky to a minor against the Casablanca Restaurant, 421 11th st. nw., was asked yesterday after a hearing before the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

Charles E. Ford, attorney for the restaurant, asked dismissal on the basis of conflicting testimony by Carolyn Taylor, 18, 4316 N. Henderson rd., Arlington, principal witness in the case.

The girl, picked up by a policeman at 4 a. m., March 5, made a statement at the police Women's Bureau that she had been sold whisky in the restaurant. Yesterday, she said she had bought nothing but beer and made the prior statement to obtain earlier release from custody. She said, however, that sailors in her booth bought whisky and she drank some of it.

The ABC board announced imposition of a three-day license suspension against Carrigan's Restaurant, Connecticut ave., and S st. nw., on a charge of selling liquor to an intoxicated person and permitting him to remain on the premises. The suspension will begin at 8 a. m. Tuesday.

Meat Prices in Area Rise 2 to 10 Cents

Meat prices to Washington area weekend shoppers are from 2 to 10 cents a pound higher than last week, with even higher prices in prospect for next week.

The local trend is in line with a general sharp climb throughout the Nation, indicated by an Associated Press check. Meat prices now have been on the upswing for about three weeks.

Pork is showing the biggest rise, about 5 to 6 cents a pound both locally and nationally. Local stores checked report continuing wholesale price advances will bring higher retail price tags next week.

Beef in Washington stores checked is up 2 to 5 cents this weekend, veal is up anywhere from one-half cent to 10 cents, depending on the cut.

Lamb, one large chain reported, has "priced itself out of the market." Very little is being sold to housewives at prices 80 cents or more a pound.

This season usually brings a meat price advance but the recent rises have been greater than had been expected in view of the good supply situation.

Government cost-of-living figures have been climbing slowly the past three months, owing chiefly to increasing food costs. In turn, meat prices have been the chief villain.

Prices for butter, eggs and milk show little, if any, change, with some reports butter may drop another cent or two at retail. Wholesale butter prices this week were at the lowest point since OPA days in some markets. Production is up as much as 18 per cent over a year ago.

4 Found Dead In Baltimore Triangle Pact

Baltimore, June 2 (AP).—Four members of a Chinese-American family, two of them children, were found shot to death this afternoon in a locked apartment.

Police attributed the tragedy to murder-suicide, but did not immediately decide who did the shooting.

After breaking into the South Baltimore apartment, police found the body of Mrs. Helen Wong, 31, in the kitchen with a bullet wound in a shoulder, a .32-caliber revolver nearby.

In a bedroom, they found the bodies of Mrs. Wong's 33-year-old brother-in-law, Leonard, two children and another revolver. The children were James, 12-year-old son of Mrs. Wong, and Eileen, 7-year-old daughter of Leonard.

Police said both Mrs. Wong and Leonard were separated from their spouses. The bodies were found in the second-floor apartment of Mrs. Wong. Leonard lived on the third floor in the same building.

James Wong, divorced husband of the dead woman and brother of the dead man, was among the first to learn of the tragedy. He was called to the apartment by neighbors, alarmed when the two children failed to go to school.

One of his employes climbed a ladder, saw the bodies through a window and called police.

Leonard and the two children were shot in the heads. The man's body was sprawled across that of his daughter and the boy was on a bed alongside them. A medical examiner said the quartet had ben dead between four and five hours.

Colombia Hears Fraud Is Planned On Election Day

Bogota, Colombia, June 2 (U.P.).—A government official today announced the discovery of widespread fraud in connection with next Sunday's parliamentary elections.

Electoral Registrar Anibal Cardozo Gaitan said more than 220,000 cases of double registration have been discovered.

Liberal Party leaders complained to the Interior Ministry today that three Liberals had been arrested and shot in the village of Sahagun.

Methodists Urge Curbs On Liquor Ads

By Martha J. Hall
Post Reporter

Westminster, Md., June 2.—More than 600 Methodists, about half of them lay members, today converged on Western Maryland College here for the 165th session of the Baltimore Annual Conference of the Methodist Church.

The delegates, who came from the District, Baltimore, the Western Shore of Maryland and part of West Virginia, adopted a report urging the churches to work for pending legislation that would prohibit interstate liquor advertising.

Petitions for young people in each church to get support for passage of the measure will be distributed Friday.

The Rev. B. Franklin Auld of Baltimore, chairman of the Conference Board of Temperance, deplored television advertising as "especially obnoxious, since it shows attractive girls and women drinking beer."

"We should be alert to watch for every chance to defeat in our counties or cities any weakening of our laws restricting gambling, liquor and vice . . . We should lead protests of citizens against the opening of new liquor stores," he declared.

The Rev. W. F. Wright, superintendent of the Hagerstown District, presented a report for the Sixth District superintendent of the conference.

"The ignorance which is present in Protestantism concerning the things we should believe is abysmal," he declared, adding "It is indeed pitiable the answers which were received from all people when they are questioned about their faith."

Asserting that many people regard the church as just one more organization, Mr. Wright warned his fellow members not to look for much advance until the spiritual conception of the church as a "divine institution of divine perpetuation" is recognized.

The church has asked for World Service offerings of $402,737 in the Baltimore conference and has received acceptances totaling $383,544, he reported.

Of this amount, $380,337 has been paid, the district superintendent said.

The Washington East and West Districts were asked to give a total of $159,200. Acceptances of $152,897 were received, and $147,665 has been paid, Mr. Wright reported.

The conference is expected to continue through Sunday when Bishop Charles W. Flint will read appointments for the coming year.

37 Graduated By Seminary

The Virginia Theological Seminary in Alexandria, largest training school for Episcopal ministers in the country, graduated its largest class ever—37—yesterday.

The graduates, most of whom are married and war veterans (including one former Regular Army colonel), received their degrees or certificates of graduation from the Right Rev. Frederick Deane Goodwin, Bishop of Virginia.

Charles Philip Price was the only member of the class to graduate cum laude. He also received the Keeling prize for excellence in sermons.

Bishop Goodwin also conferred honorary degrees of Doctor in Divinity on seven and the degree of Master of Sacred Theology on Jackson Gilliam, graduate student.

Honorary degrees were conferred on Maj. Gen. Luther D. Miller, Army chief of chaplains; the Rev. Dr. Walter Lowrice, of Princeton, translator of the works of Kierkegaard; the Right Rev. Paul Ueda, Bishop of Hokkaido, Japan (by proxy); the Right Rev. Russell S. Hubbord, Suffragan Bishop of Michigan; the Right Rev. Matthew George Henry, Bishop of Western North Carolina; the Right Rev. Hamilton West, Bishop Coadjutor of Florida; the Right Rev. Theodore Barth, Bishop Coadjutor of Tennessee.

An alumni luncheon heard a speech by the Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, retired presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of America. Other speakers included the Right Rev. Hugo Blankenship, Bishop of Cuba, speaking for the class of 1924, and Charles Philip Price, speaking for the class of 1949.

Seven members of yesterday's graduating class will be ordained deacons by their home bishops today at 10:30 a. m. in the seminary chapel.

Laborers' Union Officials Arrested At Alexandria Job

Two officials of Building Laborers Local Union 74 were arrested yesterday after being accused by a construction official of trespassing on an Alexandria building job.

The two, Settler M. Leak, business agent, and Thomas G. Sampler, treasurer of the AFL union, were taken to jail by Alexandria police on warrants sworn out by Clarence Simpson, of Eugene Simpson & Brother, the concern now building the Madison Street High School.

"I don't know what the men came there for," Simpson said last night. "But we have a strict rule against anyone going on our job except actual employes. This is made necessary by our insurance coverage. The men were warned to stay off and disregarded the warning."

Simpson pointed out that no strike has been called on project. About 150 men are working on the $750,000 job, he said.

Sampler and Leak were released under $100 bail each for appearance in Alexandria Police Court this morning.

Takoma Park City Council Approves $309,771 Budget

The Takoma Park City Council in an executive session last night approved the proposed $309,771 city budget for the fiscal year 1949-50.

The executive session followed immediately after a public hearing in the Takoma Park Fire House at which there was no significant opposition to the budget proposal.

A suggestion from the floor at the public hearing that the salary of the police chief be increased to $4500 to make it equal to that of the fire chief was approved by the council.

Salary increases were also provided for other city officials.

The present budget is the largest in the city district, representing an increase of $94,513.40 over the present budget.

Despite this budget increase it provides for a 7-cent cut in the city's tax rate, now $1.20. The tax cut was made possible, city officials said, by higher assessments and anticipated Montgomery County and State funds.

About 60 persons attended the public hearing, which concluded with resolutions of praise for the work of the Finance Commission. Committee members include J. H. Nies, Sherwood Githens, jr., and Walter H. McClenon.

Heads Surplus Property Unit

Leslie P. Parmele, former Anacostia High School faculty member, has been appointed director of the District Educational Agency for Surplus Property at a salary of $5905 a year.

Parmele

Parmele, a major in the Army during World War II, will head a three-man staff handling the procurement and distribution of war surplus materials to the local schools, Board of Public Welfare and Department of Corrections.

WMA Asks Ban Of Transit Buses

Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Motor Lines, Inc., yesterday requested the District Public Utilities Commission to reconsider an order authorizing the Capital Transit Co. to operate in the vicinity of Fairfax Village, Southeast housing development.

Hearing Delayed Against Lions in Gambling Case

Hearings for four members of the Washington Southwest Harbor Lions Club on gambling charges were postponed yesterday because of the illness of Prince Georges County States Attorney A. Gwynn Bowie.

Bowie, who suffered a heart attack Sunday, was reported in Providence Hospital yesterday.

Charges against the four Lions stemmed from a raid May 25 by county police on the club's charity cruise on the S.S. Mount Vernon. Hearings were rescheduled for July 11.

Action on Police Posts At Takoma Park Slated

Final action on the proposal to withdraw four Montgomery County policemen and three county desk clerks from Takoma Park is slated for next Tuesday.

County Councilman J. Douglas Bradshaw said yesterday he would introduce an appropriate resolution Tuesday providing for the withdrawal.

Final Arguments Set In English Welfare Case

Final arguments in a hearing on complaints against Thomas R. English, District Public Welfare Department social worker, will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. in the District Building.

Yesterday Mrs. Ruth D. Hubbard, superintendent of the board's interstate service section, testified before Lawrence Koenigsberger, who was designated by the Commissioners to hear evidence on English's working relations with his superior, Mrs. Hubbard.

Silver Spring Board of Trade Assails Plan to Raise Taxes

A petition opposing the proposed 10 cent tax rate increase in Montgomery County was sent to the county council yesterday by the Silver Spring Board of Trade.

"The present tax rate of $1.88 can be retained without curtailing basic and necessary service requirements and without engaging in unsound financial practices," the Board of Trade said.

County Manager I. E. McNayr has suggested the 10-cent increase to support his record operating budget of $7,834,628 for 1949-50. The budget is an increase of $1,699,300 over the current year's. Budget hearings are set for June 10, 13 and 15.

In presenting the resolution, Chairman Blair Lee, III, of the trade board's civic affairs committee, said there was "no justification" for the rate hike.

Lawrenson Quits County Post Abolished by Law Last Month

After one year's service, Charles S. Lawrenson, Montgomery County Civil Service Commissioner, yesterday submitted his resignation.

The resignation, effective June 15, followed enactment of a law last month by the County Council that abolishes the $3000-a-year post. Lawrenson, a Republican, was appointed by the Republican predecessors of the County Council.

Lawrenson's duties will be performed by the recently created County Personnel Board, two of whose members were active in the Charter Committee, which backed the present council.

Before joining the county government, Lawrenson, 52, was an Army major and a liaison employe of the Civil Service Commission.

Uranium Mining Feared in Czechs' Request for Drills

Annecy, France, June 2 (AP).—The United States declined to ship coal mine drills to Czechoslovakia because they appeared to be intended for uranium mining, an American delegate told the World Tariff Conference today.

The delegate, John W. Evans, said a Czech request for high quality ball bearings also was denied because United States experts were convinced the bearings were to be used for aircraft and other military purposes.

The 23-nation conference, which has been in session here several weeks, was considering a Czech allegation made earlier this week that United States export restrictions violated the Geneva tariff agreement of 1947.

Washington's only fresh-water lake—situated in virgin forest in the foothills of the Blue Ridge—31 miles from the Capitol. It is a sensibly restricted lodge colony. It is free from mosquitoes and nettles. The healthful, bracing air and the quiet restfulness of its 500 wooded acres make Lake Jackson the perfect place to get away from the hot, crowded city. Excellent swimming, fishing and boating for property owners only. Incomparably enchanting and desirable. Established 21 years.
Lodge sites are from $300 up. Lodge built to your specifications. Lodges from $3,500 up. Terms.

Let The House Vote

The Senate's prompt approval of home rule for Washington showed how flimsy is the opposition when Congress is confronted openly with so meritorious a proposal. Hence the tactic of those who wish to keep the District as a helpless ward for racial or other reasons is likely to be an attempt to prevent the home rule bill from getting to the floor of the House. The danger lies not so much in the full House District Committee, whose chairman, even though he opposes the bill, favors letting it come to a vote. The peril lies in its referral to a District Judiciary Subcommittee, four of whose seven members are Southerners. Only two of the subcommittee's members have indorsed home rule. To some local enthusiasts the step looks suspiciously like stacking, even though it is unfair to prejudge what the subcommittee will do. If the democratic process has any meaning, these seven members have an obligation to report the bill to the full committee promptly so that the entire House may consider it. Speaker Rayburn—and indeed, the President himself—ought to make sure that there is no funny business by way of blocking the House's chance to vote on this redemption of a major campaign pledge of both parties.

Prayer At The U. N.

Mr. Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, has made the interesting proposal that the annual meetings of the Assembly be opened with prayer. But since each of the major religions of the world is represented at the United Nations, it is impossible that any formulary of prayer could be devised that would be satisfactory to all delegates. Therefore Mr. Lie has suggested that the prayers be silent, each delegate praying in his own way to his own god after the promptings of his heart.

To make the praying a matter of great solemnity, however, the erection of a special building for the purpose is in the plans for the permanent headquarters of the United Nations beside the East River in New York. The chamber in which the delegates would assemble for prayer could of course have none of the appurtenances of a church or mosque or synagogue or Hindu temple or Buddhist shrine. Thus, the plan provides merely for a circular edifice to be illuminated only through a skylight.

Apart from the utter absence of ceremony or ritual, Mr. Lie's proposal seems curiously suggestive of the festival of the Etre Supreme, as decreed and organized by Robespierre in the latter days of his dictatorship. Even so, it is difficult to see how the plan can meet with the approval of the Russian delegates and those of satellite countries. For the idea of prayer presupposes something outside and above humanity that can be prayed to. In the Communist psychology the place of this "something not ourselves that makes for righteousness," as Matthew Arnold put it, is supplied by the revolution and the classless society. To whom, then, could the Communist delegates pray? Hardly to Stalin, for it seems unlikely that he would derive any gratification from an unuttered prayer. Yet they could hardly pray to anything greater than Stalin, since it would be dangerous to admit, even to themselves, that anything greater than Stalin could exist.

Ammunition For Lewis

With a fine flurry of rhetoric, John L. Lewis has again damned the coal operators for inadequate safety precautions in the mines. The figures cited by the chieftain of the United Mine Workers make pretty gruesome reading. Over the past 19 years some 1,259,000 miners have been killed or injured at work. Statistically speaking, every miner now employed has been injured three times in mine accidents. Moreover, a considerable number of mine operators seem to have been thumbing their noses at the Federal Bureau of Mines. Only 34 per cent of the hazards reported by Federal inspectors last year were corrected in full, and no corrective action was taken in 51 per cent of the cases. Virginia, in particular, has a shocking record, with only 2 corrections noted in 1661 violations of the toothless Federal safety code.

Mr. Lewis' own union is not without responsibility in some cases—in the Centralia, Ill., tragedy of 1947, for example, the UMW seems to have ignored the miners' pleas. Nor does his indictment of "human leeches" stand against all operators. The steel companies, which own the so-called "captive" mines, have fairly good safety records, as do some of the larger coal companies. Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Illinois, under the new regime of Adlai Stevenson, have State safety codes that are competently enforced.

Nevertheless, Mr. Lewis, for all his forensics, now stands as the champion of something that is humanly right. Federal mine legislation becomes a must because it seemingly is impossible to rid the State mine bureaus of abuses bad enough to make enforcement a sham. In their own ultimate economic interest, the mine operators ought to get behind the Neely and Price bills in Congress which would permit Federal inspectors to pull out miners in cases of imminent danger. Such legislation is necessary because of the States'—and operators' —own default, and it is a small price to pay to cut down the carnage about which Mr. Lewis is so eloquent.

For A Free Europe

The formation of an American "Committee for Free Europe" is an imaginative move that should have been made long ago. Its anpounced intention is to support the anti-Communist exiles who have come here from eastern Europe, and (we are told) to push cultural contacts east of the Stettin-Trieste line.

Many organizations of exiles from communism have sprouted on American soil since the end of the war, but they have been plagued by internal dissensions and by poverty. In other countries these groups could have access to unvouchered government funds; in this country they must depend wholly on private contributions. The new committee, headed by former Ambassador Joseph C. Grew, is therefore described as entirely unofficial, yet it can be enormously useful if it is wisely led. It can help representative organizations of Czechs, Romanians and other eastern Europeans in this country to work for the ultimate liberation of their homelands. It can also make the suppressed opposition groups in eastern Europe feel that they are neither forgotten nor forsaken by the United States.

The sponsors of the committee should remember, though, that the encouragement of political resistance abroad is a tricky business. It is a weapon that can explode in our faces if it is handled carelessly or indiscriminately, or without an understanding of the realities in Soviet Europe today. Except in Czechoslovakia, most of the anti-Communists in eastern Europe are simple peasants who have suffered as much from misgovernment as from the recurrent wars and oppressions of the last 40 years. A semifeudal landlordism has kept them poor and backward, and out of the main stream of European progress. The new American organization will have not the slightest appeal for these people if it seems to stand for the old order.

In western Europe the Bourbons once tried to turn the clock back, and almost succeeded. In eastern Europe the clock cannot be turned back to the pre-Communist regimes. The goals of any truly anti-Communist effort must be to implant genuine political rights and economic opportunities among peoples who seldom enjoyed them, even before the present police-state governments seized power. We mention these things because some of the exiles in this country, good fighters for political freedom in their day, mean little in their old countries now except as relics of dead regimes. The "Committee for Free Europe" will make a greater impact if it encourages men of the background of Mikolajczyk of Poland and Dimitroff of Bulgaria, whose names and whose records still stand for something at home.

In the same way Mr. Grew's new group will be more effective if it recruits more labor leaders and farm leaders among its sponsors. The United States must put its best foot forward in the present struggle for the mind and soul of eastern Europe. The character of the new group, the caliber of its leaders, the strength of its convictions, will determine its success quite as much as the amount of money it may raise.

Pay Compromise

It would hardly be consistent for the House, which has just courted the favor of veterans with a pension bill costing 65 billion dollars over the next 50 years, to object to the revised military pay bill on grounds of economy. There will, of course, be some legislators who will see in the pay bill an opportunity—though, in our opinion, a dangerous one—to cut the cost of defense, despite the fact that the increase was requested in President Truman's budget. What is to be hoped is that members of Congress will not again inject the specious issue of "caste"—the issue, that is to say, of whether the enlisted ranks receive as much increase as the officers.

A great deal of blather along this line helped to defeat the original Kilday bill in the House. That bill, to be sure, was not perfect. It is regrettable, for example, that the bill did not include the Hook Commission recommendations for a tightening of voluntary retirement. This was a controversial item which was dropped, although the bill did provide a badly needed overhauling of retirement for physical disability. Likewise the bill probably erred in abruptly terminating family allowances for enlisted men—even though these were a wartime innovation and something of an excrescence on regular pay scales. But in general the bill did reflect the efforts of the Hook Commission to arrive at military pay scales on a scientific basis and to provide progressive incentives for career servicemen.

There is room for compromise in the new bill. Some readjustment of proposed pay scales probably is inevitable as an expedient, but what would be inexcusable would be a revival of the cheap emotional appeal seeking to drive a wedge between officers and enlisted men by sniping at the grossly misrepresented perquisites of the "brass."

If officers' wives have been bringing pressure on Congress, it is only as a counterbalance to the sort of misunderstanding that overtook the House. Officers' salary adjustments have lagged far behind those of enlisted men, and the deterioration of the officer corps today is one of the gravest military concerns. General Bradley, with his knack of precise and graphic statement, put the case exactly right: "While your armed forces are not starving for the want of butter and eggs, the failure to provide persuasive career incentives is in danger of reducing us to an army of second-raters . . . Inferior inducements attract second-rate men. Second-rate men invite second-best security. In war there is no second prize for the runner-up."

Business Jitters

The sinking spell this week of stock market prices coincident with a further drop in steel output and in grain and other commodity prices brings predictions of worse to come. Yet an objective examination of current price and production indices does not seem to warrant pessimism about the business outlook. The fear of a slump rivaling that of the thirties or the sharp price collapse that followed World War I appears to be based on the assumption that because past booms have been followed by busts the cycle is certain to be repeated. This is as superficial a judgment as the belief that the country can be safeguarded against future setbacks by Government price supports and the stimulative effect of Government spending.

Undoubtedly the price downturn has failed so far to stimulate an expansion of buying to the extent hoped for. That is due to a considerable extent, however, to a widespread belief that further declines lie ahead. As a result many industrial buyers have been following a cautious hand-to-mouth buying policy, limiting the volume of new orders and working off inventories of high-priced goods. That practice leads to reductions in manufacturing operations, and consequent dismissals, layoffs and part-time employment for factory workers.

Although lack of confidence in the stability of the price structure has accelerated the current business downturn, the situation today differs in important respects from that prevailing at the beginning of previous major depressions. For instance, the Federal Reserve Board reports that the value of department store sales increased more than seasonally in April and the first half of May. Allowing for the later date of Easter this year, sales were only 3 per cent below the high level of a year ago. Furthermore, since retail prices are somewhat lower, unit sales of goods showed little change compared with a year ago. It is significant that this high rate of buying has been maintained despite the sustained high level of general living costs. Thus, there is reason to believe that the effective buying demand of the consuming public will before long necessitate restocking by retailers and wholesale suppliers, and lead to expansion of operations at the production end, thereby arresting employment declines.

Then, too, the backlog of demands for new housing is by no means satisfied. The drop in prices of building materials should have a highly stimulative effect in this field where high costs have been a major deterrent to meeting demands for homes for moderate-income families. The construction indices, incidentally, are promising. Total expenditures for new construction for the first four months of the year were slightly above the level of the same 1948 period, while expenditures for all types of new construction increased 10 per cent between March and April. Home-building activity, which has been lagging, also spurted upward in April, although the number of new starts was considerably below the near-record monthly level of a year ago.

So far, therefore, it appears that the country has weathered the inevitably painful and costly adjustments of a postwar reconversion period remarkably well. The shift from a seller's to a buyer's market cannot, of course, be effected without putting some high-cost concerns out of business and forcing others temporarily to reduce their scale of operations or shift to new production lines. But so long as public buying power is supported by high wages and buttressed by a huge volume of savings, there seems to be no solid basis for predicting disaster ahead.

STREET SCENE

Dragging my heels above the gutter's grime
I watch the waning of the afternoon;
A clock chimes, and a hundred hurrying feet
Take up the pattern of its thin square tune.

The street is full of noises and the reek
Of day-old smells, and dust, and urchins' cries,
And groping ghosts of things that should be men,
And girls with sunlit hair and wistful eyes,
And patient Orientals trundling bugs
Of dirty clothes in little creaky carts,
And withered women carrying parcels home

Capitalism Under Fire

POOR relatives rarely have anything but flattery for the generous member of the family who shares his wealth with those who have been less fortunate or less ambitious. That goes for nations as well as individuals.

One of the most remarkable features of the time we are living through is the uniqueness of America's position in the world. The American people are taxing themselves heavily and at considerable sacrifice to send a generous bounty to less fortunate peoples. And while there is a large element of self-interest in the program, nevertheless it puts the United States in an extraordinary role.

This assistance is so important to the stability and welfare of western Europe that it has produced an almost total cessation of criticism of American policies and pronouncements. In that vacuum of silence is a real danger, it seems to me, for this country.

There is above all the danger that we shall forget how unique and special the American system is. We will be encouraged in the illusion that it prevails elsewhere, is widely accepted and can be imposed on other nations by fiat.

THE MIXED economy of western Europe—part socialism, part private ownership—is like neither the communism of Russia nor the capitalism of America. For both the European and the American systems many Europeans today have a deep distrust.

A reminder of this came recently in a vigorous attack on "capitalism" in an editorial by Count Giuseppe Dalla Torre, editor in chief of Osservatore Romano, the official paper of the Vatican at Rome. As reported in news dispatches, the editorial went so far as to say that the church would almost prefer communism to capitalism if it were not for the atheism and materialism of the former.

That editorial caused considerable agitation in this country and in Italy. As a result the National Catholic Welfare Conference in Washington, the liaison between the American church and the Vatican, sent an interviewer to talk with Count Dalla Torre.

The count, who has been for many years editor of the Vatican's official paper, explained that he was not writing about capitalism as such but "against its modern abuses." In an official release put out by the NCWC he explained also that he was not speaking officially for the Holy See. The NCWC release quoted Count Dalla Torre as saying:

"Apart from its materialism and philosophy, the notion of communism of dividing all the world's goods among all the world's inhabitants has much more in common with Christianity than a system that seeks to concentrate the major part of the goods in the hands of a few men."

TWO famous encyclicals, one by Pope Leo XIII in 1891, and a second by Pope Pius XI in 1931, charge the state with responsibility for the welfare of the mass of workers. They more or less specifically reject nineteenth century liberalism, which held that each man had to look out for himself under the inexorable working of the law of supply and demand. Count Dalla Torre in his editorial quoted this passage from Pope Pius' encyclical:

"In the first place, it is obvious that not only is wealth concentrated in our times but an immense power and despotic economic dictatorship is consolidated in the hands of a few, who often are not owners but only the trustees and managing directors of invested funds which they administer according to their own arbitrary will and pleasure."

Both encyclicals, of course, reject socialism. But Pope Pius in 1931 said that what he called "the more moderate socialism" might be in harmony with "the desires and demands of those who are striving to remold human society on the basis of Christian principles." He added:

"For certain kinds of property, it is rightly contended, ought to be reserved to the state since they carry with them a dominating power so great that it cannot without danger to the general welfare be entrusted to private individuals."

In Sweden, Norway and Denmark, Socialist governments have nationalized some forms of production. The Socialist government of Britain is pushing nationalization of the steel industry. At the end of the war Gen. Charles de Gaulle in France carried through extensive nationalization.

We like to believe that it is our system of free enterprise which has made it possible for this country to help western Europe. But we must be sure that it remains free, and criticism is a healthy antidote to complacency.

DAR Policy

Arthur Godfrey's recent denunciation of the Daughters of the American Revolution points up the fact that the moral indignation that cleaned up Belsen and Buchenwald in Germany has an unfinished job before it in Constitution Hall in Washington, capital of world democracy.

Boston has protested by banning DAR activities from its public schools. Why could not other cities register a similar protest? V. B. SPRATLIN.

Military Pay Bill

Your editorial comment on HR 4591 has been exceptionally fair and understanding.

The following, about the Navy, is taken, from the House Armed Services Committee report on the bill: Forty per cent of the Naval Academy officers who graduated in 1945, 1946, 1947 have resigned. They held commissions for less than five years.

The committee also reports that the officers selected after the war for transfer to the Regular Navy (4929) did not all accept. Only 3894 accepted commissions. This is 79 per cent. Very few were over 40 years old. Of the officers who did join the Regular Navy 594 have resigned since July 1947. This is our 15 per cent.

To lend background to these figures the committee gives the following:

Resignations

	1937-40 (4 yrs.)
Commander	2
Lieutenant commander	1
Lieutenant	9
Lieutenant (j. g.)	29
Total	41
	1945-48 (3 yrs.)
Commander	2
Lieutenant commander	145
Lieutenant	486
Lieutenant (j. g.)	363
Total	1022

The committee points out that both of these periods are in peacetime years; that they are comparable as to general living and working conditions so far as Navy life and restrictions are concerned.

There is no battle between enlisted men and officers. The future officers' billets will be filled by many of today's enlisted men. The road-up, for enlisted men, is far more open today than it was 30 years ago.

Enlisted men were called on by the committee last fall to speak their minds about the pay bill. There was some adverse comment but the consensus was favorable.

The Hook Committee was composed of nationally known civilians. HR 4591 was based on its study. After 18 months of investigation they put in pay changes as a result of their comparisons of service jobs with industry jobs.

Acceptance of the Hook Committee principles of higher pay for greater responsibility, and acceptance of approximately their pay levels is vital to every American who wants proper military protection for these United States.

First Woman Principal

An erroneous statement in your May 27 issue prompts me to cite the facts about the first woman principal of a public high school here.

The official reports of our schools reveal that the Preparatory High School for Colored Youth was organized in November, 1870, by the Board of Trustees of Colored Schools of Washington and Georgetown, D. C., in the basement of the 15th Street Presbyterian Church. Its first woman principal was the late Mary Jane Patterson, a graduate of Oberlin College, who served from 1873 to 1884, while the school was located in the Sumner Building at 17th and M sts. nw., and, after 1877, in the Miner Building at 17th and Church sts. nw.

The Dunbar High School, the direct descendant of this institution, is the oldest public high school in the District of Columbia. Its second woman principal, Mrs. Anna J. Cooper, who served from 1901 to 1906 in the M st. high school, near 1st st. nw., still lives here.

Pedestrian Control

Your issue of May 31 announces that the District won a grand award in the 1948 National Pedestrian Protection Contest sponsored by the American Automobile Association for all cities in the United States and first prize in the 1948 National Pedestrian Protection Contest for cities of 500,000 and over.

It is gratifying to learn of the reduction of accidents to pedestrians here, but it is far from pleasing to many pedestrians to hear of the awards coming from an organization of motorists that has grossly infringed their rights.

When the pedestrian-control regulation was proposed a decade or so ago the District Commissioners announced it would not be adopted unless a majority of the people wanted it. As pedestrians were unorganized, they had no voice in the hearings the Commissioners held. The AAA had repeatedly announced in its official organ the American Motorist a drive to obtain pedestrian control in every city of the United States.

I have kept a scrapbook of newspaper clippings dealing with the efforts to enforce the pedestrian-control regulation in Washington and reviewing it I'm not surprised that there are cities which cannot be influenced to adopt such a measure and resort to the manhandling and fining of walkers as has been done in Washington.

Thornton's White House

Should the historic White House be restored, or destroyed and a new one built? To wreck the present structure seems inconceivable to those who appreciate tradition and sentiment. With all respect to present-day architects, there are no more William Thorntons, and when William Thornton designed the White House in 1792, it was perhaps more beautiful in its original simple plan than since so much has been added. Thornton was not only an unusual architect, but possessed the talent of a fine painter as well.

Let us hope all repairs and improvements will be made on the old White House and that it will be kept intact as far as possible, in the plan of William Thornton.

Education In The Army

In your May 24 editorial, "Military Pay," there was a gross misrepresentation. "Yet the services are experiencing increasing difficulty in attracting and keeping men with college training."

'Tain't so! The services don't want them. My husband (lieutenant colonel in the reserves, major on active duty) is a college graduate, B.A. degree, and lacking 18 hours toward his master's. He's a former teacher. Yet, when he applied for Regular Army, he was turned down in favor of prewar noncoms, few of whom had any college work, many of whom had just finished high school and some who did not even finish high school.

His is not the only case. In the form letter sent to him by the adjutant general, he was thanked for his interest, but was told that there were too many in his age and grade group.

Misconceptions About Spain

A letter published by you on May 28 from Mr. John T. Johnson 3d eloquently explains the origin of many of the current misconceptions which are believed with regard to the problems of Spain. Mr. Johnson states that Spain in 1936 was "a moderate democratic republic dominated by idealists who were trying to establish in a backward feudal agrarian country a modern Western-type industrial democracy."

It might be granted that the republic proclaimed in 1931 when King Alphonso XIII was overthrown was in fact the Utopian regime of the type described above. In 1936, after the February 2 election, in which the Popular Front achieved a majority in Parliament by means of violence and illegal methods, and even with less votes than the opposition, the republic degenerated into anarchy.

In the four months between these elections and June 16, 160 churches were totally destroyed, 257 churches were partly destroyed, 43 successful and unsuccessful attempts to destroy newspaper offices were perpetrated, and 113 general strikes were called.

The last moderate republican, the President of the Republic, Alcala Zamora, was impeached and violently deposed by the Cortes on April 7, 1936. He went abroad where he died. On July 13, 1936, the leader of the opposition, Senor Calvo Sotelo, was assassinated by uniformed policemen in government service.

Spaniards decided that when the leader of the opposition of the only legislative chamber could be subjected to such treatment, all legal guarantees had disappeared, and people of all kinds of political thought, in union with the army, launched the popular rising which after three years of war brought victory to the Nationalists.

It was not necessary for the Communists to have the apparent leadership of the so-called republican government for them to control it effectively from 1936 onward. The great majority of Spanish Socialists were extremists, and were easily taken over by the Communists.

The responsibility for the assassinations which, in Madrid alone and during the first two months, reached a total of 70,000, is theirs in great part; they must also answer for 8000 religious deaths, including 13 bishops. The Soviet Union lent its aid and all the Spanish left wing, especially the Socialists, followed its directives. The few moderate Socialist leaders had had to leave Spain before the end of the civil war.

The Spanish civil war was predominantly and nearly exclusively an affair between Spaniards. The first foreign intervention was that of the international brigades; when the Nationalist troops were about to enter Madrid in November, 1936, several thousand soldiers of the international brigades—today recognized as Communist—appeared on the scene and helped defend the capital city. Later there was further intervention. But truth obliges us to recognize that foreign intervention, on the whole, was of little scope in proportion to the general picture.

A Communication

Labor Statistics As A Propaganda Weapon

By Witt Bowden

Economist, U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics

The Washington Post of May 21 published a communication entitled "Labor Statistics as a Propaganda Weapon," by Mr. E. B. Mittelman, a labor economist. The writer asserts that The Gift of Freedom, a recent Bureau of Labor Statistics publication, indulges in overstatements of a propagandist nature.

The nature of the book is indicated by the full title, not cited by Mr. Mittelman, namely, The Gift of Freedom: A Study of the Economic and Social Status of Wage Earners in the United States. It was prepared in response to many requests, official and unofficial, for factual data in a form that could readily be utilized by our representatives abroad for informing other peoples about the labor aspects of life in the United States.

What are Mr. Mittelman's grounds for his assertion that The Gift of Freedom is an exaggerated statement of the status of workers in the United States? (1) The bureau's publication, in a brief reference to The City Worker's Family Budget, includes a statement that the standards set forth in that budget may be described as within the reach of perhaps three fourths of our city families. Mr. Mittelman asserts that 60 per cent would be a better estimate. (2) The bureau's publication states that the real weekly earnings of factory workers approximately doubled between 1909 and 1947. The increase, according to Mr. Mittelman, was 49 per cent.

"THE CITY Worker's Family Budget" is a budget designed to reflect broadly the community experience in 34 large cities. It should be pointed out that the reference to this budget in The Gift of Freedom was merely incidental. The reference comprises about 2 pages of a 50-page presentation of a great variety of factual data relating specifically to urban living conditions.

It is not possible to state precisely the proportion of city families who are ordinarily able to meet the standards of the budget. However, the rough estimate to which objection is now made, is merely a conservative restatement of conclusions published in detail by the bureau more than a year ago.

The costs of the budget were computed in terms of prices in March, 1946, and June, 1947. The volume cites the 1946 figures and Mr. Mittelman states that the book "for some reason swings back to the 1946 figures." These figures were used simply because of the availability, when the volume was written, of more nearly comparable family income data for the earlier period.

Mr. Mittelman cites some interesting details from a 1907 family budget study by the New York State Conference of Charities and Corrections in cooperation with the Russell Sage Foundation. Case studies of this nature for a local community are no doubt of great value for the purpose intended. The validity of that study, however, even for its limited purpose, is not apparent from "the fact that 80 persons were employed on it," and that it "was done in great detail." In any event, a careful reading of the details of the 1907 case study in New York City as presented by Mr. Mittelman has failed to reveal any relevancy to the standards and levels of living of wage earners in the United States 40 years later.

THE COMMUNICATION does contain a reference to certain broadly relevant income data of a more recent date, namely, the estimates of money family income derived by the Bureau of the Census from sample surveys. When the volume was written, the 1947 estimates were not available. "The City Worker's Family Budget" relates to 4-person workers' families in 34 large cities.

The census estimates of family income by family size are not available for individual cities; urban families are those living in all localities with a population of 2500 or more. The Bureau of Census merely reports the well-known fact that "there was a tendency for the median income to increase with size of place."

These and other statistical difficulties bar the correlation of the census family income data with the cost of the "City Workers' Family Budget." It should be noted, however, that the cost of the budget in June, 1947 prices, even in the city of highest cost, was substantially less than the 1947 median income of 4-person families in all urban localities.

"The census figures are extremely valuable, and they were used extensively, but not for the purpose indicated by Mr. Mittelman: a scientific and responsible use of the census family income figures cannot result in a precise statement of the proportion of workers' families able to maintain the standards of the City Worker's Family Budget."

Let us now consider the second alleged exaggeration. Mr. Mittelman states that the estimate of a doubling of real wages between 1909 and 1947 was derived by use of the wages of "sweated" industries, "mostly textiles and needle trades," for 1909; that the 1909 price data were limited to 15 food items; and that these wage and price figures were compared with "the more representative figures for 1947."

MR. MITTELMAN'S statement regarding the 1909 data implies that information for that year is available only for "sweated industries." This is not the case. The Bureau of the Census took a complete census of manufacturing industries for 1909. All industries, from the lowest paid to the highest paid, were included. The average for 1909 as used in The Gift of Freedom was derived from complete data published by the Bureau of the Census.

Thus, the 1909 average is no less representative than the average for 1947. Mr. Mittleman cites as evidence certain examples, from a British publication, of comparatively high wages in the machinery industries; but the earnings of these and all other factory workers were included in the Census of Manufactures, and in the average which he criticizes for alleged omissions.

What are the facts as to prices? The Bureau of Labor Statistics' index of consumers' prices as currently published extends back to 1913. It includes prices not merely of a wide variety of foods but also of clothing, house furnishings, fuel and light; and it includes data for rents and various miscellaneous items. That index was projected back to 1909 on the basis of food and other price data far more extensive than the 15 food items included in the earlier Bureau of Labor Statistics index of food prices.

Incidental note should be made of the repeated assertion in the letter that according to the index, prices "went up 2½ times" between 1909 and 1947; they actually increased 1½ times, or not far from 150 per cent. Readers who may be interested in the earlier data are referred to the thorough study made by Prof. (now Senator) Paul H. Douglas in his Real Wages in the United States, and also to the studies made by the research department of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

The index of consumers' prices for the period from 1909 to 1947 is of course an approximation (any general price index is necessarily an approximation of trend). But it is generally recognized and widely used as a reasonably good approximation.

THE ESTIMATE of the rise in real earnings of workers from 1909 to 1947 was limited in The Gift of Freedom to factory workers because of the availability of the Census of Manufactures data for 1909 and the varied and broadly representative nature of factory employment. Estimates are available, however, for other important groups. Composite wage indexes constructed by the research department of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, when adjusted for price changes, show more than a doubling of real wages between 1909 and 1947.

Reductions in hours of work have also benefited workers. The average factory worker, for example, while approximately doubling his real weekly earnings has added since 1909 about 11 hours per week, or approximately one fifth of his average working time in 1909, to his leisure available for recreation or participation in community life.

It may be noted that the volume criticized by Mr. Mittelman for alleged exaggerations contains many passages which recognize the shortcomings and imperfections of our economy as affecting the status of wage earners. The volume stresses civil liberties and responsibilities, free discussion, and in general "the way of freedom" in American life.

"The way of freedom" is credited largely with achieving such progress as we have made; and that progress is described as more soundly based than change by arbitrary authority, which "can give no valid assurance of devotion to the general welfare or of wisdom or of permanence." Freedom to criticize is at the heart of our way of life, even though the criticism may not always be soundly based.

G-Man Wins Early Release On Jail Order

Chicago, June 2 (AP).—Chicago's FBI chief was ordered "imprisoned" today for defying a court order to reveal his office papers, but he won his release three hours later on an appeal.

The Federal Court contempt order against George R. McSwain, who runs the Chicago FBI office, came during Roger (The Terrible) Touhy's attempt to win freedom from a prison kidnaping sentence.

Touhy, prohibition gangster, contends he was illegally convicted of the 1933 kidnaping of John (Jake the Barber) Factor. He is seeking his release in a habeas corpus hearing before Federal Judge John P. Barnes.

Factor's attorney asked that McSwain produce FBI records concerning preparation of the Touhy prosecution. Over McSwain's protests that he was under orders not to permit the papers to be made public, Judge Barnes ordered him to bring them to court.

McSwain refused, and Judge Barnes found him guilty of contempt. He ordered the FBI official committed to the Attorney General, or his duly appointed representative, "for imprisonment until he obeys the order of this court and produces the records referred to or until discharged by due process of law."

Marshal Thomas P. O'Donovan took McSwain to his private office. McSwain remained there three hours, until his appeal was filed.

McSwain explained to the court that his refusal was required by a Justice Department order issued in 1939 keeping confidential certain matters uncovered in FBI investigations.

United States Attorney Otto Kerner, jr., contended that if the papers were made a part of the court proceedings "there is a strong probability that at least one man and possibly more would lose theis lives."

"There is nothing in them of any value that he (Touhy) could not obtain from direct testimony," he said.

After some technical difficulties, Government lawyers obtained a writ of supersedeas from Judge Sherman Minton of the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals. Judge Minton's order, in effect, suspends Judge Barnes' action, until an appeal is ruled upon.

Judge Minton ordered McSwain released without requiring a bond.

Loan by Union Stops Paper's Foreclosure

By The Associated Press

The AFL Electrical Workers Union announced yesterday it is lending the Flora (Ill.) Sentinel enough money to prevent foreclosure of a mortgage on the semi-weekly newspaper.

Charles A. Crowder, publisher of the Sentinel, has contended the mortgage is involved in a battle for freedom of the press.

Crowder said last week a group of Flora men were trying to close down his paper because he had refused to omit strike news and editorial comment "favorable to unions" during a labor dispute in which several Flora municipal plant workers quit after failing to win recognition of their union, Local 702 of the AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

D. W. Tracy, international president of the brotherhood, said the union offered and Crowder accepted a loan "sufficient to redeem the mortgage, secured notes on the real property and operating equipment of the newspaper."

Crowder said last week, "I have got to sell out or raise $12,500." He said attorneys' fees were added to the $9000 he borrowed two years ago to buy a press.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph Alsop

The Irresponsibles

THE OPENING of the public inquiry into the Atomic Energy Commission's "incredible maladministration" was a truly remarkable show. With considerable pomp but little precision, Senator Bourke B. Hickenlooper fired a barrage of peanuts at David E. Lilienthal. The sensation seekers, disappointed, went away saying the Senator would have to do a lot better if he wanted to make his charges stick. And no one at all seemed shocked.

After all, this sort of inquiry has become a favorite scene of the amateurs of the Washington drama. The vast white marble caucus chamber of the Senate Office Building, so unpleasantly suggestive of the interior of an expensive piece of plumbing, fills up early with spectators. The press and radio crowd in. The photographers' lights illuminate the room with a theatrical glare.

Behind the long committee table the Senators (and on this occasion the Representatives) of the investigating committee acknowledge the presence of the photographers by putting on their most portentous public faces. The chairman's voice positively booms with solemnity when he opens the proceedings. The victim marches to the stand. And there follows the questioning, the interminable questioning, which is so oddly not aimed to find out the truth and place it in proportion.

THE AIM of the questioning, of course, is simply to prove a set of charges already preferred by the investigating committee or one of its members. Hence the tone of a prosecution rather than an investigation. On Wednesday Senator Hickenlooper sounded more like a county attorney trying a chicken thief than a Senator of the United States questioning a great public servant on the gravest possible charge.

One trouble was that the points brought up by Senator Hickenlooper were anything but grave. He is a small, serious, bespectacled, sharp-faced flat-voiced man, who is ordinarily one of the soundest and most useful Republican lawmakers. His face seemed to get sharper, and his voice took on edge, when he asked Lilienthal question after question about changes in the commission's personnel.

His object, he announced, was to prove "lack of continuity" in the administration of the AEC. He had already declared, in his opening statement, that he would resist any attempt to judge the quality of the AEC administration by the results achieved. The old rule about the proof of the pudding was not for him. And his anxiety to pin Lilienthal down to the narrow points on which he was quizzing him was such that he more than once nervously interrupted Lilienthal's replies.

Possibly, Senator Hickenlooper has sensations to produce later on. But the net effect of the first session was to reveal to any thoughtful person in the audience the appalling obstacles the AEC has had to surmount. The effect was to throw in relief the AEC production record, which is so good that the Senator did not want it mentioned.

THIS CAME out in many ways. Above all, it came out in the stories Lilienthal patiently and politely told Hickenlooper about men who had refused important jobs, or had left important jobs, in the AEC. It did not matter whether they were leading businessmen like John Bugas of the Ford Motor Co., who rejected the directorate of security, or leading scientists like Dr. James Fisk, who resigned the directorate of research. Their reasons were always the same.

The first and least important reason was money. The second, and somewhat more important, was the desire of these men to do their work without the restraints which the Government necessarily imposes. And the third, unmentioned, but completely obvious, reason was Senator Hickenlooper himself and what his investigation implies. No one in his senses, whose bump of disinterestedness is not positively tumerous, wants to serve a Govment whose best officials can be publicly pilloried at any moment on the lightest whim of almost anybody.

There are a good many other points deserving notice, such as the astonishing fact that Senator Hickenlooper has chosen to attack Lilienthal alone for the actions of a five-man commission which has only disagreed five times in 500 decisions. But perhaps the most important point lies in the fact that the members of the commission and its entire higher staff spent 10 solid days preparing anxiously for what happened on Wednesday morning. It is as though a minor Government agency could suspend the entire business of the United States Steel Corp. for 10 days, in order to grill the management on conditions in the company cafeterias.

Indeed, it is worse, for the Atomic Energy Commission is more important to the country than any other national enterprise. One cannot prejudge the results of an investigation which has many days yet to unfold. But it was irresponsible to let such stuff as was aired Wednesday morning waste even the three hours that Lilienthal was on the stand that day. Even if nobody is shocked, everybody ought to be.

County Jobs Defended by 2 Newsmen

Chicago, June 2 (AP).—The Chicago Daily News said today two executives of the Waukegan News-Sun received a total of $51,420 as investigators in Lake County Court inheritance tax cases during the last seven years.

The newspaper said F. Ward Just, business manager of the News-Sun, received $15,525 and his brother, William L. Just, advertising director, received $35,895. The two men are sons of F. H. Just, publisher of the News-Sun.

In a joint statement, the brothers declared:

"We acted as appraisers in several estate matters for the Attorney General's office. All of the transactions are a matter of court record.

"We gather from the Chicago Daily News story that they infer the appraisals were received because we are newspapermen. The fact of the matter is we have been close friends of former Attorney General George Barrett for more than 20 years.

"In the administration preceding Barrett's, there had been charges of fee-splitting and coercion of heirs. He pledged to stop the practice and he made good on this pledge throughout the State.

"We suppose the purpose of the Daily News story is to infer that we received the appraisals in return for political support of the News-Sun. Our newspaper was no more obligated to Attorney General Barrett's office than was the Daily News or any other newspaper obligated to support the policies of the State Department because their correspondents are frequently ferried free to all parts of the globe at Government expense."

Rheumatic Pains Traced To Swollen Drops of Fat

New York, June 2 (AP).—A lot of those rheumatic pains that hit your arms, legs and back can be traced to swollen drops of fat.

This report was made to the International Congress on Rheumatic Diseases today by Dr. W. S. Copeman of London. The little lump of fat frequently is a long way from the place that hurts, he said.

Fat along the spine pressed against nerves running to other parts of the body, causing pain in those parts.

Dr. Copeman said massage, injections and surgery help.

Wheat Agreement Gets Approval Of Senate Unit

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday approved the International Wheat Agreement.

The agreement was expected to get quick approval since there has been little opposition to the plan for selling surplus American wheat abroad. It must be ratified by July 1 to become effective.

The pact was drawn up by five wheat-selling nations and 36 wheat-buying nations (not including Russia and Argentina, two of the world's largest wheat producers).

These nations would agree to buy and sell among themselves a total of 453 million bushels of wheat each year for four years. The price would range from $1.80 maximum to $1.20 minimum during the four-year period.

Arthritis Sufferer Is Improving

WALTER SWANSON

Chicago, June 2 (AP).—Walter M. Swanson, 61-year-old Chicago businessman, says he feels "wonderfully fit" after using a new hormone for treatment of arthritis.

Swanson said the hormone, the first dose of which was injected less than two weeks ago, have given him his first real relief in 10 years.

Northwestern University doctors made 42 injections of a white powder known as adreno-corticotropic-hormone (A.C.T.H.), derived from pituitary glands of hogs.

Swanson said his pain subsided within 24 hours after treatments began May 21. He said he had gained 9 pounds, and yesterday walked across his hospital room, his carriage erect, without a cane. He sat easily with his once-stiff legs crossed and said the pain is gone.

Dr. David E. Markson said the harmone stimulates production in the human body of the effective but scorce hormone, Compound E.

The new product now is scarce, but prospects appear bright for its eventual manufacture in amounts to treat thousands. It must undergo further tests. It is manufactured on an experimental basis by an Armour & Co. subsidiary.

GAO Gives 500 Here Provisional Notice They're Unemployed

The General Accounting Office has given provisional layoff notices to more than 500 of its employes here. Thirty-seven of its field employes also got the pink slips.

Meanwhile, Comptroller General Lindsey Warren appealed to the Senate Appropriations Committee for restoration of the 10 per cent cut made by the House. If the money is restored, many of the notices will be canceled.

Warren explained that he had voluntarily reduced his force from a high of 14,904 to 9450 and that he would continue this policy as the work decreased. But he made it plain that GAO was now behind in its work and that a big layoff now would have serious consequences.

Warren's statement was placed in the Congressional Record by Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) who will handle GAO's budget in the Senate.

TRAVEL BILL: The Senate yesterday approved by a voice vote the Karsten-McClellan travel bill with minor amendments. The bill now goes back to the House where quick approval is expected. The House okayed the bill several weeks ago.

Under the measure, the travel allowance of Federal people would be raised from $6 to a maximum of $9 a day. The rate for private car use on official business would be increased from 5 to 7 cents a mile.

RETIREMENT: The House Civil Service Committee yesterday gave its approval to the bill to grant both survivorship pensions and increased annuities to Federal workers who were retired before April 1, 1948. A similar bill is on the Senate calendar.

BLOCKED: The committee returned to a subcommittee a bill known as the "Little Wagner Act" for Federal worker unions. It acted after the Civil Service Commission reversed itself and urged further consideration of the measure. In an earlier letter the commission had approved the bill which was introduced by Representative Rhodes (D., Pa.).

The bill would have forced Federal officials to negotiate with union leaders on working conditions, pay, grievances, promotions, demotions, and just about all other features of Government jobs. It would have been a big step toward collective bargaining in Government.

Sidetracked also was the bill to give Federal officials the right to suspend employes up to 30 days for cause.

PAY BILL: A new one is being written for the Senate Civil Service Committee. Ismar Baruch of the Civil Service Commission, will draft it for the Long subcommittee. The new bill, in general, will provide:

The Administration's reclassification plan plus $150 on top of each of the first nine grades to a $4500 level; the minimum of overlapping between the grades; a streamlined efficiency rating plan, and to bring all possible employes under the proposed new classification bill.

Grade descriptions and definitions in the Administration bill would be dropped. The subcommittee rejected suggestions that the 100,000 employes in the Crafts, Protective and Custodial Service have their salaries fixed by local wage boards.

COMMANDER GEORGE ELSEY will return to the White House staff when he completes the Navy's history of its D-day operations in France . . . Charles Seymour, assistant chief curator of the National Gallery of Art, will resign to join the Yale faculty. Senate Votes $2 Million For Capital Sesqui Fete

Clause Requiring Private Matching Funds Removed in Compromise Action

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

The Senate yesterday unanimously voted to grant two million dollars in Federal funds for next year's National Capital Sesquicentennial Celebration.

A voice vote wrote the two-million-dollar figure into the second deficiency money bill as a compromise between the three million dollars asked by the Sesquicentennial Commission and the 1.5 million dollars proposed by the Senate Appropriations Committee. The measure now goes to the House for conference.

Besides boosting the committee ante, the Senate action removed from the bill a requirement that for every dollar contributed by the Federal Government to the Sesquicentennial, an equal amount would have to be raised by private contribution.

Senator McGrath (D., R. I.) paved the way for the Senate compromise with a spirited appeal for sufficient funds to stage a sesquitennial Freedom Fair that would do credit to Congress, the country, and the free institutions of America.

The two-million-dollar compromise figure was proposed by Senator Robertson (D., Va.). Senator Saltonstall (R., Mass.), who had questioned the three-million-dollar proposal made by McGrath, agreed to the compromise after McGrath assured him that there would be no request for additional appropriations.

Appropriations Chairman McKellar (D., Tenn.) then said the compromise was a fair one, and it was adopted.

Also carried in the bill is 5.4 million for remodeling the White House. The item has been the subject of previous controversy between Senate and House Appropriations leaders.

Other District items recommended by the Senate Appropriations Committee cleared the Senate without change.

Edward F. Boykin, director for the Sesquicentennial Commission, applauded the Senate decision to grant two million for the celebration.

"I think it's wonderful," he said. "I think two million will enable us to do a great job."

Miss Bessie Juliet Kibbey, who died here May 19 at the age of 91, bequeathed $105,000 for the construction of a new wing to the Washington Home for Incurables, according to her will, filed yesterday in District Court.

Miss Kibbey, philanthropist and chairman of the admission committee of the Home for Incurables for 50 years, also left her residence at 2025 Massachusetts ave. nw. and property at 635 Indiana ave. nw. to the Home.

Although no petition for probate of the will was filed, giving an idea of the extent of her estate, it was estimated she had left between $500,000 and $600,000 in personal property and an extensive amount of real estate.

The will also bequeathed $150,000 for a carillon to be installed in the central tower of the Washington Cathedral in memory of her grandparents, William B. and Sarah A. Kibbey.

To two distant relatives, she left the income for life from several ground rents, which rents are to go their children on their death. She left no close relatives.

To her "faithful companion," Agnes Farmer Jones, she created a trust consisting of a ground rent and $15,000, which will provide an income for Miss Jones for life. Eventually, part of the trust is to be distributed equally to the Episcopal Church Home, the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, the Episcopal Home for Children and Children's Hospital. Miss Jones also was bequeathed $5000 outright.

Typist Killed Crossing Pike To Pentagon

JOSEPHINE C. LEWIS
Rush hour traffic victim

A 25-year-old typist was killed by an automobile yesterday as she crossed the Columbia pike to report to work in the Pentagon Building.

In other traffic accidents, a Chevy Chase girl died last night after a crash near Winston-Salem, N. C., an Army sergeant was critically hurt when run down by a car near Walter Reed Hospital, and an expectant mother and two other persons were injured when an ambulance and a bus collided at 11th and K sts. se.

Victim of the Columbia pike accident was Miss Josephine C. Lewis, of Lincolnia, Va., in Fairfax County, who had been employed at the Pentagon for only three weeks.

Alighted from Car

Park police said Miss Lewis had alighted from a car at 7:26 a. m. and was walking across the road just south of the Pentagon when another car, southbound, struck her.

Park police said Archie Burks, 33, a roofer, of 422 11th st. sw., was the driver of the car which struck Miss Lewis. A technical charge of reckless driving was placed against him and he was released in $500 bond. He faces a hearing before United States Commissioner Stanley King in Alexandria June 14 at 2 p. m.

Worked for Firm Here

Before taking the job at the Pentagon, she had worked for eight years with the George F. Muth Co., 710 13th st. nw., rising to the position of assistant office manager.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by three sisters, Mary Margaret Lewis, Jane Lewis and Mrs. Cora Seymour, all of Lincolnia.

Miss Berenice Lipscomb, of 11 E. Leland st., Chevy Chase, Md., was fatally injured when the sedan in which she was a passenger was in collision with a trailer-tractor truck near Winston-Salem.

Miss Lipscomb, only child of A. Eddins Lipscomb, Federal Trade Commission trial examiner, and Mrs. Lipscomb, died in a Winston-Salem hospital last night. Her father had flown there earlier. She was a graduate of Cathedral School here and was finishing her sophomore year at Duke. Funeral services will be held at All Saints Episcopal Church, Chevy Chase Circle, Saturday afternoon.

Two youths in the car with Miss Lipscomb, Wendell Hawkins, 21, of Nashville, Tenn., and Sam Patterson, 20, of Memphis, Tenn., were also admitted to the hospital.

Car Driven by Student

Sergt. William N. Priest, 33, who is stationed at Walter Reed Hospital, was struck by an auto at 12:20 a. m. on Georgia ave. nw., just south of the entrance. He is now in critical condition in the hospital with head injuries.

Police said the car which struck Priest was driven by Marvin W. Weinstein, 22, a Bucknell College student, of 1301 Juniper st. nw.

Mrs. Mary Bob Heywood, 30, of Indian Head, Md., was still awaiting the arrival of her baby last night in Bethesda Naval Hospital after being injured early yesterday in an ambulance-bus crash at 11th and K sts. se.

Mrs. Heywood was being rushed in a Navy ambulance from Indian Head, with her husband, James W. Heywood, 28, a chief petty officer, to the Bethesda Naval Hospital when the accident occurred at about 1 a. m.

Mrs. Heywood suffered a possible head injury and her husband suffered lacerations to the face and forehead.

Chest Faces Hospital Aid Fund Crisis

1949 Money Half Gone; Rate Trim May Be Asked at Meeting Monday

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

The 1949 hospitalization fund already more than half spent, Community Chest officials will confer with hospital leaders Monday on the growing financial crisis, it was learned yesterday.

The hospitals, it is expected, will be asked to take a cut on their already special rate of $11 daily for Chest-supported patients, in order to stretch the fund to the year's end.

And such request, however, may be countered by the hospital executives with the demand that all Red Feather agencies bear part of the strain in a complete reallocation of all Community Chest funds.

The meeting, at 8 p. m. Monday at Community Chest headquarters, was called by Edward J. Keyes, Chest director, shortly after receipt of the quarterly accounting of fund expenditures by the Hospital Service Agency. The report was not made public.

Other sources disclosed that the report showed a total of $263,310 paid to the hospitals in the first four months of 1949. The total fund for the year is $482,460.50.

Hospital administrators estimated that should expenditures continue at their present rate — and none doubted there would be a material change — the one-year fund would be fully spent by September. After that, they said, they might be forced to reject Community Chest-supported patients, or at least sharply curtail such admissions.

Asked how the hospital leaders could justify requesting cuts in Red Feather agency allocations to increase the hospitalization fund, one administrator said "it's merely a question as to which is more important, hospitalization or recreation."

The administrators are expected to use the financial crisis to bolster their request that the function of certifying patients eligible for Chest-fund support be given to the individual hospitals. HAS does it now.

Last month, the Community Chest hired a Boston welfare expert, Robert P. Lane, to study probable costs of hospital certification of Chest-supported patients. His report may be ready for the Monday night meeting.

Check Passer Ends Flight in River Plunge

A youthful bad check artist has at least 90 days to dry out from a quick swim he took in the Potomac River Wednesday night in an attempt to escape from police.

Robey

He is James C. Robey, jr., 23, of no fixed address. Four park policemen and two metropolitan police check squad detectives awaited him when he arrived in West Potomac Park for a date with a Marine girl friend. Spotting them, he ran for the river and dived in, the officers said.

But the water was shallow and he struck his head on the bottom and came up dazed. Then he surrendered.

Officers said he has a record of bad checks across the country, plus a term in the Federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa. He is on parole from that institution now, with 10 months remaining.

Judge Armond Scott imposed the 90-day sentence in Municipal Court yesterday for a $60 bad check Robey passed in May at the F. W. Bolgiano Seed Co. He purchased 150 baby chicks and received change. When the chicks were delivered, the address was a false one.

Robey's arrest came because he did not know the size of his marine girl friend's clothing. He purchased garments for her with another bad check, police said. They didn't fit, and when she went to exchange them, officers learned her identity, and then Robey's. Then they learned of the Wednesday night date.

Three Generations of Wallach Students

They are (from left) Mrs. Christine Boyd, 23, 3101 Pennsylvania ave. se., a student 17 years ago; Mrs. Nettie Crowther, 80, of 606 G st. se., a student 65 years ago, and Mrs. Fred Herrmann, 58, of 3953 Alabama ave. se., 48 years ago a student. Wallach is to be torn down in July

WELCOME—Mrs. Ella M. Crook (right), principal of Wallach, greets a former teacher, Mrs. Anne Lord of Hyattsville, Md., who attended the ceremonies with her two children, Susan, 6, and Kim, 2. Mrs. Lord taught at Wallach in 1941 and 1942

Old Wallach School Marks Last Reunion

Washington's oldest school yesterday held its final reunion.

Men and women who attended the Wallach Elementary School as far back as the 1870's gathered under the maple trees on the front lawn to attend exercises marking the closing of the building at 7th st. and Pennsylvania ave. se.

The Wallach, built during the Civil War and dedicated in 1864, will be abandoned at the end of the school year and razed the first of July. It will make way for the construction of a new building to replace Hine Junior High School.

Three Generations Represented

One of the alumni who returned was Thomas L. Bigham, 59, 2017 North Capitol st., who planted the giant maples when he attended the school shortly after the turn of the century.

Three generations of Wallach students were represented by Mrs. Nettie Crowther, 80, of 606 G st. nw., her daughter, Mrs. Fred Herrmann, 58, of 3953 Alabama ave. se., and her granddaughter, Mrs. Christian Boyd, 23, 3101 Pennsylvania ave. se.

Others who returned to visit the school for the last time were Mrs. Maude Buckingham, 73, 213 8th st. se.; Miss Effie Perkins, 70, 118 4th st. se., and George Talt, 72, 421 15th st. se.

Youngsters now attending Wallach put on an hour-long pageant that contrasted the educational program offered today with that of the post-Civil War era.

When the little girls wearing hoop skirts of the period chanted the alphabet demonstrating the way it formerly was taught, Dr. Elmon Cook, 3060 16th st. nw., a Wallach student back in the '80's, sang along with them.

The pageant included square dancing and a demonstration of hoop rolling as well as dances and rhythms now taught in the schools.

Miss Ella Crook, principal of the school for 20 years, told the saddened former students of the school and parents of present students who once had petitioned that it be maintained:

"We must look forward to the fine new junior high school which will some day be erected on these grounds."

Boards to Seek to Weed Out Unfit Metropolitan Detectives

Metropolitan Police detectives must perform their duties efficiently or be replaced, Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent, said yesterday.

Furthermore, he set up two special boards of review to discover and report those not doing their jobs.

A total of 207 men are affected by the order. They include detective sergeants, precinct and probational detectives and plain-clothes men.

"We have a lot of applications for these jobs among the uniformed men," Major Barrett said. "If any men now holding them are not now producing, we want to get them out and make room for those who will.

"I know there are some deadheads. I notice that some men are more active in some precincts than others. And I have also noticed some men in an individual precinct are doing more work than others.

"When you put a man in plain clothes, at first he is like lightning. But then, he may slow down. We want to pep up the whole department."

Under the order, the two review boards each will be made up of nine senior officers of the department. One, headed by Inspector Robert S. Bryant, assistant superintendent and chief of the Detective Bureau, will review the records of men in that bureau.

The other, headed by Inspector Clarence Talley, also an assistant superintendent, will study the work of precinct detectives and others outside the Detective Bureau.

The boards will meet Tuesday and should be through with their task in about two weeks, Major Barrett said. They will have arrest and case records of each man for the year ending June 1. Thus, Major Barrett pointed out, no sudden burst of energy following his order will do any detective any good.

Where an adverse recommendation faces a detective, he may appear before the evaluation board personally to discuss his record. Or the boards may summon men before them. They cannot recommend dismissal, but may urge transfers or other measures.

To Receive Memento

Joseph E. Dayton, director of the Bureau of Rehabilitation, will receive a momento from the Society of Sponsors at their third annual meeting Saturday at 1 p. m. at the National Training School for Boys. The society is presenting Dayton with a bound volume of all bulletins published by the society to date.

Plan Offered By Flanders Approved by City Heads

Baltimore System Invoked for Capital; Barrett Promises Police Cooperation

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

An intensive slum cleanup program, enforced by special housing court sessions, was proposed yesterday for the District.

The Commissioners yesterday announced plans to launch a cleanup drive against both landlords and tenants, indicating it would closely follow the "Baltimore Plan" of law enforcement in blighted areas.

Senator Flanders (R., Vt.), proponent of the city heads' action yesterday, emphasized that such an approach to the District slum problem was a partial answer and not a substitute for slum clearance and low-cost housing. He called for a "real crackdown" against both owners and tenants responsible for substandard conditions.

The court's role in the drive was disclosed by Flanders last night when he made public a letter to him from Chief Judge George P. Barse of Municipal Court.

Days to Be Set Aside

Judge Barse's letter said Tuesday and Friday afternoon in a Municipal court would be set aside for health and police officers to bring housing and sanitation code violations to prompt trial.

Flanders said it was his understanding that Barse intended to have the same judge preside over the housing court sessions each week.

The Baltimore Plan revolves around a tightened housing code with high penalties for violations by both landlord and tenant, and enforced by a special housing court.

Under the plan, landlords would be given the choice of fixing up defective housing, razing it, or facing court penalty. Tenants, likewise, would be subject to court action if they failed to follow decent housekeeping standards.

Aimed at 9850 Outhouses

Key to effective operation of the plan here would be a revised housing code. Flanders said he was working on such a revision but did not know yet whether legislation would be necessary to put it into effect.

Flanders said the first drive should be focused on eliminating the 9850 outhouses here and the insanitary surface water-supply systems used by many slum dwellers.

"I was amazed to find that outhouses were permissible under District health and housing regulations. They are prohibited in Baltimore," Flanders said.

He said also that Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett has assured him that two policemen from each precinct would be assigned to help the undermanned Health Department turn in and prosecute sanitation complaints.

The Commissioners meet next Tuesday at 10 a. m. with District health, engineering and legal experts to map the program.

Schedules to Be Revised

Commissioner Gordon R. Young said Refuse Superintendent William Xanten would probably revise his schedules to insure that accumulated refuse is promptly picked up.

Senator Sparkman (D., Ala.), who will soon open Banking Subcommittee hearings on an over-all slum clearance program locally, last night hailed the cleanup drive as a "very fine, yet only a partial step in the right direction."

He cited a report of John Ihlder of the National Capital Housing Authority, which estimated that proper enforcement of a stronger housing code could obviate the need of actually razing 15,000 of the city's estimated 40,000 substandard dwellings.

They Broke School Tradition

Constant Drilling Won Wilson High Cadet Corps Crown

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

"You're no good. You're never going to win."

That's what the Woodrow Wilson High School cadets were told, with a dinning, dulling monotony until they couldn't stand it any more.

So they went out and broke a school tradition — they won first and second places in the annual Cadet Corps drill Wednesday at Griffith Stadium.

They did more than that—for a student body which had grown increasingly apathetic to cadet drills, as Western High School walked off with top honors year after year, they created a new unity in victory.

The story of the cadet competition was duly recorded in Thursday's editions of The Washington Post, but yesterday, the mother of one of the cadets called to tell this newspaper we should print the story behind that story.

Here it is:

Nine-tenths of the Wilson students have become simply spectators at sports. Modern kids wisecrack at team play, unless it's first team play.

"If you don't play on the first team, you're not important," she said.

So the youngsters in the Cadet Corps decided they would try to change that. They worked early and late. Most of them, too light for football or spectacular sports, drilled themselves bone-weary.

"It took a tremendous amount of guts," the mother said.

When they went out on the drill field, they were almost dead from practice. They had been told they couldn't win, by Capt. Paul S. Pitcher, an instructor who thought that was the best possible psychology to use with them. Captain Pitcher would watch Western students drill and come back and tell Wilson cadets how sloppy they (Wilson) were—how far they had to go to be even half-way decent cadets.

So they won. The mother who called this newspaper said that story should be told. She said her own name and the name of her son, a cadet private, wasn't "important" in connection with the story.

"These youngsters," she said, "are the kind who'd go out and clean up the world if we got an atomic bomb thrown at us. But they don't know how to talk about themselves."

Area News in Brief

High Court Police Power Bill Offered

The Supreme Court's police force of 33 men would be given powers similar to those of the Capitol Police under terms of a bill introduced in the House by Representative Emanuel Celler.

It would be unlawful, as it is at the Capitol, to "make any harangue or oration or utter aloud, threatening or abusive language" at the court building or on its grounds. Signs, placards, fireworks and firearms all would be prohibited.

The police power was requested by the court's marshal because police authority, under which the court's policemen act as special officers of the city police force, is being withdrawn by the District next November 1. This move is in line with a ruling by Corporation Counsel Vernon West that police in various public buildings may not be special officers if they are paid by the Federal Government also.

Harry J. Brown Dies; Veteran Newswriter

Harry Jay Brown, 71, dean of the House and Senate press galleries, died last night at his home, 6412 Ridgewood ave., Chevy Chase, Md.

Mr. Brown had been an accredited member of the congressional press galeries for 52 years and at the time of his death was Washington correspondent for the Salt Lake City Tribune and the Spokane (Wash.) Spokesman-Review.

A native of Washington, Mr. Brown had served as correspondent for Western newspapers since 1897, when he began his career as assistant t othe late Arthur Wallace Dunn.

He was a member of the Gridiron Club for 35 years and was its president in 1928.

In 1917, he sprang a surprise by inviting the then Representative Jeannette Rankin (D., Mont.) to a Gridiron dinner. She is the only woman who has ever attended a Gridiron dinner. The following year, the club adopted a rule expressly forbidding the attendance of women at the dinners.

During the 1928 Presidential campaign, Mr. Brown was assistant to the chairman of the Republican National Committee.

He was educated here at the old Wallach School and at Central High School.

The only survivors are two sisters, rMs. R. M. Rush of Winchester, Mass., and Mrs. R. E. DeMarest of Springfield, Mass.

Funeral Rites Listed Today For Dr. Ruffin

Funeral services will be held at noon today for Dr. Sterling Ruffin, dean of Washington medicine, who died Wednesday at George Washington University Hospital at the age of 82.

Dr. Ruffin, a practicing Washington physician for more than 50 years, was a personal friend of President Woodrow Wilson as well as his physician. He was a professor of medicine at George Washington University for 22 years.

His funeral services today will be held at the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany, 1317 G st. nw.

Pallbearers are Dr. John Lyon, Dr. Daniel Borden, Dr. H. H. Dollman, Dr. Richard Kerney, Richard W. Bolling, jr., and Sterling Ruffin Bolling.

Ward Swank

Harrisonburg, Va., June 2 (AP).—Ward Swank, 64, former State senator and several times Mayor of Harrisonburg, died in Rockingham Memorial Hospital here today.

2 Plead Guilty in Theft

George E. Poindexter, 27, of 621 C st. sw., and David P. McGogney, 28, of 3318 5th st. se., yesterday pleaded guilty in Municipal Court to charges of simple assault and petty larceny in the theft of $20 from John J. Pettit, of Falls Church, Va.

Judge Armond W. Scott sentenced Poindexter to 60 days imprisonment on each of the charges. Sentencing of McGogney was continued two weeks pending presentence investigation.

Both men were arrested early Sunday, when Pettit complained that they had beaten and robbed him after he offered them a lift to Falls Church.

Child Burned in Bed

Thirty-month-old Kenneth M. Hoeffel, son of retired Rear Admiral and Mrs. Kenneth M. Hoeffel of 3150 16th st. nw., received third degree burns on his left leg Monday when he apparently struck a safety match which dropped down his pajama leg.

Kenneth was reported in good condition at Children's Hospital yesterday. He was in his bed when the accident occurred.

Mary A. Taylor

New York, June 2 (NYHT).—Mary Atwater Taylor, poet, died yesterday at her home. She was the wife of Henry W. Taylor, consulting engineer.

Mrs. Taylor was well known as a contributor to the poetry columns of newspapers and magazines. She was the author of three verse collections, "October Orchard," "Turn of the Year" and "Ropes and Threads." Her poems had appeared in the New York Herald Tribune, the New York Times, The Washington Post, the Saturday Review of Literature, and the American Scholar.

She was a member for five years of the executive board of the Poetry Society of America and had won a number of prizes for her verse. She was a graduate of Vassar College and was editor of the "Vassar Miscellany" in her undergraduate days.

She is survived by her husband. A funeral service will be held at 4:30 p. m. Saturday at Calvary Episcopal Church.

HERO'S REWARD—This could have been a different story and would have been had not Earl Drescher (right) of 7 8th st. se. been successful in rescuing James Howard, 2132 H st. nw., from drowning. Drescher, a Red Cross water safety instructor, is receiving a certificate of merit from Carroll L. Bryant, director of water safety for the Red Cross. Mrs. Drescher witnesses the presentation, made yesterday at a luncheon of the board of the Boys Club of Washington in the Continental Hotel. Drescher made the rescue May 11, when James "blacked out" diving into the Eastern Branch Boys Club pool

House Unit Raises Pensions Of Police, Firemen's Widows

The House District Public Service Committee yesterday unanimously approved a bill to increase pensions from $60 to $125 a month for widows of policemen and firemen.

The action represented rejection of the Commissioners' proposal to give widows of police and firemen killed in line of duty $125 and those whose husbands died of natural death only $100.

The Commissioners had suggested also that the pension cover only widows whose husbands died within a year of retirement from either force. That, too, was turned down by the subcommittee, headed by Representative James C. Davis (D., Ga.).

The group voted to report the "one standard" pension bill, sponsored by Davis, after several police and firemen's widows pleaded in a morning hearing that "a widow is a widow whether our loved ones died in line of duty or several years later of natural death."

The measure also would give children of deceased police and firemen $25 a month instead of the present $10 until they are 18. The present law stops payments when children reach 16.

Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West testified that an estimated added cost of $150,000, if all widows got a flat $125 a month, was the Commissioners' only reason for favoring a cutback to $100 for widows whose spouses died a natural death.

Unlike Wednesday's hearing, witnesses presented a united front in urging that all widows receive the same $125 pension.

Rufus Lusk, president of the Washington Taxpayers Association, suggested that pensions be reduced to a flat $100, and that a separate and "more sound" policemen's and firemen's relief fund be established.

Martin T. Gross

Martin Theodore Gross, 78, of 806 Wayne ave., Silver Spring, a resident of Washington and vicinity for more than 50 years, died Wednesday night at the Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, after a heart attack.

Born in Sharpsburg, Md., he came to Washington as a young man and was associated with various moving concerns in Washington, retiring 20 years ago.

Col. Ferris Dies; Veteran Of 2 Wars

Col. Charles J. Ferris, 70, veteran of the Spanish-American War and World War I, died yesterday at Walter Reed Hospital after a long illness.

Colonel Ferris, Washington-born son of a nswpaperman who once covered Capitol Hill for The Washington Post, was a bachelor and made his home at the Army and Navy Club. He was known not only as an Army officer but as a singer and entertainer, appearing in character roles on the radio at shows of clubs to which he belonged.

Enlisting at the outbreak of the Spanish - American War, Ferris served as private and corporal in the Second Engineers. Later he enlisted in the Twenty-first United States Volunteers and saw service in the Philippine Insurrection. He received a Regular Army second lieutenant's commission in artillery in 1901.

World War I saw him in France as a colonel in command of field artillery. At war's close he was transferred to the Quartermaster Corps and assigned to transport service returning overseas troops. He retired from active service in 1921.

Colonel Ferris was a member of the National Press Club, National Press Club Post No. 20 of the American Legion, the National Press Club Chorus, the Military Order of the Carabao and the Washington Arts Club.

George Hart Morse

George Hart Morse, inventor and retired Federal Power Commission engineer, died Wednesday at his home at 927 S. 28th st., Arlington.

Mr. Morse, who was 78, was co-discoverer of the Morse-Cushman Effect, which allows rectification of an alternating current by means of one arc drawn between three carbons in a magnetic field.

As an FPC engineer, he was chief of the Distribution Cost Survey. He also had served as chief engineer of the New York Power Authority and was power specialist with the Emergency Fleet Corporation during World War I.

Born in St. Paul, Minn., Mr. Morse was a graduate of the University of Minnesota in 1893 and received an advance degree in electrical engineering in 1911.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ethel Bowers Morse, and a daughter, Mary Louise.

Rev. John Allen Golihew

Funeral services for Rev. John Allen Golihew, 72, a retired Baptist minister, will take place at 1 p. m. today at the Maryland Avenue Baptist Church, 14th st. and Maryland ave. ne.

A resident of the District for a total of 50 years, Mr. Golihew died Tuesday at Sibley Hospital. He was born at Grayson, Ky., and was educated at Staunton, Va. He served several country churches in Virginia at various times and lived at 1719 Lyman pl. ne.

Surviving are his wife; four sons, William J., Basil E., Leonidas I. and Everett A. Golihew of Washington; five daughters, Elizabeth B. Golihew, Mrs. Goldie MacMillan, and Mrs. Anna Holcer, of Washington, Mrs. Grace Shanholtzer of Landover Hills, Md., and Mrs. Violet Fike, Somerset, Pa., 21 grandchildren and 6 great-grandchildren.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, June 2 (AP).—Wheat prices sank again today on the Board of Trade as dealers pondered the big question: Where will storage room be found for the new crop?

At one time the bread cereal chalked up losses ranging to around 3 cents, July going under the low of Tuesday's break, but the market staged a mild recovery before the close. Corn and oats ended steady after sinking during early trading.

Soybeans and lard gave up minor ground, largely in reflection of further weakness of cash commodities. Selling pressure was not great, however. Sales of all Decatur, Ill., bank 2¼ cent to 9¾ cents a pound. Cash lard was quoted here at 11¾ cents, down ¾ cent.

Wheat closed ⅞ to 1¾ lower, corn was unchanged to ¼ lower, oats were ⅝ lower to ¼ higher, rye was 1¼ to 1½ lower, soybeans were ½ to 1 lower and lard was unchanged to 10 cents 100 pounds lower.

FEDERAL WORKS AGENCY, Public Buildings Administration, Real Estate Management, Project Development Office, May 13, 1949—Sealed proposals will be received in the Project Development Office, Real Estate Management, Public Buildings Administration, Federal Works Agency, Washington, D. C., up to 3 p. m., Daylight Savings Time, June 13, 1949, and then opened publicly, to lease for a period of two years, commencing July 16, 1949, and ending July 15, 1951, for use for parking purposes of the area known as the Great Plaza, situated at the southeast corner of 14th and D Sts., N.W., Washington, D. C. All proposals must be accompanied by the required deposit and submitted on the form of proposal which may be obtained in Room 7023 of the Federal Works Agency Building, 19th and F Sts., N.W., Washington, D. C. The Federal Works Agency reserves the right to reject any or all proposals, and to waive any informality in proposals received when such rejection or waiver is in the interest of the United States. If more than one proposal be offered by any one party, firm, or in the name of his or their clerk, partner, agent, or other person, all such proposals may be rejected. Bidders are requested to visit the property and inform themselves as to all conditions, it being understood and agreed that the property shall be leased by the Federal Works Agency in its present condition, except that the present lessee shall have the right to remove his signs, portable wooden buildings and personal property. JOHN L. NAGLE, Deputy Commissioner for Real Estate Management. May18,26;June3,11

$450,000. WASHINGTON SUBURBAN Sanitary District, Maryland, refunding bonds, Series "B", guaranteed by Montgomery and Prince Georges counties. Sealed proposals will be received until 3 o'clock p. m., Eastern Daylight Saving Time, on Tuesday, June 14, 1949, by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission at its office, 4017 Hamilton st., Hyattsville, Md., for $450,000 of bonds, Series "B", of the Washington Suburban Sanitary District, dated June 1, 1949, maturing annually, June 1, without option of prior payment, $20,000 in each of the years, 1950 to 1959, inclusive, and $25,000 in each of the years, 1960 to 1969, inclusive. Denomination, $1,000; principal and semiannual interest (J and D 1) payable at the Prince Georges Bank & Trust Co., Hyattsville, Md., or at the Equitable Trust Co., Baltimore, Md., or at Chemical Bank & Trust Co., New York City, N. Y., at holder's option; general obligations; unlimited tax; coupon bonds registerable as to principal alone; unconditionally guaranteed as to both principal and interest by Montgomery and Prince Georges counties by endorsement on each bond. There will be no auction. Bonds will be delivered on or about June 29, 1949, at place of purchaser's choice. The Refunding Bond Series will be issued under the authority of Chapter 361 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1947, to provide funds for refunding a like amount of 5% bonds (part of the issue of $750,000 of 5% bonds) which have been called for redemption on July 1, 1949. Bidders are requested to name the interest rate or rates, not exceeding 4% per annum, in a multiple of ¼ or 1/10 of 1%, and each bidder must specify in his bid the amount and the maturities of the bonds of each rate. No bid may name more than three interest rates and all bonds maturing on the same date must bear interest at the same rate. No bid of less than par and accrued interest or for less than all of the bonds offered will be entertained. The bonds will be awarded to the bidder offering to purchase the bonds at the lowest interest cost to the District, such cost to be determined by deducting the total amount of the premium bid from the aggregate amount of interest upon all of the bonds until their respective maturities. Each proposal must be enclosed in a sealed envelope marked "Proposal for Bonds," and be accompanied by a certified check upon an incorporated bank or trust company, payable unconditionally to the order of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, for $4500. The right to reject any or all bids is reserved. The approving opinion of Messrs. Mitchell and Pershing, New York City, will be furnished the purchasers without cost. Circular on request, and proposals must be submitted on information contained therein. WASHINGTON SUBURBAN SANITARY COMMISSION. By J. BARRY BOWMAN, Secretary-Treasurer.

Riggs Acquires New Home for N.W. Branch

By S. Oliver Goodman

Riggs National Bank has purchased the property at 1779-81 Columbia rd. nw. and will move its Northwest branch into the new location after extensive remodeling.

Architects are now busy drawing plans, President Robert V. Fleming said yesterday, but actual start of remodeling work hinges on when a Safeway Stores market moves out. A new building for the Safeway store is now under construction nearby.

The Northwest branch of Riggs has been located at 18th st. and Columbia rd. for the past 25 years. This is just two doors away from the newly acquired property.

Fleming said that plans call for a parking lot in the rear of the new bank building. He added that the new location will contain more than triple the floor space of the present Northwest branch and will be among the largest of Riggs' seven branches.

Harold W. Burnside, an assistant vice president, is manager of the Northwest branch.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: R. J. Miesse has been appointed station ground services manager for United Air Lines in Washington, replacing R. F. Dorsey, who was transferred to Philadelphia . . . Dr. Karl T. Compton, chairman of the research and development board of the National Military Establishment, has been elected a director of McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. . . . Elmer L. Lindseth, president of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., is the newly elected president of Edison Electric Institute . . . Thomas F. Barrett, jr., of Washington, has received special recognition from the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co. for outstanding achievement in the year ended April 30.

DID YOU KNOW: The real estate business in Washington employs nearly four times as many persons as banks . . . Latest official figures show local bank employment at 2972, while real estate firms had 11,060 on the payroll . . . Security dealers and investment bankers employed 301 here. The figures are from the annual report of the District of Columbia Unemployment Compensation Board, covering 1948.

HUMAN ELEMENT: Colonel W. F. Rockwell, board chairman of Standard Steel Spring Co., will talk on the "The Human Element in Industry" at a meeting Monday of the American Newspaper Publishers Association in Chicago. Currently a director of more than 20 companies, Colonel Rockwell has had extensive production and management experience in both military and civilian fields. His outspoken championship of free enterprise is expressed, in part, by the current nationwide series of newspaper advertisements sponsored by the Standard Steel Spring Co. of Coraopolis, Pa.

88TH YEAR: Directors of Oriental Building Association, oldest in the city, reelected Chapin B. Bauman as president at the eighty-eighth annual meeting yesterday. All other officers also were reelected. Secretary Ralph A. Xander reported to shareholders that the institution "has just completed one of the most successful years in its history, with resources at an all-time high." He added that dividends to be credited June 30 will amount to more than $225,000. All directors likewise were reelected.

TAXES: The Agriculture Department pointed out yesterday that taxes on tobacco products run nearly double the amount the farmers get for their tobacco. Combined Federal and State tax receipts for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1949, are estimated to total $1,720,000,000, largest amount ever collected. Cash received by growers during the same 12 months is estimated at 985 million dollars, second only to the 1947 fiscal year. State taxes are about 23 per cent of the total tobacco taxes.

ODD LOTS: An underwriting group yesterday offered 20 million dollars worth of Sperry Corp. 3¼ per cent sinking fund debentures, due 1969, at 100.37 to yield 3.10 per cent . . . Auto production this week is estimated at 92,022 units, against 108,542 last week. Memorial Day shutdowns were the main reason for the dip . . . Flour prices in the Buffalo milling center have slumped as much as 30 cents a 100 pounds . . . Electric power output turned upward in the week ended May 28 for the first time since January 29 . . . Sonora Radio & Television Corp. has filed a reorganization plan calling for 15 per cent payment on all unsecured claims . . . District Theaters Corp. declared the regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents a common share, payable July 1 to stock of record June 13.

Nats Beat Browns Again, 4-1, on Yost's Homer

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

BECAUSE TOM CLARK, the Attorney General, is convinced that any kid, given an equal opportunity, would rather steal second base than a car, the National Celebrities Golf Tournament is being staged for the third straight year.

There's a direct connection between the headline celebrities now flocking into Washington for the tournament and the kids in the streets. It is one of Mr. Clark's ideas, enthusiastically adopted by The Washington Post, to raise funds for recreation facilities that will detour the kids away from the alleys onto the playing fields.

POVICH

It's been working out nicely. In the two previous tournaments, nearly $30,000 in receipts have been funneled into juvenile recreation to combat the juvenile delinquency, whose rising curve has been disturbing not only the Attorney General but the American home.

And again the Nation's celebrated figures, from Hollywood, the stage and radio, from official and military Washington, from football, baseball, tennis and golf, have rallied to the purpose and are assembling for the two-day show.

FOR THOSE HEADLINERS coming from far and wide, it is an all-expense tour—in the sense that they are paying all of their own expenses. Sammy Snead, this week's winner of the PGA crown, is passing up lush exhibition dates to display his skill that the gate receipts may be swelled.

Flying in from England where they competed in the British Amateur are Frankie Stranahan, Francis Ouimet and Chick Evans. On their way from Hollywood are Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Jane Russell. From California, too, en route is Yankee Owner Del Webb, and from Texas, the petite Betty Mims White, ranking women's ace.

The big brass will be there, too—Gen. Omar Bradley, Chief of Staff, who helped hustle World War II to an end so he could get in some golf; Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, boss of the Army's airmen, and his boss, Secretary for Air Stuart Symington. And the top Leatherneck, Gen. Clifton Cates, commandant of the Marines. And from the Cabinet, Attorney General Clark.

YOU DON'T HAVE to be a golfer to get into the tournament that starts tomorrow at noon—just be famous. Their golf got such as Snead and Stranahan, and Lew Worsham and Freddy McLeod, and Jimmy Thomson and Jug McSpaden, and Walter Hagen and Ed Dudley and Allan Burton, and Jimmy Nichols in, but there are other approaches.

There's a demand for you, if you author Joe Palooka, like Ham Fisher does, and you're a big shot if you could pitch like Dizzy Dean or Lefty Gomez or Lefty Grove, all of whom will be on the scene. Or if, like Dan Topping, you happen to be a coowner of the Yankees, or like Harry Parr, the president of Pimlico. They're all doing the nice thing, and playing in the show.

Are you football minded? The tournament will present a couple of the justly-famed of that sport—Notre Dame Coach Frank Leahy, and All-American Halfback Charlie Justice of North Carolina. A basketball hero-worshiper, Horace (Bones) McKinney of the Caps, will tee off.

JANE RUSSELL has no corner on the tournament pulchritude. The girl golfers, the better and prettier ones, will be out in force at the Army and Navy Club tomorrow and Sunday—Peggy Kirk, Grace Lenczyk, Betty Jameson, Helen Dettweiler, and Beverly Hansen. And vying on both counts will be Pauline Betz Addie, four-time tennis champion, now a golf fan, and comely, too.

And I recommend your presence on the first tee early tomorrow, because at 11:45 a. m., Jimmy Nichols will stage his 15-minute exhibition of all the golf shots in the book, despite the handicap of a missing right arm.

Nichols stages one of the better golf shows with his 250-275-yard drives and uncanny one-armed irons that make him a tournament threat without the danger, as he quips, of putting too much right hand into his shots.

Zernial Faces Bone Operation

Chicago, June 2 (AP).—An operation on the broken right collarbone of Gus Zernial, the .355 hitting rookie outfielder of the Chicago White Sox, will be performed next Monday, the team physician said today.

Dr. John Claridge said he will operate Monday at Mercy Hospital to remove bone chips and free a muscle that was pinched by the bone Zernial broke in diving for a fly ball at Cleveland May 28.

Zernial has been placed on the Sox disabled list for 60 days, but it seemed unlikely, in view of the surgery, that he would be able to get back into action before the end of that period.

Wilson Archers Win Over Four Other Schools

Woodrow Wilson won the Potomac Archers' trophy yesterday at 16th and Kennedy sts., nw., beating out four other local high schools.

Central was second and Coolidge, McKinley and Western trailed. The winners and their scores: Vora Kunjara, 381; Steve Karpman, 359; George Bailey, 322 and Ruth Fletcher, 303.

High for the boys was Quentin Long, Central, with 72 arrows for 478. Sharon Hymes, Western, led the girls with 69 arrows for 415.

Corrected Pairings

Nichols Opens Celebrities With His Bag of Golf Tricks

Sixty-six notables of stage, screen, radio, sports and official Washington will participate in the third annual National Celebrities Golf Tournament Saturday and Sunday at the Army-Navy Country Club.

Auerbach Quits; Caps Will Have Player-Coach

Arnold (Red) Auerbach yesterday resigned as coach of the Washington Capitols, and Owner Mike Uline said that his successor "will be chosen from the ranks of the players as soon as is feasible."

Uline declared that Auerbach "quit of his own free chossing."

Auerbach said he quit because he could not persuade Uline to offer him a three-year contract. Uline offered him a one-year pact.

Bob Feerick, captain and star forward, and colorful Bones McKinney are believed to be Uline's first and second choices. Both were members of the original 1946 Caps' team.

Feerick said yesterday that he has "discussed informally" the coaching job with Uline since rumors began circulating six weeks ago thrt Auerbach might leave.

"I believe Mr. Uline might want to discuss his choice with the players before he commits himself," said Feerick. "If I were offered the job, I guess I'd almost have to accept."

McKinney, who lives in Raleigh, N. C., was unavailable for comment yesterday. He was en route to Washington, where he'll play in the National Celebrities Golf Tournament Saturday and Sunday.

Auerbach commented yesterday that "I honestly don't know what I'll do now. I've made a couple of trips to Providence in regard to becoming coach of the Steamrollers, but there's nothing definite there.

"For the time being, I'll stick to my sports broadcasting on WARL. I have a few college degrees. Maybe I'll be able to get on the faculty of some university.

"The team is very good, but getting a little old and fragile. Notice how Feerick, Scolari and McKinney were nursing injuries late in the season The only young player on the club is Jack Nichols.

"That's the big reason I wanted a longer term contract," declared Auerbach. "A one-year contract offered me little security. There was no evidence that the management would sign up any young fellows. After a good season and then maybe a bad one, I might be left out in the cold," he concluded.

In 1946, Red guided the Caps to 49 victories in 60 games but the team was eliminated in the first round of the championship playoffs. In '47, the Caps tied for second place in the Western Division but were again ousted in the playoffs. His last season's team won the Eastern Division title, but lost out in the playoff finals to Minneapolis.

Phillies Tie Homer Mark

Philadelphia, June 2 (AP).—The Philadelphia Phillies hit five of their six home runs in the eighth inning to tie the major league record for circuit blows in one frame tonight as they defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 12-3.

Andy Seminick hit three of the homers, two in the eighth, and the others came off the bats of Del Ennis, Willie Jones and Schoolboy Rowe. In the eighth, the Phils piled up 10 runs to wipe out a 3-2 deficit.

The Phils' feat tied that of the New York Giants in 1939 who got five in an inning on homers by Harry Danning, Frank Demaree, Burgess Whitehead, Johnny Saho and Johnny Moore.

Celebrities Headliners Take Over the Town

Bing, Snead, Jane Russell Arrive Today

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

BY PLANE, train and motor car, the vanguard of headliners in the National Celebrities Golf Tournament began to move on Washington yesterday, and before another nightfall the city will be housing golf history's most glittering entry list.

Bing Crosby will check in today, from New York, for the two-day show at the Army and Navy Club across the Potomac. A midnight arrival from California will be Jane Russell, of movie fame. PGA Champion Sam Snead will be on the scene for a practice round today.

It's the third consecutive year of The Washington Post's Celebrities Tournament, staged in cooperation with Attorney General Tom Clark, to raise funds for curbing juvenile delinquency, and for this one the field of notables has expanded to 66.

Already on the scene yesterday was Grace Lenczyk, U. S. and Canadian women's golf champion recently returned from England, who sharpened her game with a practice round at the Congressional Club.

On the local courses, too, were other ranking women players, Beverly Hansen of North Dakota and Helen Dettweiler, of California. Also Jimmy Thomson, longest driving of all the pros, and Ray Wade Hill, medalist in the recent PGA.

Scheduled for practice rounds today, in addition to Snead, are Carey Middlecoff, rising star among the younger pros; Lefty Grove, an avid golfer since hanging up his baseball glove; the women aces, Betty Jameson and Betty Mims White, and the pros, Bd Dudley and Jug McSpaden.

Bob Hope will be a Saturday arrival with time to spare before the first fouresome's tee-off at noon tomorrow, and Jack Dempsey will make it from Minneapolis.

And on Saturday, the Arthur Godfrey radio and television show will descend en masse for the Saturday night performance at the Natioanl Guard Armory in conjunction with the tournament.

Master of Ceremonies Harry Wismer, who will officiate at the first tee, found time yesterday to sneak in a bit of golf himself at the Columbia Country Club. For the third straight year, he will make all of the introductions and direct the by-play on the first tee.

Attorney General Clark will officially open the tournament at noon and then to the first tee will parade the Nation's notables of radio, screen, official and military Washington, and sports figures long famed as headliners.

Onto the first tee from Congress will step Senator William Fulbright, and Representatives Les Arends and George Smathers. Of Cabinet rank will be Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan, Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin, and from the top military, Air Secretary Stuart Symington, Chief of Staff Gen. Omar Bradley, Chief of Air Force Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, and Commandant of the Marines, Gen. Clifton Cates.

From football the famed Frank Leahy, coach of Notre Dame, and Charlie Justice, All-American back from Carolina; from baseball, Commissioner A. B. Chandler, Yankee Owners Del Young and Dan Topping, and the pitching greats Dizzy Dean, Lefty Gomez and Lefty Grove.

Name your own celebrity. He (or she) is probably in the tournament.

With the Celebrities

WHILE BING CROSBY is in town for the National Celebrities tournament, he will take time out to spend a few hours with the boys in the service hospitals.

Among celebrities in the gallery: Judge John Carlton Fischer, chief justice of Guam, where the golf course is a nine-holer, all iron shots. Also Cecil Isbell, head doctor of the Baltimore Colts.

Movie Actress Jane Russell will be accompanied to Washington by her mother-in-law, Mrs. Francis Waterfield, whose son, Robert, quarterbacks the Los Angeles Rams of pro football.

Special arrangements have been made to accommodate about 50 patients from service hospitals at both the golf tournament and the Arthur Godfrey "Homecoming" production at the Armory Saturday night.

WHOOPS! The people working on the Government bond drive will park a covered wagon on the Army-Navy Country Club grounds during the tournament, complete with four beautiful gals in Wild West costumes.

Don't worry about the comforts of life at the tournament. Concession stands with edible food and good drinks at convenient spots on the course, and adequate comfort stations.

The boys in uniform who did such splendid work in controlling the galleries during the first two tournaments, will be on the job again this year, volunteering to help out.

MILITARY units and commanding officers on the tournament detail: Capt. Edward Parks (Engineers), Fort Belvoir, 100 men; Capt. John C. King, Air Force, Bolling Field, 100; Lieut. James F. Holcomb, Fort McNair, 55; Lieut. Samuel Eddy (USMC), Marine Barracks, 26; Lieut. Harris Findlay, Fort Myer, 60.

Personal suggestion: That you drive your car to the south parking area at the Pentagon and take shuttle bus to the golf club, a ride of five minutes. First buses will roll at 10:30 a. m. each day.

Parade of Stars

Some Good $2 Seats Still Left for Godfrey Program

There are still a lot of good $2 seats left for the big Arthur Godfrey "Homecoming Show" Saturday night at the National Guard Armory. However, no more mail order requests will be accepted.

Godfrey's entire CBS radio and television cast will be in the show, including singing stars Janette Davis and Bill Lawrence, along with such brilliant additions as Bob Hope, Movie Actress Jane Russell and Morton Downey. There will be no telecast or broadcast of the event.

The golf tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Army-Navy Country Club with Bing Crosby, Godfrey, Hope, Russell, Sammy Snead, Lew Worsham, Dizzy Dean, Lefty Grove, Lefty Gomez, Frank Leahy, Gen. Omar Bradley, Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler, Frank Stranahan and more than 50 other notables in the field.

Bill Lawrence Janette Davis Morton Downey

All proceeds from both events go to charities engaged in boys' and girls' work in support of Attorney General Tom Clark's program to combat juvenile delinquency.

Tickets are on sale in The Washington Post lobby daily from 10:30 a. m. to 6 p. m., and at the Fairway, 1328 G st. nw., and the Sports Center, 8th and D sts. nw.

Prices for the tournament: Adult, season ticket (good for both days), $3; adult, single day, $2; junior (under 16), each day, $1. Season tickets must be purchased in advance.

Prices for the Arthur Godfrey show: Main floor: $5, $4, $3, $2. Balcony, $5, $3, $2, $1. All seats for the show are reserved except the $1 balcony tickets.

Scarborough, Welteroth Give Up Only 3 Hits

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

St. Louis, June 2.—Eddie Yost smacked the first pitch of the ball game tonight for a triple, but nothing came of it.

In the eighth inning, however, he didn't trust the Nats to leave him stranded again, so he simply swatted a three-run homer which delivered a 4-1 victory over the Browns.

Yost's second homer in two nights broke up a stirring pitching duel between Ray Scarborough and Dickie Starr, of the Browns, with the latter holding a 1-0 lead before the eventful eighth.

Matter of fact, Starr's two-hit shutout hurling and Rookie Roy Sievers' titantic homer in the second inning threatened to dunk the Nats, end the Browns' seven-game losing streak and bring them their first victory of the year over the Nats in seven games.

Yost Changes It

Yost, however, changed all of that wishful thinking by the tail-enders and the 2239 patriots who gathered in Sportsmans Park for the contest, the thirty-second the Brownies have lost in 42 games.

Eddie's shot in the left field stands, some 50 feet short of the spot where Rookie Sievers unloaded his 450-foot drive, moved the Nats solidly into third place, only five percentage points behind the Red Sox. It also brought Ray Scarborough his fourth success of the year, an award he richly deserved in view of his two-hit performance for seven innings.

The Nats got only six hits, but four of them came in the big eighth inning. The defeat was charged to Starr, his seventh against no victories. The big fast-balling righthander had the Nats completely stymied until Yost displayed his newly-found muscles.

Over one stretch, Starr retired 15 in a row and faced only 21 batters, the minimum in seven innings. But the Nats and the roof fell on the Browns' Starr in the next frame.

Yost Stranded

Eddie Yost smashed Starr's first pitch of the ball game into deep right center for a triple, but he languished on third as neither Gil Coan, Sherry Robertson, nor Eddie Robinson could stir up anything remotely resembling a hit.

Scarborough retired the first five Browns in order, but Rookie Roy Sievers broke his spell by smashing a home run into the left field bleachers. Sievers' homer, his third, was one of the longest hit here in years. It traveled at least 420 feet, hitting the top of the concessions stand.

Retires 15 in Row

After walking Clyde Vollmer with two away in the first, Starr retired the next 15 Nats in a row. Gil Coan finally ended the spell by beating out a bunt in the sixth inning with two away but Coan was promptly erased trying to steal second on the first pitch to Robertson.

Starr, former Yankee whom the Nats tried to land two seasons ago, showed a live fast ball and wonderful control. Except for the walk to Vollmer, he was never behind on a batter and struck out four Nats, Robertson twice.

Over the same route, Scarborough had allowed only two hits. Dick Kokos opened the fifth with a single to right, but Sam Dente routed Sievers' grounder into a double play ball and that little threat was dissipated.

Scarborough lost his control temporarily in the seventh, walking Spence, Kokos and Seivers to load the bases with two away. Catcher Sherm Lollar, however, got Scarborough out of the jam by fouling out to Evans.

Kozar opened the Nats' big seventh by beating out a hit to Gerry Priddy. Slugging Sam Dente promptly whipped a single to right to send Kozar to third and the Nats were off.

Ed Stewart, batting for Evans, flied to right, and Kozar checked in to make it a 1-1 game. Buddy Lewis, swinging for Scarborough, singled to left, with Dente holding up at second. Yost then followed with his second homer of the season and his second in two nights to score Dente and Masterson, running for Lewis, in front of him.

Dick Welteroth pitched the last two innings for the Nats and gave up the third Brownie hit, a single by Kokos with two away in the ninth.

Boudreau Leads Tribe To 8-3 Win

Cleveland, June 2 (AP).—Manager Lou Boudreau, playing with a broken finger, belted a single and a double tonight as his Cleveland Indians defeated the Boston Red Sox, 8 to 3.

It was the first time since Sunday Boudreau has been back at his old position at shortstop. Bob Lemon, who has been out of play with an injured side for three weeks, held the Sox to five hits.

Tigers Again Beat Macks In 10th, 5-4

Detroit, June 2 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers spotted the Philadelphia Athletics a three-run lead in the first inning and beat them, 5-4, in 10 innings today in a game that was practically a repeat of their Wednesday night tussle.

In each game, the Athletics pushed over three runs in the opening inning on just one hit. And in each game, the Tigers came back with a single run in the bottom of the inning.

The Tigers tied the game up in the seventh inning last night, but waited until the eighth today as Hoot Evers blasted a three-run homer to make it a 4-4 game at that point. It matched Hank Majeski's three-run homer in the first. Majeski also hit a triple and double.

Then Evers broke up the game in the tenth as he did last night. In that case, he drove in the winning run. Today, he doubled in the tenth with two out and scored on Johnny Groth's long single.

Lou Brissie was the hard luck guy of the day as he kept the Tigers well under control until the eighth inning when the 85 degree temperature got him. Carl Scheib was the loser, Art Houtteman the winner.

Page Gets Victory in 12-7 Game

Chicago, June 2 (AP).—Tommy Henrich's hitting and Joe Page's relief pitching helped the New York Yankees defeat the Chicago White Sox, 12-7, today for their second straight win here.

Henrich, whose home run broke up a scoreless pitching duel between the two clubs last night, hit another home run the first time he came to bat today, to put his team ahead 3-0. He added a triple later in the game.

Page, who took over the fifth after Ed Lopat had failed to hold an 8-0 lead, pitched four and one third innings and allowed only one hit to receive credit for his fourth victory.

Henrich's 11th round-tripper in the opening frame came against Randy Gumpert, former Yankee. It followed a walk to George Stirnweiss and a single by Gene Woodling. Gumpert gave way to Bob Kuzava in the second when Cliff Mapes greeted him with a four-bagger. The Yankees added two more runs off Kuzava in the second and another in the third.

When, Where, How to Get There For Celebrities Golf This Week

Factual information about the National Celebrities golf tournament this Saturday and Sunday, at the Army-Navy Country Club:

Starting time each day: 11:45, with Jimmy Nochols, one-armed champion, giving an exhibition; 12:00 p. m., Attorney General Tom Clark hits "first ball."

How to get there: By bus, take AB&W at 12th and Pennsylvania to South Pentagon and transfer to shuttle bus to the club; by auto, take Highway No. 1 over either Memorial Bridge or 14th Street Bridge, watch for turns marked Army-Navy Drive.

Parking: Good idea to park in south parking area at the Pentagon and take AB&W shuttle bus to first tee at club; parking areas on west or back side of club grounds, also at Dolly Madison School grounds off Shirley hwy.

Traffic: All traffic leading to club must enter on Army-Navy Drive. This will be a one-way avenue with the exit from the grounds leading to Glebe rd.

Concessions: Stands will be conveniently located on course with drinks, hot dogs and sandwiches available.

MacPhail at Auction

New York, June 2 (AP).—Walter P. Chrysler, jr., sold his 24 racing thoroughbreds today at public auction for a total price of $221,000. Larry S. MacPhail, one-time baseball bigwig, was the heaviest buyer, paying $27,300 for three fillies.

Cotton Won't Defend

St. Andrews, Scotland, June 2 (AP).—Henry Cotton will not defend the British Open golf championship in the 1949 tournament at Sandwich, England, July 4-8.

Cotton, 42, withdrew his entry in a cable to the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews.

Braves Beat Pirates, 4-1, To Hold Lead

Boston, June 2 (AP).—Lefty Warren Spahn gave up but five hits while gaining his sixth win for the Boston Braves tonight with a 4-1 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Spahn had the cellarites blanked until two were out in the ninth. The Tribesmen clinched matters with a two run rally against Starter Tiny Bonham in the fourth inning to hold the top spot in the National League.

Leonard Holds Giants To 3 Hits, Wins, 3-0

New York, June 2 (AP).—Dutch Leonard, veteran Chicago knickle ball expert, shut out the New York Giants with three hits tonight, winning, 3-0, with the help of Hank Edwards' two-run homer in the sixth.

Whitey Lockman's single in the third was the only hit off the 39-year-oldster until Don Mueller lashed a pinch single in the eighth. Willard Marshall's ninth-inning single was the third hit. Leonard retired 14 Giants in succession after allowing the first blow.

Pope Pitches Tech Into Finals Today

McKinley Tech's one-man pitching staff, Jack Pope, tossed a two-hitter at Eastern last night as the Trainers scored a 3-1 Interhigh playoff victory before 1921 fans at Griffith Stadium.

Pope's sparkling performance followed his no-hitter against Wilson by two days. And when Tech plays at Eastern 3:30 p. m. today for the championship, Pope will again be on the hill, trying for his third win in four days.

The lanky 17-year-old right-hander got a very necessary assist last night from Frank Beckett, who clouted a lengthy three-run homer in the third inning. That margin stood up against an unearned Eastern run in the sixth.

Then Beckett stepped into an Eddie Kline fast ball and smacked a liner over Eastern left-fielder George Billups' head. The ball rolled to the bleachers

Werber gave Eastern a lift with two out and Dave Keys on first base in the Rambler's sixth. He booted Ralph Sita's grounder, and Ted Dyer followed with a double to score Keys for Eastern's only run.

Double Payoff at Charles Town Hits Eastern Low—$4.60

15 Collect $451

Daily Double Pays $451.60 At Rosecroft

For the second consecutive night the daily double payoff at Rosecroft raceway hit the high spots when a pair of longshots romped home to the tune of $451.60 last night.

Fifteen patrons in the crowd of 6000 held winning combination 8-4 which represented Symbol Land in the first and Bright Majesty in the second.

On Wednesday night, a record $800.40 double was established with 11 lucky bettors collecting.

The $2000 Indian Head stake was divided by two outsiders. In the first dash, popular Joe Eyler got across his Tom Dillard at $16.80 to $2.

Charles Town Gets Six-Day Extension

Mutuel's 3d Smallest in Turf History

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., June 2. A $4.60 payoff on the daily double, the third shortest in the history of the twin wager, was recorded here today. The return set a new low for Eastern racing and topped only the $3.60 paid for the usual $2 investment at the Lancaster, Ohio, track, July 16, 1940, and the $3.80 returned at Havana, February 15, 1940.

Of the 2800 tickets sold on the various combinations, 1652 were on the 8 and 3 duo of Norman Corbin's Snow Passes in the first race and Lester H. Smith's Mindanao in the second event.

Snow Passes, ridden by Jockey Johnny Tammaro, won by 3½ lengths but Mindinao, with Jockey John Hummer up, scored by a neck in a photo finish. Both were odds-on favorites, Snow Passes paying $2.60 and Mindanao returning $3.80.

Wingy Falls, Then Wins

The featured Portsmouth Purse proved exciting both before and during the running. Justin Funkhouser's Wingy, another odds-on choice, fell over the fence as the field was lining up for the test of 6½ furlongs. Jockey Carty Meyerhoffer, although thrown, held on to the reins. The 3-year-old was examined and found uninjured.

When the break came, Wingy went to the front and stayed there, winning by two lengths. Mrs. H. W. Wageley's Right Metal was second with Penn-Mar Stable's Trifiin Neibor third in the field of eight.

Only One Longshot

Wingy was clocked in 1:22 2-5 and returned a $3.20 mutuel. The program brought the fastest 4½ furlongs of the meeting. McKenney and Hickman's Free Valley, ridden by Jockey Ray Arduini of Washington, set his own pace and won by five lengths. He was clocked in 49 3-5, a second off the track record but the best time since the oval has been resurfaced.

M. I. Brooks' Sunny South was second and J. Jenkins, jr.'s, Eternal Dream, third. Free Valley paid $3.20. Six favorites won on the card, the day's only long shot coming in the seventh event when Miss Ruth Marzani's African Sunray scampered home at $26.80 mutuel while under the riding of Sammy Palumbo.

Thrifty, Heurich Play 5 to 5 Tie in Post Industrial League

Stuart Wins Junior Track

Stuart compiled 83 1-3 points to Paul's 48 1-3, Kramer's 45 5-6 and MacFarland's 39 1-3. Others in the order of finish included Taft, 35; Deal 21½; Jefferson, 11 1-3; Eliot, 9½; Hine, 4; Langley, 4; Gordon, 1-3.

Forte, McCoy Try To Snap Duncan's Lanham Streak

Two Ford V-8 pilots will be out to break the monopoly enjoyed by Len Duncan tonight when midget automobile racing enters its third week at the West Lanham (Md.) Speedway, 8:30 o'clock.

Duncan has captured the two previous 25-lap features at Lanham. Tonight's field includes Jimmy Forte, Philadelphia veteran, and Ernie McCoy, Reading, Pa., daredevil.

Forte and McCoy both beat Duncan in the 25-lap main event at Richmond, Va., last Wednesday night and both are entertaining hopes of being the first V-8 driver to take a Lanham feature since 1941.

Firemen Win, 12-6

The Fire Department last night defeated the Don's, 12-6, in an Eastern Recreation League game. The firemen are in first place in the league with six wins against two losses.

Mills Kayoed By Woodcock In 14th Round

London, June 2 (AP). — Bruce Woodcock knocked out world's light-heavyweight champion Freddie Mills in the fourteenth round to retain his European and British Empire heavyweight titles, at White City tonight.

Mills was down four times before the end. He went down for count of three in third, took a nine count in tenth, went down again in twelfth for three seconds and again for count of three in thirteenth.

This was the second meeting for the two Englishmen. Woodcock pounded out a 12-round decision over Mills in June, 1946.

U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Provides Boat Inspection

By Happy Walker

THE COAST GUARD Auxiliary courtesy motorboat inspection program for 1949 is under way. The Coast Guard Auxiliary is composed of civilian boat owners who are dedicated to help keep boating the most healthful and safest of sports. These inspections are free to the boat owners and can be had for the asking. Dr. Alvin A. Shapiro, the division inspection officer, has picked and trained sufficient personnel so that the Washington area boatmen can get proficient and adequate inspection service.

Walker

These inspectors have volunteered their time for an indoctrination inspection course, and now are willing to spend their weekends and evenings at the boatmen's invitation to inspect their boats. This courtesy inspection definitely is not a police function. Your Coast Guard Auxiliary acts in an advisory capacity only.

The United States Coast Guard will honor the decalcamania awarded your boat. You will not be boarded for routine Coast Guard inspection if you have this decal. Your Coast Guard only can award you a decal.

Call the division inspection officer, Dr. Alvin A. Shapiro, Executive 0462, for your courtesy inspection. He will make arrangements to have your boat inspected at your convenience.

DESPITE a three-day sailing frolic last weekend, those windjamming enthusiasts of the Potomac River Sailing Association will be at it again this Sunday when they stage their fourth of the spring series in all classes.

Race Chairman Frank Marquardt plans to run off the Comet eliminations as well as some long course events, provided, winds—which have not been too accommodating heretofore—are more in evidence.

WITH THE COMING of warm weather, launching time and all the official club openings out of the way, look for considerable activity along our waterways.

To spend a pleasant weekend or an overnight cruise out on the open water with a few invited cronies is indeed a rare privilege and it's real fun. But, like any other sport, it's only as good as you make it. There are responsibilities, too.

We have in mind the habit some folks have of littering up the water with every conceivable kind of trash, bottles, cans and debris. Throwing trash, garbage, etc. on the lawn just isn't done—so why on the water? Oh, it's just so handy to throw it overboard, we are sort of cramped for space, you know.

Let's keep it clean, mates. Stow the trash, bottles, cans and other debris, then place it out for proper collection. You'll feel a great deal better by helping to keep the water clean, healthful and enjoyable—just a thought.

Cameo Has Chance for Title Today

Thrifty Liquors came up with a run in the ninth inning yesterday to earn a 5-5 tie with Heurich in a Washington Post Industrial League game on the Elipse. The game was called in the ninth on account of darkness.

Thrifty plays Cameo Furniture today and a victory for unbeaten Cameo would clinch the first half title for them.

Frick Suspends, Fines Cards' Rice

New York, June 2 (AP).—Ford Frick, president of the National League, suspended Catcher Del Rice of the St. Louis Cardinals for five days and fined him $50 for an altercation with Plate Umpire Scotty Robb in yesterday's game between the Redbirds and Brooklyn Dodgers.

"The suspension is imposed upon Rice for laying hands upon an umpire," Frick said. "The fine is for prolonging the argument."

Bill Bennings . . .

At Charles Town.

DEAR FOLKS:

Apprentice F. D. Rivera got a tough break. He was suspended for 10 days for rough riding aboard Majeto, winner of the seventh race on the Wednesday program. The ruling came the day before he was to leave for Ohio. Mont M. McIntire, of the West Virginia Racing Commission, stated today that the 10 trainers suspended here for alleged doping have been denied the privileges of tracks in this State. General Manager Roger C. Hersey of Hagertown was a visitor and said Ty Shea has been named racing secretary at his track. Shea holds similar posts at Garden State Park and Narragansett Park. H. N. Warren's Annie's Dream, Popular Mare has been retired and will be bred to Galway, Trainer J. G. Davis announced today. She shares the .48 3/5 record for the local about four and a half furlongs course. BILL.

QUAINT FAIRFAX

The wonderful quiet peace you look forward to at day's end is here for you on this acre. Ancient trees form a lovely setting for this spacious older 2-bedroom frame home. The living room is relatively small, the dining room is extra large and the two are divided together. The kitchen is very large and needs modernization. An entrance hall, a large open front porch, a small closed rear porch, and a small downstairs bedroom or den completes the first floor picture. The 2d floor has tiled bath, 3 really spacious bedrooms, each with more than ample closets. Full dry basement, oil pipeless furnace, detached garages, fruit trees, garden, flowers and shrubs in profusion. All of this being sacrificed at only $16,-950. This is a well kept home with charm and warmth.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1949

Mary Haworth's Mail

Family Friend Asks Whether to See Wedding Of Boy Whose Parents Intend to Boycott His Marriage to Girl Whose Morals They Disapprove

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: The elder son of a friend of mine is to be married soon, but because of the girl's unmoral acts in the home of the boy, his family has refused to have any dealings with her. They do not recognize her in any way and consequently will not attend the wedding.

This puts me on a spot, for these are friends of long standing. The parents are fine, broadminded, modern persons, but they have a very high regard for family honor, and I can understand how they would feel about accepting a girl of this kind into their family circle.

One of the younger sons was married recently to a lovely girl who is adored by his whole family, so it isn't a case of the parents not wanting the boy to marry. It really is a matter of morals. Yet I have sympathy for him, too, for I have known him since childhood and fundamentally he is a fine lad, even though he has temporarily gotten off on the wrong foot.

Should I send a gift and attend the wedding, which I know would hurt his family, as they would feel I was signifying approval of the whole affair; or should I just send a card of congratulations and stay away from the ceremony? It is to be held in the near future, so I would appreciate an early answer. R. W.

What's the Pitch of Her Interest?

DEAR R. W.: You designate the boy's parents as your valued friends of long standing, and you say that they intend to boycott his wedding, due to their scandalized, unyielding disapprobation of the bride-to-be. But you make no mention whatever of her parents or family, from which I infer that you don't know them at all.

In view of that picture, I rather question the propriety of your active interest in the nuptials. In general a wedding is the bride's show, customarily staged by her family; and in the event the man's family refuses to join the supporting cast, it isn't likely that the snubbed girl or her mother would venture, or care, to include his parents' bosom friends in their guest list.

Where both families look with approbation on the union, the typical wedding list is a collaborative "work," with the betrothed pair and their respective mothers compiling and revising until a company of satisfactory size and representation is mutually agreed on.

Wisely Beware of Butting In

BUT in a case such as you depict, I should think the couple and the bride's sponsors would want a quiet ceremony, and would limit the company to the bride's family and close friends, plus a few contemporary-age friends of the bridegroom, if he has some special loyal favorites—say old classmates, business associates or other staunch young cronies who wish him well and don't feel subject to his parents' disapproval.

Thus in that type of assemblage I see no natural place for you, if familiarity with the dissenting parents is your chief social link to the situation. And a "congratulatory" note would be hypocritical, to say the least, if you feel that the boy is getting off on the wrong foot.

However, if your character and endorsements carry weight, so that your presence at the wedding might offset his parents' snub, and your sympathy is sincerely big enough to openly bestow that lift, you've title to go, provided the bride would welcome you. But if that's not the pitch, stay away—and send a gift, addressed to the bride, with "best love to both" inscribed on your card. M. H.

Our First and Most Versatile Food

This Month We Hail Dairy Products

By Lucia Brown

"CREME DE LA CREME," "With milk and honey blest," and many other like phrases that drift through literature and language show the high regard in which dairy products are held the world around.

It's not surprising, then, that a whole month has been set aside in their honor in our own promotion-minded country. Turkeys, peanuts, doughnuts—even cherries—may be cut off with only a week, but June, in its entirety, is dedicated to Her Majesty, the Cow.

Traditionally the month of fullest dairy production, June has brought plenty of lush, young grass to the nearby Maryland-Virginia area this year. This means plenty of fresh milk and sweet rich cream for Washington families, so it's a fine time to serve cooling dairy desserts and drinks in honor of National Dairy Month.

Here are four recipes—two featuring "store-bought" or homemade vanilla ice cream and two for refrigerator treats to be made in the freezing tray.

COCONUT CARAMEL CRUNCH RING

1 cup brown sugar
Pinch of salt
4 cups corn flakes
1 cup shredded coconut
Vanilla ice cream

MELT BUTTER in heavy skillet. Add sugar and salt and place over very low heat until sugar melts. Gently stir in corn flakes and coconut and toss until well coated, keeping flakes whole. Pack into well-greased ring mold. Cool slightly. While still warm, unmold on serving platter. Fill center with ice cream. This recipe makes six portions.

POLKA DOT PUNCH

1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¾ teaspoon ginger
¾ teaspoon nutmeg
Few grains salt
6 cups cold milk
3 teaspoons vanilla
1 pint vanilla ice cream
Sliced gum drops

COMBINE honey, spices, and salt and blend well. Add cold milk and vanilla. Stir until well blended. Turn into cold glasses or mugs. Top with ice cream and garnish with colored gum drop slices. This recipe serves six.

RASPBERRY MILK SHERBET

2 cups water
1 package raspberry-flavored gelatin
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
2 cups milk
1 cup crushed, sweetened raspberries (frozen, fresh, or canned)

COMBINE sugar and water and boil gently two minutes. Place gelatin in bowl, add hot liquid, and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add lemon juice and orange rind. Turn into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator, setting control for coldest freezing temperature. When partially firm, remove to cold bowl and beat with rotary egg beater until fluffy. Add milk and beat until blended. Fold in 1 cup crushed, sweetened raspberries. Return to tray. Freeze 30 minutes long and stir; then freeze until firm. Freezing time: 5 to 6 hours. This recipe makes 1½ quarts.

FROZEN ORANGE CREAM

2/3 cup sweetened condensed milk
½ cup orange juice
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
1 cup heavy cream

BLEND milk, orange juice and rind and pour into freezing tray. Freeze until ice crystals form around side of pan. Whip cream until stiff enough to hold a soft peak, fold into milk mixture and freeze. When half frozen, scrape mixture from sides and bottom of tray, beat until smooth but not melted, and freeze until firm. This recipe serves six persons.

HERE'S a snack feast that will delight 'teen-agers—their elders, too, for that matter, It is Polka Dot Punch, accompanied by Cottage Cheese Boats. You'll find the recipe for the punch elsewhere on this page. Make the cheese boats by cutting a thin slice from the top of finger rolls, scooping out a bit of the center, and filling with a lining of lettuce leaf, plus cottage cheese mixed with chopped olives and chives

Ask Anne — About Interior Decorations

I am moving into a new house soon with white walls and trim. The floors are oak. My sofa and chair are light wine in color and the extra chair is turquoise with small wine figures. What color rug and drapes would be best? Also, if I use scatter rugs for the summer should they all be the same color and design? And what size would be best to use in front of the sofa?

N. L. McG.

With white walls, I'd suggest a warm tone for the rugs—either burgundy or a rose beige. If you choose a plain colored or tone on tone rug, the drapes could be gaily figured or striped with burgundy, turquoise and a clear yellow or white for accent. You will give your room a pleasant feeling of change and coolness if you use a cool color for the summer rugs—say turquoise or a green blue. Be sure it is a color which will blend with your turquoise upholstery if it is not to be slip-covered when the summer rugs are in use.

The best proportion for the rug in front of the sofa would be one which is the same length as the sofa. A rug 6 by 4 feet should be about right.

In our apartment we have the shower fitted over the bath and I wish to buy a shower curtain for same. Which type of material do you advise for hard wearing? I have heard that some of the material tears easily, would plastic be considered good wearing? M. M.

Yes, plastic shower curtains are considered excellent from the standpoint of wear. In buying a curtain choose a heavyweight plastic which is well reinforced around the rings where it is attached to the rod and along all edges. The reinforcement will prevent tearing. Plastic gives especially satisfactory wear in this high humidity climate because it is impervious to mildew.

I recently moved into an apartment which is about 20 years old. The inlaid linoleum on the kitchen floor, while still in excellent condition as far as wearing possibilities are concerned, has many marks on it which are impervious to ordinary cleaning methods. I would like to wax the floor, but would first wish to clean it thoroughly. I would appreciate your recommending a cleaner which might remove some of the marks. W. C. McC.

Many of the marks can be removed by washing it thoroughly with varsol and the more stubborn stains can be removed by rubbing it with fine steel wool. The surface of the linoleum will be removed in spots rubbed with steel wool, so such treatment must be followed with an application of several thin, well-rubbed coats of wax or a good linoleum lacquer.

Sometimes these rings can be removed by rubbing the wood with a cloth moistened with spirits of camphor or rubbing alcohol. Be sure to not use much of either liquid or rub too vigorously, because they are solvents and could remove the finish. Another treatment which is sometimes successful is to place a clean white blotter over the ring and press it with a warm—not hot—iron. If neither of these treatments completely remove the rings, rubbing them with a scratch-concealing furniture polish will sometimes do the trick.

When the rings are gone, give the tops of your furniture several thin, well-rubbed coats of wax to

Meat Prices Continue to Rise

With meat prices climbing the step-ladder, you may find pork as much as 6 cents a pound higher at your store this weekend, compared to last. Beef is up 2 to 4 cents on the pound; picnic hams, 3 or 4 cents; frying chickens, 2 to 4 cents.

LAMB is so high, many dealers aren't even bothering to handle it. Reason given for stepped-up prices on all meats is the large demand and the fact that early estimates of the supply were too high.

CRAB MEAT is scarcer this weekend as a result of bad fishing weather on the Chesapeake. Scallops are plentiful, and so are porgies and mackerel.

Crusading Editor Pleads Here For Talks on Rights

Jailed by Nazis, Frau Leber Fights On

By Genevieve Reynolds

The Washington Post.
MRS. ANNEDORE LEBER
. . . German editor here

TIME IS RIPE for the Western powers to focus their attention on the problem of civil and human rights as well as on economic and reparations puzzlers, in the opinion of Mrs. Annedore Leber of Berlin, publisher and legislator.

"If the leaders of the Western powers now meeting in Paris would insist on the return of German war prisoners, as well as an accounting of the thousands of persons kidnapped from the western German zone, it would give new spirit to freedom-loving peoples throughout the world," insisted the blue-eyed, brown-haired editor and owner of the monthly woman's magazine, Mozaik.

Mrs. Leber (pronounced Laber) is one of three owners and editors of Telegraf, the largest newspaper in Germany, with a circulation of 400,000. She came to the United States about three weeks ago under auspices of the Offices of Military Government for Germany.

In New York and Washington she is the guest also of the State Department of Commerce of New York. She is participating in a program set up by OMGUS education and cultural relations division, under the women's affairs section.

Fearlessly Outspoken

AS A MEMBER of Stadt Parlament (City Assembly of Berlin), dynamic, alert Mrs. Leber is a fearless, outspoken exponent of human and civil rights. Her husband, Dr. Julius Leber, Reichstag representative in the early '30s, was first imprisoned and then hanged for his attacks against Hitler and national socialism. She herself, as well as her two children, were imprisoned for four months.

After 4½ years in various concentration camps Dr. Leber was released and affiliated himself with the undergound movement of Graf Yorck and Graf Stauffenberg, but was betrayed by the Communists prior to the July 20, 1944, putsch.

For her democratic beliefs, Mrs. Leber went to prison, yet she still vigorously opposes ideological or trade compromises with dictatorships.

"All the world compromised with Hitler and we had war," she explained. "To prevent war and to keep peace, the non-compromise technique should be tried."

While her husband was imprisoned, Frau Leber supported herself and family, first as a writer, then as a designer and dressmaker, chief of a fashion department's pattern division. Prior to her marriage she studied law. Her political beliefs soon ended her good dressmaking job.

Continues Husband's Work

WITH THE END of hostilities, Mrs. Leber dedicated herself to continuation of her husband's work for European federation.

Mrs. Leber's 20-year-old daughter, Katharine, is studying dress designing in Paris. Matthias, her 17-year-old son, has been offered a scholarship by Harvard University.

Eighty-five per cent of German women before World War II were housewives. But with almost three women to every man now, the German lawmaker and editor is convinced that more and more German women must be trained to support themselves.

"Our women must be brought into professions where the labor market is open," she said.

During her stay in New York, Mrs. Leber visited schools, universities, factories and women's organizations. She was guest of honor at a luncheon given by Representative Katharine St. George at which all the Congresswomen, except Representative Mary Norton, were present, and also at a tea given by Mrs. Helen Montfort Moodie.

After lunching with Congresswomen Thursday, she attended sessions of the House and Senate and later met a representative group of the city's club leaders at Mrs. Moodie's tea.

At noon yesterday she was guest of honor at luncheon given by Leslie Hill Prince, director, Washington office of the State of New York Department of Commerce, at the National Press Club.

And what has most impressed Frau Leber in the United States? "Respect of people as individuals and a strong pioneer spirit," she averred shortly before entraining for New York City.

On Tuesday she will emplane for her home in Berlin.

Chiffon Is Tops in Summer Fashions

By Peggy Preston

WHAT to do till the cool weather comes?

Well, we could always clear out of town—give the "back of our hand" to the local torrid season by taking off for other climes.

But, this delectable plan failing, the next best bet is to look around for some cool, comfortable clothes and try to get through the summer without looking as uncomfortable as we feel.

Cotton, which we love for its washability, can get tiresome along with the weather. And, besides, there are always the occasions when we would like to create an especially effective "entrance."

Chiffon can help do the trick. It is newly recommended for daytime wear, and is being made up in attractive dresses at surprisingly pleasant prices.

The varied ways in which this one-time luxury type fabric is being fashioned also come as a bit of a surprise. Styles range from tailored, shirtwaist dresses, suitable for office, luncheon in town or travel, to lace-trimmed frocks for summer dining and dancing.

Most are fashioned over a rustling taffeta or crepe slip, and skirts are all gently full and flowing. Mighty flattering, this style, when done in sheer chiffon.

WHEN Ben Reig showed his summer collection here last month, he put the emphasis on black, navy and brown chiffon. Dresses from this high-fashion house feature skirts made up of flying pleats, which spin and flare as the wearer moves. Frequently they have patent leather belts, a touch of tailoring on an otherwise frilly frock.

In the medium and low-price ranges, chiffon dresses are less dramatic, but equally lovely. Locally we have noted a navy blue shirtwaist dress, with bodice of fine tucks and buttoned with jeweled knobs. Sleeves are brief as possible, the belt self-covered and the skirt nicely flared.

For more dress-up occasions there are good blacks, that because of their sheerness do not give that dull, hot effect so often created by diaphanous fabrics. Necklines sometimes plunge in these styles, and at other times are high with dainty collars. The slip may be plain, or trimmed, for example, with bands of pale blue grosgrain ribbon, duplicated at top and bottom. Lace trimming of the slip appears to be most popular at the moment.

Chiffon in pastel shades are beginning to be shown, but for the girl who will spend most of her time in town this summer, the dark colors will be most practical.

HERE'S an idea to help you say fiddle-dee-dee to that old horror—Washington summer weather—this year. It is chiffon, sheer, cool and dark, and it is the daytime fabric of the season. Styles range from tailored shirtwaist-type frocks to frilly, lace-trimmed numbers for late afternoon. It's guaranteed to at least make you look cool while the mercury soars and soars. Local shops are currently featuring a wide selection of dresses in tissue-sheer chiffon

Envoy to Russia, Wife, on Their Way

The new United States Ambassador to Russia and Mrs. Alan Kirk, who have been in Washington staying at the Shoreham Hotel, left yesterday for New York.

Ambassador Kirk will fly from New York next Friday for Paris and will be joined there later by Mrs. Kirk and their son, Roger, a sophomore at Princeton, who will sail from New York June 10.

After several weeks in Paris, Ambassador Kirk and his family will go to Moscow, where the new Ambassador will take over his duties.

Mrs. Mesta to Entertain After Godfrey Show

MRS. GEORGE MESTA, chairman of patrons and patronesses for the Arthur Godfrey Homecoming show Saturday evening at the National Guard Armory, will entertain at a supper party at the Sulgrave Club following the show. Mr. Godfrey, the golf tournament celebrities, patrons of the event and a few of Mrs. Mesta's personal friends, will be guests.

Chief Justice and Mrs. Fred Vinson, Attorney General and Mrs. Tom Clark, Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. John W. Snyder and Mme. Pandit, the Indian Ambassador, are but a few of the large number of notables who will attend the Armory show.

Keep Vim, Get Slim, Enjoy Your Swim

Don't Overdo a Day or Two You'll Undo Little Good You Do

By Ida Jean Kain

SUDDENLY the swim-suit season is here, so many a girl will plunge into shaper-uppers.

Since time is short, the eager beaver will be tempted to choose the most rugged exercises and go at them vigorously. If the instructions limit an exercise to five counts the first few days, she romps through it 50 times, just for good measure.

"No, my darling daughter!" That is no way to be a bathing beauty. An overdose of exercise at the beginning brings that beauty routine to an abrupt and painful stop.

And by the way, don't get the notion that you personally are the exception to this rule. You won't feel the effects the first day, and perhaps not too much the second, but by the third morning. . . .

The rule is always to stop exercising before you feel tired. If you tremble following a workout, have a restless night, or feel unduly tired the next morning, you're overdoing. While you may feel slightly stiff at the beginning of a program, you should feel better generally for having exercised—more alive.

Start with simple stretching. Just a slight stretch of muscle stimulates contraction. It's called the stretch reflex. Stretching is an easy way to develop normal elasticity . . . and that's what gives muscle tone. With good muscle tone you'll fit smoothly into a swim suit . . . and swimming really makes bathing beauties.

POSITION: Lying on back on floor, arms back on floor overhead, legs straight down.

MOVEMENT: Centering the action from the waistline, stretch in both directions, pushing up with the hands and down with the legs. This puts the pull through the middle measurement, where it is needed. Take three slow stretches . . . no use hurrying a stretch.

The second exercise mends the posture and tones the middle muscles and inner thigh muscles.

POSITION: Lying on back on floor, legs straight down, arms with elbows bent and forearms back on floor . . . to keep the shoulders in beautiful line.

MOVEMENT: Raise right leg slightly off floor, swing it across left leg as far to left as possible without moving the left leg. Be sure to pull up and in with the middle muscles as you swing leg across. Return to starting position slowly, pulling down and back on buttock muscles. Repeat not more than six times.

Getting the Dentist Habit

Most people don't like dentists. At least, they don't like what dentists do. That may be one of the reasons so many parents fail to build up the dentist habit with their children. Then, too, we seem to have the let-well-enough-alone attitude. As long as there isn't something obviously wrong with our teeth, we don't bother.

It's a very good thing to have youngsters' teeth checked from the earliest years. From the time Junior is 2 years of age, it is desirable to visit your dentist every six months. Even at that age, small cavities may start. If they are caught early, they can be fixed with little pain or difficulty. And don't let anyone fool you by saying that it doesn't make any difference if "baby" teeth decay. Mouth health is important from the very beginning.

Some dentists aren't too good at dealing with children. You may need to shop around, ask your friends, see several dentists until you find one who understands youngsters and who will do everything possible to make the visits not unpleasant. Not using force, chatting in a friendly manner and the use of other child-understanding procedures are found among more and more dentists today.

One Grandmother's Pledge On Spoiling Grandchildren

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Here, for the benefit of children and parents everywhere, is one grandmother's pledge to her grandchildren. I am glad to print it.

Mrs. R. writes, "I am writing this on behalf of grandmothers who, like myself, have been accused of spoiling their grandchildren. I don't mean neurotic grandmothers who spoil for their own sakes, but those who truly love their grandchildren.

"(1) If loving them with all my heart and showing it by word and actions is spoiling them, then God grant, I shall always spoil them.

"(2) If granting every request which doesn't harm them, even if it means extra work or time, spoils them, then I'll continue to spoil them.

"(3) If treating them as courteously as I do grownups, or refraining from hurting their feelings or their pride by scolding them in front of their friends spoils them, then I'll never stop spoiling.

"(4) If treating them fair and square as I would adults is spoiling them, then I am guilty as charged.

"(5) If making their hearts sing, their eyes glisten, by taking time for a bedtime story, or reading or singing to them spoils them, then goodness knows I intend to do so.

"(6) If answering their questions to the best of my ability without ignoring or ridiculing them is spoiling, then they will always be spoiled by me.

"(7) If praising everything they try to do and building up their self-confidence instead of tearing it down spoils them, I'll keep it up from now on.

"(8) If not crushing their spirits by beating or punishing them for everything they do spoils them, I know I will.

"(9) If making the home a place of warmth and friendliness and giving tots a chance to be their age will do it, then I'll spoil them shamelessly.

"(10) If not holding up another child as an example, in order to make this child feel inferior, or hate the other child, is spoiling, then I'll always spoil them."

These are 10 precepts, Mrs. R., and I don't think any grandmother would be deemed guilty of spoiling who upheld them in practice.

Inter-American Lawyers Feted; Diplomats' Wives Honored

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE MAURICE MORRIS entertained at a cocktail party yesterday at the Lindens, their home on Kalorama rd., in honor of a group of distinguished lawyers of the Inter-American Bar Association. The lawyers flew here from Canada and Latin-American countries to attend the sixth Inter-American Bar Conference in Detroit. At the conclusion of the conference, delegates and members of their families were invited here as guests of the District of Columbia Bar Association from June 2 to June 5.

President Truman received the lawyers yesterday at 3:15 p. m., and today the Mexican Ambassador and Senora de la Colina will entertain in their honor at the embassy from 5 to 7 o'clock. Saturday evening there will be a reception at the Pan American Union, followed by a buffet supper and dancing. The acting legal adviser of the Department of State, Jack B. Tate, will be host on this occasion.

Countess Moltke-Huitfeldt To Bid Farewell for Summer

COUNT ADAM MOLTKE-HUITFELDT, secretary of the Danish Embassy and Countess Moltke-Huitfeldt, entertained at cocktails yesterday at their home on Hoban rd. to give Countess Moltke-Huitfeldt opportunity to say au revoir to her friends for the summer.

The countess and her young daughter will sail soon for Sweden to visit the countess' family and from there will go to Denmark for the remainder of the season.

The Scandinavian envoys—Ambassador of Norway Morgenstierne; the Danish Ambassador, Henrik de Kauffmann and the Swedish Ambassador, Erik Boheman, and their wives, all had been asked to the fete. Others included the Finnish Minister and Mme. Jutila, the Icelandic Minister and Mme. Thors; the Netherlands Ambassador and Mme. van Kleffens and the Belgian Ambassador, Baron Robert Silvercruys.

Then there were the Swiss Minister and Mme. Bruggmann, the Portuguese Ambassador, Pedro Theotonio Pereira; the Italian Ambassador and Signora Tarchiani.

Ray Atherton, former United States Ambassador to Canada and former Minister to Denmark, with Mrs. Atherton; Joseph Grew, who also served in Denmark in his diplomatic career, and Mrs. Grew.

Col. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, former Ambassador to Poland, whom Count Moltke-Huitfeldt knew both in Warsaw and Helsinki, had been asked with Mrs. Biddle, and still others were Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, Mr. and Mrs. John Walker and Mr. and Mrs. Walton Butterworth.

Kleinwaechters Hosts At Dinner Party

THE Minister of Austria and Mme. Kleinwaechter entertained last evening at a dinner for a company of 18. Among the guests were the dean of the corps, Norwegian Ambassador Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, and Mme. de Morgenstierne and the Danish Ambassador and Mme. de Kauffmann.

Others were the Swiss Minister and Mme. Bruggmann, the Assistant Secretary of State, John Hickerson, and Mrs. Hickerson; Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cox, chief of protocol and Mrs. Stanley Woodward, Mrs. Robert E. Lee 3d, Prof. George Alexich and Dr. Ernest Lemberger, First Secretary of the Austrian Legation, and Mrs. Lemberger.

Mrs. Peyton March Gives Luncheon for Mrs. Wade

MRS. PEYTON MARCH, wife of General March, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Army and Navy Club for Mrs. Leigh Wade, whose husband, Colonel Wade, has been named Air Attache of the United States Embassy in Athens.

Mrs. Dewey Short, wife of Representative Short, will entertain at a farewell luncheon for Mrs. Wade on Tuesday at the Mayflower. Colonel and Mrs. Wade will leave this month for Greece.

Since the alcohol in the perfume has probably partially or completely removed the furniture finish, your best chance of making the spots less conspicous is to rub them lightly with powdered pumice or rottenstone and oil. Dip a soft cloth into the oil, touch it to the pumice in a shallow container and rub it into the ring. Rub lightly with the grain. Take care not to get the pumice into the surrounding areas. When the spot is smoothed, wipe clean with oil on a cloth. If the stained area is lighter than the rest of the wood, it can be touched up with a scratch concealing polish. Finish the treatment by giving the entire piece a good rubbing with a high grade furniture polish.

We recently have moved into a house and we are greatly troubled by spiders on the ceilings. I dust the walls of the rooms three times a week and yet they appear. Will you let me know what I can use to prevent this? Also, what causes them to appear? They are mostly the big black ones. B. F.

Spider eggs develop in crevices in the woodwork, under upraised edges of wall paper and so forth. To get rid of the infestation in your room, spray the ceiling or walls where they are found with a 5 per cent DDT solution. This will leave a residue of the DDT on the walls which will kill the adult spiders coming in contact with it for several months. In this way in time the infestation will be done away with.

I am interested in making strawberry preserves and would like to know how to do this without the fruit and juice separating. H. G.

Strawberry Preserves

6 cups berries (measure after stemming)
6 cups sugar
½ bottle commercial pectin

Wash berries and remove stems. Measure one half (three cups) of fruit into a large kettle and add one half of the sugar to the fruit. (The kettle should be large because berries foam and boil up when cooking.) Start the berries on a slow fire until some juice is extracted, then increase the temperature and boil 5 minutes. Start counting time when the berries begin to boil. Stir occasionally, but avoid breaking berries. When 5 minutes are up, add remaining berries and the remaining sugar (3 cups of each). Boil 5 more minutes. Remove from fire and cool for 15 minutes, then pour in the pectin directly from the bottle, stirring while you add it. When the pectin is well stirred in, allow berries to stand in the sirup overnight. Allowing the berries to cool overnight in the juice plumps them and prevents them from separating from the juice when placed in glasses. The preserves should be placed in a flat pan for the overnight standing rather than being left in the kettle in which they were cooked. An enamel broiler pan or the bottom of a roaster is ideal for this. In the morning, pour the cold preserves into sterilized glasses and cover with hot paraffin.

I find I have a dime with the date 1842. It seems to me that a coin that old would have some value. Could you inform me about this? H. H. B.

The coin would be valued up to a dollar depending upon its condition. If the coin is worn and smooth, it does not have as much value as it would if it were not worn. To have an exact appraisal, I suggest you take it to one of the dealers listed under "coin dealers" in the yellow pages of the telephone book.

I have several precious antiques that I would like to know the value of, including two Galle vases. I do not wish to sell them. W. H.

There is an antique shop on Wisconsin Avenue which will be able to appraise the articles for you. I suggest you call them at NOrth 0631. They will be able to give you an idea of the cost of the service when you tell them the number of pieces you wish appraised.

We have linoleum in our kitchen in a green pattern. It has been varnished. Could you state in your column whether it can be painted and with what kind of paint? Also, if paint comes in colors? P. S. B.

Yes, it can be painted over the varnish. Before applying the paint, go over the entire surface with varsol to remove any surface grease or wax. If the varnish surface seems very shiny it may be wise also to scrub it with steel wool to break the smooth surface so the paint will adhere. Use any good quality flat floor paint or enamel and apply two or three coats. This does come in colors. When thoroughly dry, waxing the surface will protect the paint and give you longer wear.

I am still fairly new at the business of housekeeping and would like to ask your advice on a few things. My furniture consists of solid mahogany, mahogany veneer, and French walnut veneer. In order to keep it bright and new-looking, should I use a wax (self-polishing or otherwise) or furniture oil, or is it just a matter of taste? A. O'C.

Whether you use wax or furniture polish on your furniture is determined by the use to which your furniture is subjected. Using wax on furniture will give the surface more protection against spilled liquids and other possible accidents than furniture polish does. The important thing to remember in applying either wax or furniture oils to the furniture is to apply them thinly, allow time to dry and then buff until you have a hard, completely dry surface. If this procedure is not followed and you leave the surface sticky it will catch and hold soil, clouding the natural beauty of the wood. If properly applied, wax on furniture needs to be applied only two or three times a year. Between applications, care should consist only of frequent rubbing and dusting with a soft, dry, lint-free cloth.

Will you tell me where to find names and addresses of companies carrying a good line of lingerie, blouses and hosiery, which products are sold direct to the consumer by ladies making personal calls on the homes. I wish this information to start an active business in the Panhandle of Texas, where towns are few, far between, and most of them very small. G. E.

The Thomas' Register of American Manufacturers, which lists manufacturing firms alphabetically and by commodity, may be helpful to you. This register is compiled by subscription so it is not an all inclusive list of manufacturers, but it is the most complete available. You will find it at most large libraries.

Another suggestion is for you to go to the library in the Department of Commerce. It has been my experience that librarians are veritable gold mines of information and, without question, you will find one in the Commerce library who can help you with this specific problem.

Inquiries and contributions to Ask Anne column must be in written form. We regret that time does not permit handling them by telephone. Address questions to Anne, Room 403, The Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C.

"MARTINI," a three-sectioned modern wall unit designed by John Martin of Sweden is included in the display of newly imported furniture at Mayer & Co. The unit is made of platinum walnut, lined with rose mahogany. There's a bar in one end of it, shelves in the center, and a desk at the right. The coffee table of platinum walnut has a removable glass top, open shelf and a drawer. Side and arm chairs, with square cut-outs in backs, come in solid or patterned upholstery. The Swedish pieces embody the typical modern functionalism, as well as pleasing line

Arts, Letters Group to Give Scholarships

Ten thousand dollars in scholarships will be given to promising young Washington area artists by the Washington Chapter, National Society of Arts and Letters, Tuesday, June 7, at the club's annual scholarship benefit, 2:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim, 2800 Albemarle st. nw.

The total, announced yesterday by the club president and benefit chairman, Mrs. Joseph Horgan, covers studies for 19 students in accredited schools, colleges and universities in fields of piano, voice, painting design, short story writing, the ballet, organ and drama. This is the first year that the club, in its short five-year history, has gone beyond the fields of piano, painting and voice in making the awards. The total includes funds raised by the organization, three scholarship gifts from the Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney Trust Fund and several gifts from individuals.

Winners will be introduced at the benefit Tuesday, and will present the afternoon program. Added attraction is the sale of more than 100 paintings contributed by Washington and New York artists.

Mrs. Horgan, in making the announcement today, also listed the women who will be patronesses for the benefit. The group includes Mrs. Max Truitt, Mrs. Fred M. Vinson, Mrs. George Mesta, Mrs. Robert Weeds Bliss, Mrs. John W. Snyder, Mrs. Charles F. Brannon, Mrs. Thomas C. Clark, Mrs. W. Stuart Symington, Mrs. Gordon Gray, Mrs. Pierpont Morgan Hamilton, Mrs. Francis Biddle, Mrs. Kenneth B. Landon, Mrs. Harold H. Woman's Democratic Club Hears Dr. F. M. Riddick

Dr. Floyd M. Riddick, with the aid of cartoon slides, told the Woman's National Democratic Club yesterday morning how a bill in Congress becomes a law.

Dr. Riddick, Senate editor of the Congressional Daily Digest of the Congressional Record, was guest speaker at the meeting which was sponsored by the education committee of the club.

The speaker, following an introduction by Mrs. Charles F. Brannan, briefly told the functions of Congress and of political

Did the Young Roosevelts Ever Have Ordinary Home Security?

Now, for the first time, Eleanor Roosevelt tells the frank, woman-to-woman story of what went on behind the walls of the Presidential home. The most intimate revelations of them all.

Nobody else could tell it as she does in this remarkable story that will make you ask yourself many times, "What would I have done?" "How would I have protected my children from paying the price?"

Swedish Modern Furniture Makes Washington Bow Today

SWEDISH modern furniture, imported as part of the current world trade movement, goes on sale in Washington today for the first time.

Sleek in line, with gleaming surfaces of rich native woods, it was brought from the land of legends and sagas by an American corporation organized expressly for this purpose. Some of it was included in last week's World Trade exhibit, staged by the Washington Board of Trade at the Department of Commerce.

Washingtonians who visit Mayer & Co., where the furniture is now available, will find that skilled Swedish craftsmen have gone all out in adapting their furniture to the American family, our room sizes, and living habits. The collection, they say, represents two years of work on scaling, construction, and restyling for American needs.

The pieces are very adaptable, made so that they can be transferred with equal taste and utility to living room, bedroom, or foyer. This is especially true of chests, storage cabinets, and sectional units.

Attracting much attention at the press preview of the furniture yesterday was a multiple-use round table. Operating on a piano swivel, it may be stopped at any point from 18-inch coffee table height to a 29-inch level for dining or breakfast. Its width can be varied at any height, from 36 to 64 inches. Useful for bridge, breakfast for two, or dinner for eight, it makes a fine basic table for the home of newlyweds or others living in small apartments.

The beautiful finishes on the furniture are among its outstanding characteristics. These are in amber, bleached tones including an exotic platinum, dark walnut and mahogany. Veneers are handled so as to give highly interesting surface patterns. The smooth interior finishes are either highly gleaming or soft as dull satin.

With a special nod to dining room and bedroom, the Swedish group includes sets for these. Adjustable shelves and divisions in the storage space in these sets make them wonderfully adaptable. This is especially true of the buffet of the dining room set called "Triumph," and the Mr. and Mrs. chests of the bedroom set, "Vega."

Sectional units of walnut in platinum or exotic dark veeners are lined in rose mahogany. One design, by Carl Erick Ekselius, is of different depths and cabinet arrangements. One unit may be a bar, secretary, radio or TV cabinet, while the two-door storage space below will accommodate either records or linens.

Attending yesterday's preview were the Counselor of the Attending yesterday's preview were the Counselor of the Swedish Embassy and Mme. Alexis de Aminoff, First Secretary and Mme. Per Lind, Baron Von Platen, First Secretary and Mme. Olof Rydbeck, First Secretary and Mme. Gosta Brunnstrom.

W. J. McManuses Fete Alfred L. Blocks

Mr. and Mrs. William J. McManus, who make their home at the Mayflower, were hosts yesterday at breakfast in the North Room of the hotel, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Block. Mrs. Block is the former Miss Leverne Flemming of Washington. Her marriage took place recently in Rockville, Md. Guests at yesterday's luncheon included members of the families and a few intimate friends.

On the Town

THIS is anniversary week for Olmsted's, on G st. Tomorrow night veterans from Walter Reed and Bethesda Naval Hospitals will help the owners celebrate at dinner. James Brahms and Leonard Mitchell, you may remember, started entertaining veterans weekly during the war.

The diner at Olmsted's is assured of that extra French touch—in sauces or seasoning. While relishing a tender duckling in an bigarade sauce of secret and exciting ingredients, the owners reminisced to me about the last seven years.

There was the party which Trygve Lie gave for 10 fellow diplomats. Ten mammoth Kansas City steaks and 10 bottles of imported French champagne were served.

Ingrid Bergman, here in Joan of Lorraine, will remember Olmsted's for Aqua Vit. Not ordinarily an imbiber, she couldn't resist the Swedish drink, which stands for 'water of life' in Latin.

"No bad chow, for no chuck wagon," was Gene Autry's appraisal of Olmsted fare. Unintelligible gobbledegook of a different sort came from 25 scholarly guests who walked in unexpectedly one day—professors from Oak Ridge, Tennessee, headed by J. Robert Oppenheimer.

Engineers Develop 'Silent' Generator

Crickets chirping and wind rustling the grass literally drown out the sound of a new engine-generator set produced by the Engineer Research and Development Laboratories at Fort Belvoir, Va.

The set, designed to power the lighting system for command posts, small field hospitals and similar size military installations, owes its "silence" to muffling chambers and glass wool lining of a unique aluminum silencer box, engineers said.

Sound technicians tested the 117-pound sets for audibility at night on a flat meadow. At 325 feet to the rear (exhaust end) and 200 feet in front, they reported, the generator sounds were lost to the chirping of crickets and a light breeze on the grass. Without nature's noises, they estimated, the machines might have been audible for another 50 to 75 feet.

Wartime generator sets of similar capacity, any G. I. in frontline service will tell you, could be heard a half a mile away.

O'Sullivan Building Sold

Baltimore, June 1 (AP).—Deeds were signed today transferring title of the O'Sullivan Building, Baltimore's biggest office structure, to the newly formed Mathieson Corp. The new corporation is owned jointly by the Baltimore National Bank and the Mathieson Chemical Corp. of New York.

State Defers Phone Rise

Richmond, Va., June 2 (AP).—Subscribers of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia may rest a little easier—their telephone rates won't go up until at least September 1. Maybe they won't go up then.

The State Corporation Commission yesterday deferred any increase in rates until that date, and reserved the right in its order to delay the effective date of any increases still further.

The SCC order was the latest step in the developing fight over telephone rates charged homes and businesses by the company.

C. & P. asked the SCC on April 4 for increases in urban and rural rates totaling nearly four million dollars. Boosts would average 15 per cent of the current monthly rates.

Some 25 cities and towns in Virginia and the League of Virginia Counties are preparing to fight the increase. The SCC itself will investigate the proposal at an estimated cost of $30,000. Hearings are scheduled to begin before the SCC June 13.

Falls Church Wins Schools Control

Judge C. G. Quesenbery of Waynesboro, in Fairfax Circuit Court, said Fairfax County, which has run the schools since 1942, must yield control to Falls Church.

He told both sides that if they can't get together on the financial terms they could take the case to court again.

In his verdict, Judge Quesenbery ruled the act of the 1942 Virginia General Assembly which formalized transfer of the Falls Church schools to Fairfax County was unconstitutional.

He said the act violated that section of the Virginia constitution which provides that school systems be set up on a separate county and city basis. Falls Church became a city last August 16.

He ruled that under Chapter 35 of the Virginia Code, when a town becomes a city it automatically is entitled to its own school district.

Falls Church City Attorney LaRue Van Meter said that in his opinion the city should simply assume the bonded indebtedness of the four schools.

Fairfax Commonwealth's Attorney Hugh Marsh made no comment except to say that any appeal would first have to be approved by the County Board of Supervisors.

Delicate Theme Is Overwhelmed

By Richard L. Coe

THE WARNER'S "Night Unto Night" is about a man with epilepsy who falls in love with a widow who thinks she hears her husband's voice in his antique-filled home on a Florida beach.

Needless to say, the proceedings are dark, dour and romantic. Ronald Reagan and Viveca Lindfors are the stars of this film, which might have been quite persuasive with more delicate, perceptive handling. As it stands, it's overblown and pretentious.

"Night Unto Night" was completed several years ago and has just been released by Warner Brothers. It is adapted from a Philip Wylie novel, but how faithful Kathryn Scola's screen play is to the original outline I do not know.

However, it is filled with just the phony tricks and artificial reasonings that Wylie is attacking when his typewriter isn't busy with novels. From this film, Wylie seems to be one of those split personality people who, in his nonfiction diatribes, writes against what his own fiction represents.

The girl, admirably played by Miss Lindfors, lives with the thoughts of her dead husband. She rents his house to a biochemist, acted by Reagan, who realizes her tragic inability to face the present, but whose own illness, the dreaded epilepsy, keeps him from declaring his love to her.

This might have been the substantial basis for a tender, engrossing romance, but instead of settling on this simple, delicate theme, the film's makers have rigged up extraneous people and situations which have nothing to do with the essential story.

Miss Lindfors Fine

They introduce a predatory sister of the heroine, flashily played by Osa Massen, who gets in the way. They assume that the otherwise intelligent young man would not discuss his problem with the girl he loves. As a scientist, he is made to state that he has no belief in the spiritual to an artist who believes in the opposite; anyone who has known both types can recognize this as a lazy cliche. The climax is reached during a hurricane threat, which evidently frightens a servant, another stock situation of which Critic Wylie would be contemptuous.

As for the epilepsy angle, though it gives the illusion of being treated openly, the general effect is more satisfying and more sensational than a more simple, less shadowy treatment would have been.

Apart from the fundamentally promising premise, what sincerity there is in "Night Unto Night" stems from Miss Lindfors, who appears to have given up her Hollywood career after a series of less demanding parts. Reagan is natural as ever, though his work lacks the depth of the star's. Broderick Crawford plays the painter who utters some lofty cliches that evidently are supposed to be Novelist Wylie's alter egos, and Rosemary De Camp is a healthy, sensible type as his wife. Director Don Siegel hasn't been exactly inspired in piecing things together.

"NIGHT UNTO NIGHT." Warner Brothers' release produced by Owen Crump. Screen play by Kathryn Scola from a novel by Philip Wylie. Photographed by Reverall Marley. Music by Franz Waxman. Directed by Don Siegel. At the Warner.

Jefferson Davis' 141st Birthday To Be Observed

The 141st birthday of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, will be observed today with ceremonies at the Capitol, and a dinner in the Burlington Hotel.

Before the Davis statue in Statuary Hall, Representative John Rankin (D., Miss.) will be the principal speaker at a gathering at 11 a. m. Members of Confederate patriotic groups will place wreaths. Miss Liza Carpenter, head of the District of Columbia division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will preside.

Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) will be principal speaker at the dinner.

Raft Movie Only Weak Spot On Lengthy Bill at Capitol

By Orval Hopkins

A GEORGE RAFT movie called "Outpost in Morocco" is the only real weak spot on the new bill at the Capitol, and zowie!, you might say, what a weak spot.

The choicest item to this uncultured view on the rest of the program is Kay DeWitt singing "Some Enchanted Evening." Miss DeWitt treats the song as if it were built for her.

The rest of the live show at the Capitol features Dave Apollon, the musician, with some pretty girls; Milton Douglas and a lady cohort who says, "I have the skin of a young girl." To which Milt cracks, "Well you ought to give it back. You're getting it all wrinkled." This was, I think, the cleanest joke Douglas threw. The "original" Maxine, a girl who sang some songs from "South Pacific" (seems everybody's doing it), and the Sherwoods, some more of those impossible acrobatic stunts, are also present.

The movie is about the French Foreign Legion, a fact which I'm sure will astonish nobody. Raft, who might charitably be described as the Great Stone Face, gives his usual nothing-at-all performance, principally abetted by Akim Tamiroff and an actress named Marie Windsor. Raft is supposed to be the dashing young captain who gets the girl—daughter, of course, of a desert tribesman. And Tamiroff is supposed to be the bumbling, lovable underling who dies nobly in battle. Some Hollywood genius with a flair for the meretricious has the girl die in battle, so Raft is stuck with Tamiroff, an/or vice versa.

Newsreel Editorializing

It's a pretty tiresome movie. The first four times you see Raft he is wearing a different outfit. I don't object to this quick-change aspect of things, but one might reasonably expect some new raiment to help Raft's spirit. Clothes make the man, and all that. It doesn't, though.

At one point Raft fingers a coin the lady is wearing on her wrist and says it looks like real gold. "In fact," he flashes, "everything about you looks real." I don't like to think what Grisly George meant by that. Later on, Raft takes to flipping the coin up and down in his fingers, just as he was doing when you first saw him, many moons ago. Raft is a surpassing coin flipper.

The newsreel is again interesting for a free portion of editorializing you get, supplied by Ed Thorgersen. There are some shots of David Lilienthal appearing in the Atomic Energy Commission business on the Hill. Then you get a library shot of the gigantic eruption caused when the bomb goes off, with Thorgersen bellowing like mad in the background. I got the idea that Ed thought Lilienthal guilty as Hickenlooper and was prepared to brook no nonsense about letting the customers decide for themselves.

Some Days It Doesn't Pay to Get Up

The city desk has just turned over to me a letter which begins:

"Gentlemen — I do not read your paper, but I have been told that you have a very fine pet column which has great success in finding homes for stray kittens."

Let this be a lesson to aspiring journalists. You work diligently for a great number of years and then (with luck) you become known as the "Stray Cat Editor."

BOYS WILL BE BOYS

Col. C. A. Seoane of 2819 Q st. nw. owns a 4-acre plot of ground off Lee hwy., near Falls Church, which he has turned over to a group of model airplane enthusiasts.

About 45 boys, ranging in age from 8 to 18, are having a big time there with their model planes, and at 10 a. m. this Sunday they'll hold their first Eastern States Boys Model Meet (with the help of the Falls Church City Fathers and the local VFW post).

IRWIN

The reason the boys are so enthusiastic about Colonel Seoane's letting them use the field for this meet is that they finally have a chance to compete against each other without a bunch of old men horning in.

Model planes have become so popular lately that what started out as a kid's game is now serious stuff with the grownups.

So these lads have decreed an age limit of 20—and for once, their dads will have to remain on the sidelines.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Half-scottie, half-beagle; female, 3 months old." (Temple 2639.)

"Two female alley kittens, 7 weeks old; their mother is the most intelligent cat in the world." (Owens 3069.)

"Six beautiful puppies; part cocker, part fox terrier; 1 month old." (Woodley 2875.)

"Toy collie, male; 3 months old." (Glebe 0183.)

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Do you remember the twins you wrote about—one of whom managed to make West Point while the other didn't?

I think if you asked all your readers to send in a postcard to their Congressmen or sign a petition we might get the other twin an appointment, too.

I, for one, would like to see the other boy get into the Point. The Army can't afford to lose good looking boys like that.

Felicity Heath
1305 S. Quincy st.
Arlington, Va.

Dear Felicity:

Relax. My spies tell me that there is now a good chance that the twins will enter West Point together.

Bill

P. S. What's this about the good looks? Does a guy have to be pretty to know how to shoot straight?

WE GOT TANGLED UP IN HIS FEET

Charles Lewis of 1321 M st. nw. is amused by the wire service dispatch we carried on the arrest of a lazy lettercarrier who failed to deliver all his mail. At one point in the story, the dispatch read:

"He explained that his feet got tired, so he took some of them home, fully intending to deliver them later on."

ONE-WEEK SPECIAL

Jack Ashley of 2604 Lee blvd., Arlington, Va., got a chuckle out of his laundryman the other day.

It seems that the laundry put out printed notices prior to Memorial Day. They read:

"Owing to the holiday, I will call for your next bundle on Thursday. Your cooperation will enable us to give better service."

GOVERNMENT ISSUE

Frank Kelley of 1831 Belmont rd. nw. lifts a quizzical eyebrow at the recent headline: "Lost GI Baby Saved From Death."

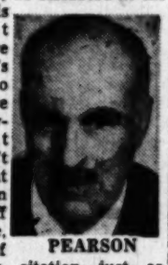
Truman Rewrites Clay Citation

By Drew Pearson

When President Truman received a copy of the Army's proposed citation honoring Gen. Lucius D. Clay, he scribbled at the bottom: "This is the poorest thing I have ever read. It's asinine. Who wrote t? I have rewritten it myself." What Truman didn't know was that it was written in Chief of Staff Bradley's office, with the idea of making Clay's citation just as laudatory as General Eisenhower's . . . The two members of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee who are trying to reimpose military control are: Representative Cole of New York and Representative Elston of Ohio — both Republicans . . . Congressman Van Zandt of Pennsylvania, the Naval Reserve officer who has been blasting the Air Force, complains privately that when naval officers come to give him ammunition against the Air Force, they must wear civilian clothes or else meet him around the corner . . . Army and Navy Intelligence are busy tapping telephones again. Even Admiral Louis Denfeld, highest ranking naval officer, complains his phone isn't safe . . . The thoroughbred Arab colt donated to the J. Edgar Hoover Foundation by the Sycamore Arabian Stud Farm, Midlothian, Ill., is a great-grandson of Nureddin II, which won the title of world champion. The colt wil be auctioned off by this radio commentator Sunday night . . . Charming Secretary of Commerce Sawyer seems to be working against President Truman's famous "Point 4," which provides for help to backward areas.



PEARSON

Why Soviets Frown

Tipoff on the mysterious closing of the Soviet consulate in Shanghai when the Communists marched in: The Chinese Communists won't set up a new central government until August, at which time they are trying to get a coalition of Communists and non-Communists, including leading elements in the Chiang Kai-shek dominated Kuomintang . . . The Russians don't like this . . . But British-American diplomats are secretly urging such a coalition, and have indicated to Mao Tse-tung, head of the Chinese Communists, that he will get United States-British recognition if he includes a segment of the old Chinese government in his cabinet.

Johnson Crossfire

Louis Johnson, new, dynamic Secretary of Defense, is caught in a more deadly crossfire than most people realize — more withering than any Cabinet officer in recent years has faced. The former forces that ruled the Pentagon, including the Dillon, Read crowd, are out to get him. Many of Jim Forrestal's old friends consider Johnson responsible for Forrestal's forced resignation. In addition, some of the professional procurement men who didn't like Johnson's speech about eliminating commissions are sniping. Finally, the Navy has unloosed its big guns. The Navy figures that if it doesn't make a monkey out of Johnson first, he will relegate it to third place in the national defense order of importance—after the Air Force and the Army. Republicans are buying grandstand seats for the threering fight.

Wheat Disease

Agriculture Department inspectors are worried about the mysterious wheat disease slowly spreading across the wheat belt, but so far they have no remedy. The disease is caused by a virus carried on a plant louse, and spread by the wind. The symptoms are yellowing, stunting, and killing of the plants. Nothing can be done to stop the disease this year, but Agriculture urges farmers to harvest the diseased wheat and salvage what they can.

G. I.-Brass Hat Pay

The unexpected defeat of the military pay raise bill was engineered by two tenacious freshmen legislators, who outmaneuvered not only the military lobby pushing the bill, but the most skillful floor general of the House—Carl Vinson of Georgia.

The two freshmen are Representatives Foster Furcolo of Massachusetts, and Pat Sutton of Tennessee, both Democrats. As debate opened the odds against them seemed insurmountable. The able gentleman from Georgia hadn't lost a major legislative battle in his 35 years in Congress. Also, his Armed Services Committee had approved the pay hike unanimously.

But the two freshmen kept fighting, almost alone at first, then gradually winning adherents as they opposed Vinson's claims that the legislation was "fair to all." (It favored top officers at the expense of lower grades.)

The House agreed. When the votes were counted on a motion to recommit the pay bill, Sutton and Furcolo had won their uphill battle, 227 to 163.
